Reds Retreat To Escape Battle

Angry Policy Debate Rings Out In Senate

GOP, Demos Hurl 'War Party' Charge

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Angry debate rang out in the Senate tonight over the Truman-MacArthur issue, with Democrats and Republicans hurling the label "war party" at each other in a running argument that brought tempers to the boiling point.

Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) touched off the uproar by charging that Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and some of his GOP colleagues are trying to "sabatage the bipartisan foreign policy and in doing so have demonstrated that the Republican Party is the war party."

"They either seek or carelessly risk expanding the Korean conflict into an all-out war with Red China in the mire and jungles of continental Asia," the Oklahoman shouted. Taft has denied advocating the use of U. S. troops to invade the Chinese mainland. He has spoken in favor of letting Chinese Nationalist troops fight the Reds.

Republicans interrupted Kerr with a steady cross-fire of questions and objections.

Kerr Called "Wind Bag"

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, called Kerr "that big wind bag from Oklahoma" after Kerr referred to GOP activities as a "Wherry-go-around."

At one point, Wherry and Kerr talked loudly and at the same time for several moments. Wherry sat down first, asserting: "You're the first man I ever met I couldn't outshout."

As the debate raged, Sen. Cain (R-Wash) introduced a resolution calling on Congress to declare war against Communist China and North Korea. At the same time he offered another resolution favoring an "orderly withdrawal" of U. S. troops from Korea.

Cain told the senate that these are the two courses open to the United States and that one or the other should be followed.

In New York, Sen. Duff (R-Pa) said the country now is "on a tremendous emotional binge" as a result of MacArthur's dismissal when it ought to be concentrating calmly on protecting itself against Russia's growing military might.

Bradley Backs Truman

Today, with suspense mounting as the deposed General flew here by easy stages from Tokyo and got a conquering hero's welcome en route, there were these developments:

1—The Senate's Republican Policy Committee resoundingly called for a two-house, all embracing investigation of U. S. policies in the Far East and elsewhere. There was immediate opposition from some Democrats. Such an inquiry would compare in scope to the Pearl Harbor investigation after World War II.

Stuart Symington Agrees To Boss Revamped RFC

Probers Will Check Legislators' Letters

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman tonight named W. Stuart Symington as the one-man boss of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It was the President's first step in reoragnizing the huge government lending agency, which has been under the fire of a Senate investigating committee for several months. The committee asserted that a clique with contacts in the White House exerted influence on RFC lending operations.

Symington accepted the new post and will take over from the RFC's five-man board of directors April 30. He is a long-time lieutenant of Mr. Truman's, and is now chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

Inquiry Is Ordered

Shortly before his appointment was announced by the White House, the Senate Banking Committee ordered a special inquiry to determine whether any members of Congress have sold their influence to persons seeking RFC loans.

Some members of Congress want to abolish the RFC. Hearings on the question will be opened by the Senate Banking Committee next week.

The inquiry ordered by the committee today goes back to a series of recorded telephone conversations Mr. Truman had with Sen. Tobey (R-NH) some weeks ago. Tobey said the President told him he had information that some members of Congress received fees in connection with RFC loans, but that later Mr. Truman withdrew the charge, saying he had no evidence to support it.

Fulbright Heads Probe

But the Banking Committee decided to check up anyway. At a closed session today it agreed unanimously to have a subcommittee headed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) make an investigation.

The first step, Sen. Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the full committee, said, will be an examination of about 800 letters written by Congressmen to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Allied Tanks Deeply Probe Enemy Lines

General Communist Pullback Indicated

TOKYO, Wednesday, April 18 (AP) —Chinese Reds were reported pulling back in North Korea today to escape battles with tank-led Allied probing forces. The tanks were stabbing deep inside enemy lines.

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said there were signs of a general withdrawal on the western front. The communists also fell back in the mountainous center.

One American tank-powered unit went 15 miles north of the 38th parallel Tuesday to the vicinity of Chigyong. The patrol killed 100 Chinese during a bold expedition inside Red lines within seven miles of Kumhwa and Chorwon.

Those are two of three big Red bases on which strong United Nations forces clamped a squeeze.

The Allied advances since Sunday had been handicapped by man-made fires set by Reds seeking to screen their movements with smoke. Today's dispatches said the smoke clouds were lessening.

Allies Grab Hill Positions

Eighth Army headquarters estimated that 1,515 Reds were killed or wounded in ground action Tuesday.

In the main action of the day, strong Allied units grabbed valuable hill positions near Chorwon, western gateway to a 60-square-mile zone where possibly as many as 500,000 Reds may be concentrated.

A heavily-censored field dispatch said Allied troops "gained a foothold on the last heights remaining south of the Red-held city," 17 miles north of the 38th parallel.

Chorwon has been hammered from the air and pounded by long range artillery into rubble, but it controls five roadways.

A tank-infantry task force drove on Kumhwa along a main highway on the central front. It was a second powerful thrust at a Red base 18 miles east of Chorwon.

Censorship did not permit locating progress of the tanks and foot soldiers. Field dispatches said they bumped into resistance from 250 Chinese troops and killed 50 of them.

War Reporters Get Scare

The third Red base threatened by the advancing Allies was Yonchon, seven miles north of the 38th parallel. Allied troops held high points all around the town but have not entered. Yonchon is 13 miles southwest of Chorwon.

Two partol-size thrusts to seize the western end of the big 275-foot high power dam at Hwachon reservoir to the east were repulsed by Chinese mortar and automatic weapon fire.

Several Allied patrols probed the Hwachon area in the center of the 150-mile long front. Some reported no opposition.

Nine American correspondents reached Hwachon reservoir dam under the impression it was in Allied hands. They were mistaken. An enemy machine-gunner pinned them down for an hour, then forced them to run for their lives.

One of the nine was AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw who said after the escape, "we're the nine luckiest guys on the face of the earth."

Parents Balk At Blood Transfusion

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — Sen. Cain (R-Wash) today introduced a resolution calling on Congress to declare war against Communist China and North Korea.

At the same time, he offered another resolution calling for "an orderly withdrawal" of U. S. forces from Korea.

Cain said he offered his resolutions as "two alternatives to the free world and to the United States of America." He added:

"These resolutions, when reduced to their fundamental purpose, provide that we either prosecute the Korean war with all of the might, determination and power at our command or that we withdraw our forces from a battlefield some 8,000 miles away in order that these forces may live to fight, if required, but with purpose, some other day.

"These resolutions are an encouragement for America and her allies to either put up, if all of us wish to support the mission which was given to the free forces in Korea last June, or to shut up, if the free forces are now of the opinion that their collective effort is inadequate and insufficient to carry out their mission."

Cain made it clear he was acting alone, without approval or disapproval of Republicans. He appealed also for support of independents and Democrats.

In the declaration of war resolution Cain said the President should be directed to "employ the entire military and naval forces of the United States and the resources of the government" against North Korea and the Chinese Communist regime.

Under the resolution, Congress would pledge all of the nation's resources to bring the war to "a successful termination."

West Offers New Big 4 Proposals

PARIS, April 17 (AP)—U. S. Delegate Philip Jessup submitted new Western proposals to the four-power deputies conference today. Soviet Deputy Andrei Gromyko said they were a "step forward," but did not seem to go far enough toward shaping an agenda for a foreign ministers' meeting.

Gromyko "did not reject them out of hand," a Western official reported. "He criticized them, said he would have more to say about them and then said at first examination they would appear not to go far enough."

Jessup's proposals were offered at the first session of the seventh week of the Paris talks. They were submitted following the visit to Washington to Charles E. Bohlen, an advisor to the American delegation, and a trip to London by W. I. Mallet, a British advisor.

Jessup's suggestions consisted chiefly of technical changes in agenda proposals already submitted.

PORT-JOINVILLE, ILE D'YEU, France, April 17 (AP)—Ailing former Marshal Henri-Philippe Petain whose 95th birthday is next week, suffered a relapse tonight. New fears were expressed for his life.

Sunken British Sub Located; Some Of 75 Crewmen Alive

Found In Channel At Depth Of 198 Feet

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Wednesday, April 18 (AP)—The British submarine Affray, missing since Monday night in the English Channel, was found at the bottom of the sea today and the Admiralty said at least some of its 75 men were alive.

Supersonic telegraph messages intercepted by several submarines among the fleet of 25 vessels participating in the search led to the discovery of the submarine early this morning.

The Admiralty said the Affray was stuck to the bottom of the sea at a depth of 33 fathoms (198 feet just southwest of the Isle of Wight in the English Channel.

It was the same spot at which the big submarine, built for service in the Pacific, went down Monday at the start of what was to have been a training cruise.

Shallow Enough For Divers

Rescue crews ordered to converge on the area said the site was shallow enough to permit divers to descend to the sunken sub.

The rescue crews said the use of supersonic telegraphy indicated the Affray's control room was not flooded.

Ships and planes of four nations took part in the search for the Affray after the Admiralty announced yesterday that the sub had failed to report its whereabouts.

American, French and Belgian naval vessels joined with British ships crisscrossing the English Channel throughout last night.

The Affray, a submarine of 1,200 tons, normally would carry a crew of 60, but its crew was augmented for the training cruise by sailors and marines from a submarine training school.

Messages Intercepted

The British submarine Sea Devil reported the first word from the Affray early in the morning. But the Sea Devil said the supersonic telegraph messages were too faint to be understood. Other submarines in the area then reported they, too, had intercepted the message. After several messages were tapped out by someone aboard the Affray, they were deciphered.

An expert at the Admiralty said the Affray possibly could remain on the bottom of the sea without harm to her crew for 40 hours unless she was badly damaged. She now has been submerged almost 30 hours.

Gunman Escapes With $5,000 After Baltimore Holdup

BALTIMORE, April 17 (AP)—A lone gunman who waved his weapon like a baton held seven employes of a loan office at bay today and escaped with about $5,000.

Victims of the holdup said the tall, blond bandit went from one spot to another in the State Finance Company offices rounding them up. He waved his foreign make automatic pistol with threatening gestures to back up his orders.

Company officials said the gunman stuffed a wad of bills into his pocket and ran out the door. They estimated their loss at $5,000.

U. N. Asian-Arab Bloc To Discuss Red Peace "Bid"

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 17 (AP)—The Asian-Arab group in the United Nations will meet tomorrow to consider a North Korean peace feeler and "other developments" in the Korean situation.

Plans for the meeting were disclosed tonight by India's Sir Benegal N. Rau as some Eastern European quarters described the message from the North Koreans as a serious bid for peace talks.

At the same time unconfirmed reports circulated in diplomatic circles that Rau had received a new communication from the Chinese Communists. Rau denied this, but other sources close to the Asian-Arab bloc said Rau was expected to read the new Peiping message at tomorrow's meeting.

One member of the group, Mahmoud Fawzi Bey of Egypt, used the expression "other developments" in referring to the meeting. He declined to amplify this.

Commenting on the North Korean cable, Rau said he was not sure whether it was worth following up. He said, however, that this would be discussed tomorrow.

The North Koreans sent their long message yesterday to the president of the Assembly and the president of the Security Council. Persons who have seen the text said it contained only one demand—that the U. N. insure the settlement of the Korean question in conformity with decisions of the Red-backed world peace council in Berlin last February.

These decisions asked the U. N. to revoke its Feb. 1 resolution branding Red China an aggressor in Korea and then called for a conference of all countries concerned.

"MacArthur Day" Address Called Off By Truman

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman stepped aside for Gen. Douglas MacArthur today. He called off a speech he had planned to make shortly after MacArthur's world-awaited address to a joint meeting of Congress at 12:30 p. m. (EST) Thursday.

The President didn't want to detract from "Gen. Douglas MacArthur's day," the White House explained.

And so the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which Mr. Truman had planned to address at 2 p. m. (EST) Thursday, will watch MacArthur on television instead.

WSB To Handle Labor Disputes Recommended

Labor View Upheld By Advisory Board

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman's mobilization advisory board today overruled its industry members and proposed a new Wage Stabilization Board to handle major labor disputes.

By Vote of 12 to 4, the advisory board recommended that President Truman immediately set up an 18-man board to dispose of the scores of wage disputes which have been piling up since the first board was scuttled Feb. 16.

Labor members had walked off the board at that time in protest over the 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases.

Labor Boycott May End

Should the President act on the recommendation — and if industry agrees to sit on the board—the long boycott by labor over the whole mobilization program may be ended. Labor members walked out of all the defense agencies Feb. 28 saying that "big business" was dominating the show.

The labor chiefs did not say whether settlement of the Wage Stabilization Board issue would send them back into the half-dozen defense agencies which they quit.

Neither would management representatives say immediately whether they would participate in a new wage board established in the manner proposed by the labor, public, and argiculture representatives on the mobilization advisory board.

Many Offers Proposed

Under the proposal, offered to the advisory group today by AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, disputes would be handled:

1. Where the parties to such agree to submit it to the board.

2. Where the President is of the opinion that the dispute "substantially threatens the progress of national defense."

When a dispute was certified to the board by the President, the board would recommend a settlement. In any case where the parties agreed to be bound, the board could issue a final decision.

Fire Levels Repair Shop At Fort Meade

FORT MEADE, Md. April 17 (AP)—Fire destroyed the big quartermaster repair shop on this military reservation tonight.

Within a few minutes after it was first noticed, the fire was racing through the whole length of the frame building.

Flames broke through the roof, lighting a wide area.

Volunteer fire companies from nearby communities were called to the scene to help the post firefighters.

A Second Army spokesman said "the fire took about 30 minutes to wreck the whole building."

What started the fire and just what was in the repair shop at the time was not determined immediately.

San Francisco Gives General Wild Welcome

"Good To Be Home," Soldier Hero Says

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived home tonight to a riotous welcome that almost became a mob scene when he stepped from his plane, the Bataan.

Spectators, newsmen and photographers broke through greeting lines and swarmed around the General in a tumultuous welcome that almost swamped the ceremonies at the airport.

MacArthur's plane bringing him home for the first time in 14 years touched the runway at 8:29 p. m. PST (11:29 EST) after a flight of eight hours 59 minutes from Hawaii.

With deep feeling, MacArthur told the airport crowd of nearly 10,000:

"I cannot tell you how good it is to be home. In these long, long dreary years, Mrs. MacArthur and I talked and thought about home. We appreciate your marvelous hospitality and this great reception. We will not forget it."

Wears Familiar Cap

The crowd crushed around the MacArthurs as soon as they came down the ramp of the plane, and the General stepped on the soil of his homeland at 8:33 p. m. PST.

He wore his familiar gold-braided cap, and a trench coat buttoned high around his neck. Mrs. MacArthur wore a purple dress and young Arthur wore a maroon jacket with fur collar.

As the plane rolled to a halt before the crowd, a woman's high piercing scream was heard. A baby's thin wail rose about the shouting, and there was pandemonium.

MacArthur's review of the honor guard was virtually a running mob scene. Guns boomed a 17-gun salute.

Officers and friends formed a tight circle around Mrs. MacArthur and young Arthur to keep them from being crushed. Lt. Col. Anthony Story, MacArthur's pilot, held Arthur in his arms to shield the wide-eyed boy.

MacArthur will spend tonight at the St. Francis Hotel resting for the big celebration scheduled tomorrow.

Downtown San Francisco is expected to be jammed for the hour-long parade which will start at 9:45 a. m., PST (12:45 p. m., EST) from the St. Francis and end at the Civic Center.

In this ride in an open car, the General will show himself to his countrymen on the mainland for the first time since he left the United States in 1937.

Warren To Welcome General

He will be welcomed at the Civic Center by California's Gov. Earl Warren and San Francisco's Mayor Elmer Robinson. After a brief reply, MacArthur will go directly to the airport for a non-stop flight to Washington and the climax of his homecoming—a speech to Congress on Thursday.

This will be the General's big day —his chance to explain the policies which he believes hold the best chance for peace in Asia. These call for opening aerial warfare against China and Manchuria and using Chinese Nationalist troops against the Red China mainland.

Bradley Backs Truman Policies

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley spoke out today against Gen. MacArthur's suggestions that the Korean war be extended to China.

Bradley was the first of MacArthur's fellow five-star military men to raise his voice publicly against the proposals since MacArthur was ousted from his Far East posts last week by President Truman.

Gen. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did not mention MacArthur's name. But he said:

"There is little immediate danger of this country being over-run—but our way of life, our freedom and our nation have the best chances for survival by keeping peace in the world.

"This is the over-riding consideration of our national foreign and military policies. Any recommended course of action which would enlarge the present war is contrary to our best interests, and by jeopardizing world peace, ultimately would threaten our security."

Bradley spoke at the convention of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters. The section of his address opposing expansion of the Korean fighting was in direct conflict with MacArthur's views on that subject.

Judge Wroth As Stripper, 13, Becomes Bride Of Man, 23

NEW ORLEANS, April 17 (AP)—A 13-year-old stripteaser married her 23-year-old lover and a juvenile court judge threatened a lawyer and minister with court action today for engineering it.

The marriage, in defiance of the judge, took place in the judge's own office.

Edward James Haley, Jr., 23 and the petite, teen-aged red-haired French Quarter performer were arrested March 9 in a Bourbon Street night spot where she stripped and danced.

The girl, whose name was withheld by authorities, was charged with being a juvenile delinquent and the man was charged with carnal knowledge of an unmarried felmale under 17 years old.

Police said both Haley and the girl admitted to them they had lived together as man and wife at several New Orleans addresses.

A request by Maurice Gatlin, attorney for the girl, for permission for the couple to marry was denied by Juvenile Judge Leo Blessing.

Louisiana law forbids marriage of any girl under 17 years of age.

When the case came up for hearing last Thursday, Gatlan asked permission for a private conference with the girl in the judge's chambers. Judge Blessing consented.

A few minutes later Gatlin told the judge the couple had just been married in the judge's office by the Rev. Phillip Pallotta. He moved for a dismissal of the case on the grounds the judge lacked jurisdiction over a married woman.

"I do (have jurisdiction) if they are juvenile," Judge Blessing asserted, and ordered the girl returned to the juvenile detention home.

Missing Accordion Star Is Reported In Sanitorium

LOS ANGELES, April 17 (AP)—Attorney Gerald Kales said tonight he will surrender Accordionist Dick Contino to federal authorities tomorrow morning.

Contino, 20, who vanished on the eve of his induction into the Army, faces charges of draft evasion.

Kales said the information that Contino would surrender came from "a member of the family," whom he declined to identify. The lawyer said he does not have "the faintest idea" where the $4,000-a-week musician is now.

A Selective Service spokesman disclosed that Contino had submitted reports from three psychiatrists that he is suffering from certain phobias. Nevertheless, he was ordered to Ft. Ord, near Monterey, Calif., last week. He disappeared from there Friday.

The Los Angeles Mirror said today that Contino is in a sanitarium in Southern California. It wouldn't say where. His car was parked in the driveway of his home in nearby Glendale. But a friend of the family insisted Contino was not there. The door was closed to inquiring reporters.

Chorwon has been hammered from the air and pounded by long range artillery into rubble, but it controls five roadways.

A tank-infantry task force drove on Kumhwa along a main highway on the central front. It was a second powerful thrust at a Red base 18 miles east of Chorwon.

Censorship did not permit locating progress of the tanks and foot soldiers. Field dispatches said they bumped into resistance from 250 Chinese troops and killed 50 of them.

War Reporters Get Scare

The third Red base threatened by the advancing Allies was Yonchon, seven miles north of the 38th parallel. Allied troops held high points all around the town but have not entered. Yonchon is 13 miles southwest of Chorwon.

Two partol-size thrusts to seize the western end of the big 275-foot high power dam at Hwachon reservoir to the east were repulsed by Chinese mortar and automatic weapon fire.

Several Allied patrols probed the Hwachon area in the center of the 150-mile long front. Some reported no opposition.

Nine American correspondents reached Hwachon reservoir dam under the impression it was in Allied hands. They were mistaken. An enemy machine-gunner pinned them down for an hour, then forced them to run for their lives.

One of the nine was AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw who said after the escape, "we're the nine luckiest guys on the face of the earth."

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell LaBrenz (right), Chicago, have refused to approve a blood transfusion to save the life of their six-day-old daughter, Cheryl, pictured at left with Nurse Augusta Jankowski, on grounds it is against their religious teachings as members of Jehovah's Witnesses. Cain Offers 'War Or Quit' Resolutions

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — Sen. Cain (R-Wash) today introduced a resolution calling on Congress to declare war against Communist China and North Korea.

At the same time, he offered another resolution calling for "an orderly withdrawal" of U. S. forces from Korea.

Cain said he offered his resolutions as "two alternatives to the free world and to the United States of America." He added:

"These resolutions, when reduced to their fundamental purpose, provide that we either prosecute the Korean war with all of the might, determination and power at our command or that we withdraw our forces from a battlefield some 8,000 miles away in order that these forces may live to fight, if required, but with purpose, some other day.

"These resolutions are an encouragement for America and her allies to either put up, if all of us wish to support the mission which was given to the free forces in Korea last June, or to shut up, if the free forces are now of the opinion that their collective effort is inadequate and insufficient to carry out their mission."

Cain made it clear he was acting alone, without approval or disapproval of Republicans. He appealed also for support of independents and Democrats.

In the declaration of war resolution Cain said the President should be directed to "employ the entire military and naval forces of the United States and the resources of the government" against North Korea and the Chinese Communist regime.

Under the resolution, Congress would pledge all of the nation's resources to bring the war to "a successful termination."

West Offers New Big 4 Proposals

PARIS, April 17 (AP)—U. S. Delegate Philip Jessup submitted new Western proposals to the four-power deputies conference today. Soviet Deputy Andrei Gromyko said they were a "step forward," but did not seem to go far enough toward shaping an agenda for a foreign ministers' meeting.

Gromyko "did not reject them out of hand," a Western official reported. "He criticized them, said he would have more to say about them and then said at first examination they would appear not to go far enough."

Jessup's proposals were offered at the first session of the seventh week of the Paris talks. They were submitted following the visit to Washington to Charles E. Bohlen, an advisor to the American delegation, and a trip to London by W. I. Mallet, a British advisor.

Jessup's suggestions consisted chiefly of technical changes in agenda proposals already submitted.

Found In Channel At Depth Of 198 Feet

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Wednesday, April 18 (AP)—The British submarine Affray, missing since Monday night in the English Channel, was found at the bottom of the sea today and the Admiralty said at least some of its 75 men were alive.

Supersonic telegraph messages intercepted by several submarines among the fleet of 25 vessels participating in the search led to the discovery of the submarine early this morning.

The Admiralty said the Affray was stuck to the bottom of the sea at a depth of 33 fathoms (198 feet just southwest of the Isle of Wight in the English Channel.

It was the same spot at which the big submarine, built for service in the Pacific, went down Monday at the start of what was to have been a training cruise.

Shallow Enough For Divers

Rescue crews ordered to converge on the area said the site was shallow enough to permit divers to descend to the sunken sub.

The rescue crews said the use of supersonic telegraphy indicated the Affray's control room was not flooded.

Ships and planes of four nations took part in the search for the Affray after the Admiralty announced yesterday that the sub had failed to report its whereabouts.

American, French and Belgian naval vessels joined with British ships crisscrossing the English Channel throughout last night.

The Affray, a submarine of 1,200 tons, normally would carry a crew of 60, but its crew was augmented for the training cruise by sailors and marines from a submarine training school.

Messages Intercepted

The British submarine Sea Devil reported the first word from the Affray early in the morning. But the Sea Devil said the supersonic telegraph messages were too faint to be understood. Other submarines in the area then reported they, too, had intercepted the message. After several messages were tapped out by someone aboard the Affray, they were deciphered.

An expert at the Admiralty said the Affray possibly could remain on the bottom of the sea without harm to her crew for 40 hours unless she was badly damaged. She now has been submerged almost 30 hours.

Gunman Escapes With $5,000 After Baltimore Holdup

BALTIMORE, April 17 (AP)—A lone gunman who waved his weapon like a baton held seven employes of a loan office at bay today and escaped with about $5,000.

Victims of the holdup said the tall, blond bandit went from one spot to another in the State Finance Company offices rounding them up. He waved his foreign make automatic pistol with threatening gestures to back up his orders.

Company officials said the gunman stuffed a wad of bills into his pocket and ran out the door. They estimated their loss at $5,000.

U. N. Asian-Arab Bloc To Discuss Red Peace "Bid"

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 17 (AP)—The Asian-Arab group in the United Nations will meet tomorrow to consider a North Korean peace feeler and "other developments" in the Korean situation.

Plans for the meeting were disclosed tonight by India's Sir Benegal N. Rau as some Eastern European quarters described the message from the North Koreans as a serious bid for peace talks.

At the same time unconfirmed reports circulated in diplomatic circles that Rau had received a new communication from the Chinese Communists. Rau denied this, but other sources close to the Asian-Arab bloc said Rau was expected to read the new Peiping message at tomorrow's meeting.

One member of the group, Mahmoud Fawzi Bey of Egypt, used the expression "other developments" in referring to the meeting. He declined to amplify this.

Commenting on the North Korean cable, Rau said he was not sure whether it was worth following up. He said, however, that this would be discussed tomorrow.

The North Koreans sent their long message yesterday to the president of the Assembly and the president of the Security Council. Persons who have seen the text said it contained only one demand—that the U. N. insure the settlement of the Korean question in conformity with decisions of the Red-backed world peace council in Berlin last February.

These decisions asked the U. N. to revoke its Feb. 1 resolution branding Red China an aggressor in Korea and then called for a conference of all countries concerned.

Judge Wroth As Stripper, 13, Becomes Bride Of Man, 23

NEW ORLEANS, April 17 (AP)—A 13-year-old stripteaser married her 23-year-old lover and a juvenile court judge threatened a lawyer and minister with court action today for engineering it.

The marriage, in defiance of the judge, took place in the judge's own office.

Edward James Haley, Jr., 23 and the petite, teen-aged red-haired French Quarter performer were arrested March 9 in a Bourbon Street night spot where she stripped and danced.

The girl, whose name was withheld by authorities, was charged with being a juvenile delinquent, and the man was charged with carnal knowledge of an unmarried felmale under 17 years old.

Police said both Haley and the girl admitted to them they had lived together as man and wife at several New Orleans addresses.

A request by Maurice Gatlin, attorney for the girl, for permission for the couple to marry was denied by Juvenile Judge Leo Blessing.

Louisiana law forbids marriage of any girl under 17 years of age.

When the case came up for hearing last Thursday, Gatlan asked permission for a private conference with the girl in the judge's chambers. Judge Blessing consented.

A few minutes later Gatlin told the judge the couple had just been married in the judge's office by the Rev. Phillip Pallotta. He moved for a dismissal of the case on the grounds the judge lacked jurisdiction over a married woman.

"I do (have jurisdiction) if they are juvenile," Judge Blessing asserted, and ordered the girl returned to the juvenile detention home.

"MacArthur Day" Address Called Off By Truman

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman stepped aside for Gen. Douglas MacArthur today. He called off a speech he had planned to make shortly after MacArthur's world-awaited address to a joint meeting of Congress at 12:30 p. m. (EST) Thursday.

The President didn't want to detract from "Gen. Douglas MacArthur's day," the White House explained.

And so the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which Mr. Truman had planned to address at 2 p. m. (EST) Thursday, will watch MacArthur on television instead.

WSB To Handle Labor Disputes Recommended

Labor Policy Upheld By Advisory Board

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman's mobilization advisory board today overruled its industry members and proposed a new Wage Stabilization Board to handle most labor disputes.

By Vote of 12 to 4, the advisory board recommended that President Truman immediately set up an 18-man board to dispose of the scores of wage disputes which have been piling up since the first board was scuttled Feb. 16.

Labor members had walked off the board at that time in protest over the 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases.

Labor Boycott May End

Should the President act on the recommendation — and if industry agrees to sit on the board—the long boycott by labor over the whole mobilization program may be ended. Labor members walked out of all the defense agencies Feb. 28 saying that "big business" was dominating the show.

The labor chiefs did not say whether settlement of the Wage Stabilization Board issue would send them back into the half-dozen defense agencies which they quit.

Neither would management representatives say immediately whether they would participate in a new wage board established in the manner proposed by the labor, public, and argiculture representatives on the mobilization advisory board.

Many Offers Proposed

Under the proposal, offered to the advisory group today by AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, disputes would be handled:

1. Where the parties to such agree to submit it to the board.

2. Where the President is of the opinion that the dispute "substantially threatens the progress of national defense."

When a dispute was certified to the board by the President, the board would recommend a settlement. In any case where the parties agreed to be bound, the board could issue a final decision.

Fire Levels Repair Shop At Fort Meade

FORT MEADE, Md. April 17 (AP)—Fire destroyed the big quartermaster repair shop on this military reservation tonight.

Within a few minutes after it was first noticed, the fire was racing through the whole length of the frame building.

Flames broke through the roof, lighting a wide area.

Volunteer fire companies from nearby communities were called to the scene to help the post firefighters.

A Second Army spokesman said "the fire took about 30 minutes to wreck the whole building."

What started the fire and just what was in the repair shop at the time was not determined immediately.

Missing Accordion Star Is Reported In Sanitorium

LOS ANGELES, April 17 (AP)—Attorney Gerald Kales said tonight he will surrender Accordionist Dick Contino to federal authorities tomorrow morning.

Contino, 20, who vanished on the eve of his induction into the Army, faces charges of draft evasion.

Kales said the information that Contino would surrender came from "a member of the family," whom he declined to identify. The lawyer said he does not have "the faintest idea" where the $4,000-a-week musician is now.

A Selective Service spokesman disclosed that Contino had submitted reports from three psychiatrists that he is suffering from certain phobias. Nevertheless, he was ordered to Ft. Ord, near Monterey, Calif., last week. He disappeared from there Friday.

The Los Angeles Mirror said today that Contino is in a sanitarium in Southern California. It wouldn't say where. His car was parked in the driveway of his home in nearby Glendale. But a friend of the family insisted Contino was not there. The door was closed to inquiring reporters.

San Francisco Gives General Wild Welcome

"Good To Be Home," Soldier Hero Says

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived home tonight to a riotous welcome that almost became a mob scene when he stepped from his plane, the Bataan.

Spectators, newsmen and photographers broke through greeting lines and swarmed around the General in a tumultuous welcome that almost swamped the ceremonies at the airport.

MacArthur's plane bringing him home for the first time in 14 years touched the runway at 8:29 p. m. PST (11:29 EST) after a flight of eight hours 59 minutes from Hawaii.

With deep feeling, MacArthur told the airport crowd of nearly 10,000:

"I cannot tell you how good it is to be home. In these long, long dreary years, Mrs. MacArthur and I talked and thought about home. We appreciate your marvelous hospitality and this great reception. We will not forget it."

Wears Familiar Cap

The crowd crushed around the MacArthurs as soon as they came down the ramp of the plane, and the General stepped on the soil of his homeland at 8:33 p. m. PST.

He wore his familiar gold-braided cap, and a trench coat buttoned high around his neck. Mrs. MacArthur wore a purple dress and young Arthur wore a maroon jacket with fur collar.

As the plane rolled to a halt before the crowd, a woman's high piercing scream was heard. A baby's thin wail rose about the shouting, and there was pandemonium.

MacArthur's review of the honor guard was virtually a running mob scene. Guns boomed a 17-gun salute.

Officers and friends formed a tight circle around Mrs. MacArthur and young Arthur to keep them from being crushed. Lt. Col. Anthony Story, MacArthur's pilot, held Arthur in his arms to shield the wide-eyed boy.

MacArthur will spend tonight at the St. Francis Hotel resting for the big celebration scheduled tomorrow.

Downtown San Francisco is expected to be jammed for the hour-long parade which will start at 9:45 a. m., PST (12:45 p. m., EST) from the St. Francis and end at the Civic Center.

In this ride in an open car, the General will show himself to his countrymen on the mainland for the first time since he left the United States in 1937.

Warren To Welcome General

He will be welcomed at the Civic Center by California's Gov. Earl Warren and San Francisco's Mayor Elmer Robinson. After a brief reply, MacArthur will go directly to the airport for a non-stop flight to Washington and the climax of his homecoming—a speech to Congress on Thursday.

This will be the General's big day—his chance to explain the policies which he believes hold the best chance for peace in Asia. These call for opening aerial warfare against China and Manchuria and using Chinese Nationalist troops against the Red China mainland.

Bradley Backs Truman Policies

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley spoke out today against Gen. MacArthur's suggestions that the Korean war be extended to China.

Bradley was the first of MacArthur's fellow five-star military men to raise his voice publicly against the proposals since MacArthur was ousted from his Far East posts last week by President Truman.

Gen. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did not mention MacArthur's name. But he said:

"There is little immediate danger of this country being over-run—but our way of life, our freedom and our nation have the best chances for survival by keeping peace in the world.

"This is the over-riding consideration of our national foreign and military policies. Any recommended course of action which would enlarge the present war is contrary to our best interests, and by jeopardizing world peace, ultimately would threaten our security."

Bradley spoke at the convention of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters. The section of his address opposing expansion of the Korean fighting was in direct conflict with MacArthur's views on that subject.

M'ARTHUR RETURNS TO MAINLAND

Reds Retreat To Escape Battle

Angry Policy Debate Rings Out In Senate

GOP, Demos Hurl 'War Party' Charge

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Angry debate rang out in the Senate tonight over the Truman-MacArthur issue, with Democrats and Republicans hurling the label "war party" at each other in a running argument that brought tempers to the boiling point.

Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) touched off the uproar by charging that Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and some of his GOP colleagues are trying to "sabotage the bipartisan foreign policy and in doing so have demonstrated that the Republican Party is the war party."

"They either seek or carelessly risk expanding the Korean conflict into an all-out war with Red China in the mire and jungles of continental Asia," the Oklahoman shouted. Taft has denied advocating the use of U. S. troops to invade the Chinese mainland. He has spoken in favor of letting Chinese Nationalist troops fight the Reds.

Republicans interrupted Kerr with a steady cross-fire of questions and objections.

Kerr Called "Wind Bag"

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, called Kerr "that big wind bag from Oklahoma" after Kerr referred to GOP activities as a "Wherry-go-around."

At one point, Wherry and Kerr talked loudly and at the same time for several moments. Wherry sat down first, asserting: "You're the first man I ever met I couldn't outshout."

As the debate raged, Sen. Cain (R-Wash) introduced a resolution calling on Congress to declare war against Communist China and North Korea. At the same time he offered another resolution favoring an "orderly withdrawal" of U. S. troops from Korea.

Cain told the senate that these are the two courses open to the United States and that one or the other should be followed.

In New York, Sen. Duff (R-Pa) said the country now is "on a tremendous emotional binge" as a result of MacArthur's dismissal when it ought to be concentrating calmly on protecting itself against Russia's growing military might.

Bradley Backs Truman

Today, with suspense mounting as the deposed General flew here by easy stages from Tokyo and got a conquering hero's welcome en route, there were these developments:

1—The Senate's Republican Policy Committee resoundingly called for a two-house, all embracing investigation of U. S. policies in the Far East and elsewhere. There was immediate opposition from some Democrats. Such an inquiry would compare in scope to the Pearl Harbor investigation after World War II.

2—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the China war policies ad-

WILL BOSS RFC—W. Stuart Symington (above) yesterday was named by President Truman as the one-man boss of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It was the President's first step in reorganizing the government lending agency.

Stuart Symington Agrees To Boss Revamped RFC

Probers Will Check Legislators' Letters

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman tonight named W. Stuart Symington as the one-man boss of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It was the President's first step in reorganizing the huge government lending agency, which has been under the fire of a Senate investigating committee for several months. The committee asserted that a clique with contacts in the White House exerted influence on RFC lending operations.

Symington accepted the new post and will take over from the RFC's five-man board of directors April 30. He is a long-time lieutenant of Mr. Truman's, and is now chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

Inquiry Is Ordered

Shortly before his appointment was announced by the White House, the Senate Banking Committee ordered a special inquiry to determine whether any members of Congress have sold their influence to persons seeking RFC loans.

Some members of Congress want to abolish the RFC. Hearings on the question will be opened by the Senate Banking Committee next week.

The inquiry ordered by the committee today goes back to a series of recorded telephone conversations Mr. Truman had with Sen. Tobey (R-NH) some weeks ago. Tobey said the President told him he had information that some members of Congress received fees in connection with RFC loans, but that later Mr. Truman withdrew the charge, saying he had no evidence to support it.

Fulbright Heads Probe

But the Banking Committee decided to check up anyway. At a closed session today it agreed unanimously to have a subcommittee headed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) make an investigation.

The first step, Sen. Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the full committee, said, will be an examination of about 800 letters written by Congressmen to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Allied Tanks Deeply Probe Enemy Lines

General Communist Pullback Indicated

TOKYO, Wednesday, April 18 (AP)—Chinese Reds were reported pulling back in North Korea today to escape battles with tank-led Allied probing forces. The tanks were stabbing deep inside enemy lines.

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said there were signs of a general withdrawal on the western front. The communists also fell back in the mountainous center.

One American tank-powered unit went 15 miles north of the 38th parallel Tuesday to the vicinity of Chigyong. The patrol killed 100 Chinese during a bold expedition inside Red lines within seven miles of Kumhwa and Chorwon.

Those are two of three big Red bases on which strong United Nations forces clamped a squeeze.

The Allied advances since Sunday had been handicapped by manmade fires set by Reds seeking to screen their movements with smoke. Today's dispatches said the smoke clouds were lessening.

Allies Grab Hill Positions

Eighth Army headquarters estimated that 1,515 Reds were killed or wounded in ground action Tuesday.

In the main action of the day, strong Allied units grabbed valuable hill positions near Chorwon, western gateway to a 60-square-mile zone where possibly as many as 500,000 Reds may be concentrated.

A heavily-censored field dispatch said Allied troops "gained a foothold on the last heights remaining south of the Red-held city," 17 miles north of the 38th parallel.

Chorwon has been hammered from the air and pounded by long range artillery into rubble, but it controls five roadways.

A tank-infantry task force drove on Kumhwa along a main highway on the central front. It was a second powerful thrust at a Red base 18 miles east of Chorwon.

"MacArthur Day" Address Called Off By Truman

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman stepped aside for Gen. Douglas MacArthur today. He called off a speech he had planned to make shortly after MacArthur's world-awaited address to a joint meeting of Congress at 12:30 p. m. (EST) Thursday.

The President didn't want to detract from "Gen. Douglas MacArthur's day," the White House explained.

And so the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which Mr. Truman had planned to address at 2 p. m. (EST) Thursday, will watch MacArthur on television instead.

WSB To Handle Labor Disputes Recommended

Labor [illegible] Upheld By Advisory Board

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — President Truman's mobilization advisory board today unanimously approved recommendations proposing a new Wage Stabilization Board to handle most labor disputes.

The Labor [illegible] advisory board recommended that President Truman immediately set up an 18-man board to dispose of the scores of wage disputes which have been piling up since the first board was scuttled Feb. 16.

Labor members had walked off the board at that time in protest over the 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases.

Labor Boycott May End

Should the President act on the recommendation — and if industry agrees to sit on the board—the long boycott by labor over the whole mobilization program may be ended. Labor members walked out of all the defense agencies Feb. 28 saying that "big business" was dominating the show.

The labor chiefs did not say whether settlement of the Wage Stabilization Board issue would send them back into the half-dozen defense agencies which they quit.

Neither would management representatives say immediately whether they would participate in a new wage board established in the manner proposed by the labor, public, and argiculture representatives on the mobilization advisory board.

Many Offers Proposed

Under the proposal, offered to the advisory group today by AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, disputes would be handled:

1. Where the parties to such agree to submit it to the board.

2. Where the President is of the opinion that the dispute "substantially threatens the progress of national defense."

When a dispute was certified to the board by the President, the board would recommend a settlement. In any case where the parties agreed to be bound, the board could bone a final decision.

Fire Levels Repair Shop At Fort Meade

FORT MEADE, Md. April 17 (AP)—Fire destroyed the big quartermaster repair shop on this military reservation tonight.

Within a few minutes after it was first noticed, the fire was racing through the whole length of the frame building.

Flames broke through the roof, lighting a wide area.

Volunteer fire companies from nearby communities were called to the scene to help the post firefighters.

A Second Army spokesman said "the fire took about 30 minutes to wreck the whole building."

What started the fire and just what was in the repair shop at the time was not determined immediately.

Judge Wroth As Stripper, 13, Becomes Bride Of Man, 23

NEW ORLEANS, April 17 (AP)—A 13-year-old stripteaser married her 23-year-old lover and a juvenile court judge threatened a lawyer and minister with court action today for engineering it.

The marriage, in defiance of the judge, took place in the judge's own office.

Edward James Haley, Jr., 23 and the petite, teen-aged red-haired French Quarter performer were arrested March 9 in a Bourbon Street night spot where she stripped and danced.

The girl, whose name was withheld by authorities, was charged with being a juvenile delinquent and the man was charged with carnal knowledge of an unmarried felmale under 17 years old.

Police said both Haley and the girl admitted to them they had lived together as man and wife at several New Orleans addresses.

A request by Maurice Gatlin, attorney for the girl, for permission for the couple to marry was denied by Juvenile Judge Leo Blessing.

Louisiana law forbids marriage of any girl under 17 years of age.

When the case came up for hearing last Thursday, Gatlan asked permission for a private conference with the girl in the judge's chambers. Judge Blessing consented.

A few minutes later Gatlin told the judge the couple had just been married in the judge's office by the Rev. Phillip Pallotta. He moved for a dismissal of the case on the grounds the judge lacked jurisdiction over a married woman.

"I do (have jurisdiction) if they are juvenile," Judge Blessing asserted, and ordered the girl returned to the juvenile detention home.

San Francisco Gives General Wild Welcome

"Good To Be Home," Soldier Hero Says

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived home tonight to a riotous welcome that almost became a mob scene when he stepped from his plane, the Bataan.

Spectators, newsmen and photographers broke through greeting lines and swarmed around the General in a tumultuous welcome that almost swamped the ceremonies at the airport.

MacArthur's plane bringing him home for the first time in 14 years touched the runway at 8:20 p. m. PST (11:20 EST) after a flight of eight hours 80 minutes from Hawaii.

With deep feeling, MacArthur told the airport crowd of nearly 10,000:

"I cannot tell you how good it is to be home. In these long, long weary years, Mrs. MacArthur and I talked and thought about home. We appreciate your marvelous hospitality and this great reception. We will not forget it."

Wore Familiar Cap

The crowd crushed around the MacArthurs as soon as they came down the ramp of the plane, and the General stepped on the soil of the homeland at 8:23 p. m. PST.

He wore his familiar gold-braided cap, and a trench coat buttoned high around his neck. Mrs. MacArthur wore a purple dress and young Arthur wore a maroon jacket with fur collar.

As the plane rolled to a halt before the crowd, a woman's high piercing scream was heard. A baby's thin wail rose about the shouting, and there was pandemonium.

MacArthur's review of the honor guard was virtually a running mob scene. Guns boomed a 17-gun salute.

Officers and friends formed a tight circle around Mrs. MacArthur and young Arthur to keep them from being crushed. Lt. Col. Anthony Story, MacArthur's pilot, held Arthur in his arms to shield the wide-eyed boy.

MacArthur will spend tonight at the St. Francis Hotel resting for the big celebration scheduled tomorrow.

Downtown San Francisco is expected to be jammed for the hour-long parade which will start at 9:45 a. m., PST (12:45 p. m., EST) from the St. Francis and end at the Civic Center.

In this ride in an open car, the General will show himself to his countrymen on the mainland for the first time since he left the United States in 1937.

Warren To Welcome General

He will be welcomed at the Civic Center by California's Gov. Earl Warren and San Francisco's Mayor Elmer Robinson. After a brief reply, MacArthur will go directly to the airport for a non-stop flight to Washington and the climax of his homecoming—a speech to Congress on Thursday.

This will be the General's big day—his chance to explain the policies which he believes hold the best chance for peace in Asia. These call for opening aerial warfare against China and Manchuria and using Chinese Nationalist troops against the Red China mainland.

Bradley Backs Truman Policies

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley spoke out today against Gen. MacArthur's suggestions that the Korean war be extended to China.

Bradley was the first, of MacArthur's fellow five-star military men to raise his voice publicly against the proposals since MacArthur was ousted from his Far East posts last week by President Truman.

Gen. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did not mention MacArthur's name. But he said:

"There is little immediate danger of this country being over-run—but our way of life, our freedom and our nation have the best chances for survival by keeping peace in the world.

"This is the over-riding consideration of our national foreign and military policies. Any recommended course of action which would enlarge the present war is contrary to our best interests, and by jeopardizing world peace, ultimately would threaten our security."

Bradley spoke at the convention of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters. The section of his address opposing expansion of the Korean fighting was in direct conflict with MacArthur's views on that subject.

Missing Accordion Star Is Reported In Sanitorium

LOS ANGELES, April 17 (AP)—Attorney Gerald Kales said tonight he will surrender Accordionist Dick Contino to federal authorities tomorrow morning.

Contino, 20, who vanished on the eve of his induction into the Army, faces charges of draft evasion.

Kales said the information that Contino would surrender came from "a member of the family," whom he declined to identify. The lawyer said he does not have "the faintest idea" where the $4,000-a-week musician is now.

A Selective Service spokesman disclosed that Contino had submitted reports from three psychiatrists that he is suffering from certain phobias. Nevertheless, he was ordered to Ft. Ord, near Monterey, Calif., last week. He disappeared from there Friday.

The Los Angeles Mirror said today that Contino is in a sanitarium in Southern California. It wouldn't say where. His car was parked in the driveway of his home in nearby Glendale. But a friend of the family insisted Contino was not there. The door was closed to inquiring reporters.

YOU MAY DEDUCE IT

YOU DON'T have to be told an important fact in order to know it is so. Sometimes enough other information is given, so that you can deduce the item about which you need to be reasonably sure. That is the case when you are considering a No Trump bid and are worried as to whether some one suit is stopped or not. Strong bidding by your partner of a suit or suits in which you also have considerable strength tells you he must have some high cards elsewhere, probably in the very suit which most concerns your thought.

Two kibitzers, a young one and a veteran, sat to the right and left respectively of South on this rubber deal. The youngster was surprised by his hero's first bid of No Trumps and still more at the second one, and told the older kibitzer so after they strolled away from the table when the play was ended.

"Wasn't that awful risky?" he asked his more experienced friend. "There was no stopper of any kind in hearts, and North had bid only on the things which South also held strongly. Mightn't West have run an entire heart suit if South hadn't been lucky?"

"He didn't have to be what you mean by lucky," answered the other kibitzer, who then pointed out why. First, North showed enough strength for a vulnerable overcall at the two level, indicating quite appreciable power in his hand. Second, South had so much strength in North's suits that North himself couldn't have much. Where then was the extra high card strength in North's hands? Probably not in spades, which West bid and in which South held considerable. So what other place was left for it? Only hearts. To be sure North didn't have much in hearts, but his king was enough.

After the spade 7 lead to the mere 8, South ran five diamonds and four clubs in a hurry to have an extra trick, and he willingly then gave West the heart A, after which West scored the spade A and then had to lead the Q to the K for South's second extra.

Is stuttering hereditary?

Answer: No. It is a symptom of emotional disturbance based upon the individual child's relations with his parents, and specifically on conscious or unconscious fear of asserting himself. A child with a parent who stutters may adopt the practice through unconsciuos imitation, though he probably will also be influenced by the attitudes and feelings which create the symptom in the parent. To help him outgrow it, listen to him sympathetically when he speaks and try to seem unaware of his difficulties—making him self-conscious will only intensify them.

Are real leaders different from dictators?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Andre Levy in the French magazine, "Enfance" (Childhood). Study of a mixed group of soldiers between 19 and 24 years old showed two opposite types of leaders—the sovereign-type and the dictator-type. The former automatically becomes a central figure and takes the initiative spontaneously, whether formally elected or not. But his concern is with the group's welfare, not just his own. The dictator-type not only seizes the initiative but tries to force his decisions on others and resents criticism or objections. He is as servile to his superiors as he is tyrannical to those beneath him.

Can admitting you are bad be an excuse?

Answer: Certainly. That is one reason why a child should never be told that he is "naturally bad" or naughty—it makes it too easy for him to excuse his misbehavior, at least to himself, with the plea that he is made the way and cannot help it. Worse still, because if he is bad, you cannot possibly love him, he feels justified in hating you in return and doing whatever he can to get even with you. There is no surer way to make a child turn delinquent without qualms of conscience than to let him grow up feeling there is no use in his trying to be anything else.

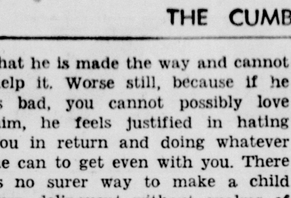
That is one reason why a child should never be told that he is "naturally bad" or naughty—it makes it too easy for him to excuse his misbehavior, at least to himself, with the plea that he is made the way and cannot help it. Worse still, because if he is bad, you cannot possibly love him, he feels justified in hating you in return and doing whatever he can to get even with you. There is no surer way to make a child turn delinquent without qualms of conscience than to let him grow up feeling there is no use in his trying to be anything else.

Is stuttering hereditary?

Answer: No. It is a symptom of emotional disturbance based upon the individual child's relations with his parents, and specifically on conscious or unconscious fear of asserting himself. A child with a parent who stutters may adopt the practice through unconsciuos imitation, though he probably will also be influenced by the attitudes and feelings which create the symptom in the parent. To help him outgrow it, listen to him sympathetically when he speaks and try to seem unaware of his difficulties—making him self-conscious will only intensify them.



Are real leaders different from dictators?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Andre Levy in the French magazine, "Enfance" (Childhood). Study of a mixed group of soldiers between 19 and 24 years old showed two opposite types of leaders—the sovereign-type and the dictator-type. The former automatically becomes a central figure and takes the initiative spontaneously, whether formally elected or not. But his concern is with the group's welfare, not just his own. The dictator-type not only seizes the initiative but tries to force his decisions on others and resents criticism or objections. He is as servile to his superiors as he is tyrannical to those beneath him.

New Paint Cleaner Retains Gloss

Have you ever cleaned walls or woodwork when the paint literally disappeared before your eyes? Perhaps your white woodwork formerly had a glorious gloss but after cleaning became flat and dull. Now you can retain the beauty of painted surfaces with the new C33 Concentrate. It removes the dirt but leaves the paint when used as directed. C33 is also ideal for cleaning venetian blinds, linoleum, refrigerators and tile. This new product now in Rosenbaum's Housewares Department, fourth floor.

Information (?) Treaty Proposal

The American Society of Newspaper Editors, at its annual meeting in Washington this week, is to hear the reasons why the United States opposes the proposal now before the UN on freedom of information. By midsummer all UN member nations are to have commented officially on the proposal. Their comments will be considered by the UN Economic and Social Council in deciding whether to have an information freedom treaty drafted for submission to the UN nations.

In 1948 a UN conference at Geneva drew up a convention, acceptable on the whole to this country, on the narrower subject of gathering and transmitting news. But when that convention was submitted to the UN General Assembly in April, 1949, many nations insisted on many restrictions. As a result, that news-gathering convention has so far simply gathered dust.

The new freedom of information proposal would commit all nations accepting it to secure certain broad rights—such as seeking, receiving, and transmitting news and opinions—for their citizens and also for non-citizens within their territories. The United States concedes that these rights are properly subject to some restrictions in order to prevent abuses—as in this country.

However, the proposed restrictions go further. For one thing, they would prohibit the dissemination of news stories likely to wound the sensibilities of any people and of "false or distorted" reports undermining friendly relations between peoples or governments. These restrictions are supported by a bloc of states, including some Latin American and Arab ones, that control their own press and/or complain of adverse criticism in the press of other countries, especially the United States.

This country holds that restrictions like these would have authorized the suppression of dispatches on the amatory activities of King Farouk, or on the seizure of La Prensa, or on child marriage in India, or on military forces concentrated along the Yugoslav border. Yet the Soviet Union condemns the proposed restrictions as too weak to stop the "war-mongering" of the "capitalist press!"

Civil War Episode

Something not unlike the present MacArthur affair occurred in the Civil War. In each case a "Mac" was involved. The next few weeks should indicate whether the military and political repercussions will be the same now as then.

George B. McClellan, a West Point graduate who had served with distinction in the Mexican War, was made commander of the Army of the Potomac after the rout of the Union forces at Bull Run. But he postponed an attack until President Lincoln himself finally ordered a general advance on February 22, 1862. McClellan objected to the route assigned him, was granted the route he preferred, even so disobeyed the President's order, delayed his advance until March, then went forward slowly, met reverses.

McClellan complained constantly to the President and to the Secretary of War that they were not diverting to him from other fronts the additional troops he needed for a victory: "I am not responsible for this (defeat)." "If I save this army now, I tell you (Secretary of War Stanton) plainly that I owe no thanks to you or to any other person in Washington. You have done your best to sacrifice this army."

Lincoln dismissed McClellan from his command before the end of the year because of what the President called the General's "slows" and relegated him to an inactive post. But "Little Mac" was widely popular, and as the war still went badly for the Union, demands arose for his reinstatement—for instance, from the governor of New Jersey, the New York City Council, a New York and a Washington newspaper.

He was nominated by the Democratic party for President in 1864 ("Abe removed McClellan; now we'll remove Abe"); was easily defeated by Lincoln; in later years was elected governor of New Jersey. McClellan's difficulties in 1862 stemmed in large part from relying on faulty intelligence that over-stated the strength of the enemy forces.

Communists Past And Present

Still more minor Hollywood characters can be expected to confess to the House Un-American Activities Committee this week, as four confessed last week, that they had been Communist party members once upon a time. Six others refused to answer questions about any past Communist affiliation, on the grounds of self-incrimination. Ten former Hollywood writers went to jail last year for refusing to answer similar questions, but had pleaded freedom of speech instead of self-incrimination.

One in every nine or ten Communist party members in this country is in California, according to a recent estimate by J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI. One in every two is in the state of New York. Only 200 or so are to be found in the District of Columbia.

The Communist party in this country reached a membership peak of around 100,000 during the depression of 1929-33. The roll dwindled in 1939 when Stalin signed a treaty of alliance with Hitler, and today is put by Hoover at 43,000. The Communist newspaper, the "Daily Worker," once boasted a circulation of around 80,000; last month it confessed, in an appeal for funds to keep going, that it was down to 14,000 daily and 50,000 on Sunday.

However, the FBI director says that the decline in membership doesn't mean very much, because the party has deliberately gone underground and for every member has ten sympathizers ready to do its bidding. Mr. Hoover warned on March 30 that every "indoctrinated Communist" gives allegiance to Moscow and, "if there should be war," would like nothing better than to throw a mean monkey-wrench into the economic machinery of this country.

Smaller Wheat Crop

Dry weather and insects cut the prospective U. S. wheat crop in March, according to the latest forecast just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Probable production of winter wheat this year now is placed at 727,000,000 bushels, or 183,000,000 bushels less than forecast on December 1 last.

No forecast has been issued on spring wheat, which has not been planted in most areas. The winter wheat forecast compares with an average of 790,000,000 bushels for the 10 years 1940-49.

Rains since April 1 may have revived some winter wheat acreage which had been abandoned as lost, but hopes have been abandoned for a bumper wheat crop this year. What is looked for now is an average crop, with spring wheat planting expected to be about normal.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Our Blood Producing Factory

ANEMIC individuals usually are pictured as pale and weak. This is true but it does not indicate that every one with these manifestations is anemic. Even physicians are fooled occasionally. Such symptoms are associated wtih anemia because there are too few red corpuscles in the blood. These tiny cells contain hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood. The chief constituent of hemoglobin is iron, which carries oxygen to the tissues and carbon dioxide back to the lungs. Pallor stems from a shortage of hemoglobin; fatigue from an oxygen deficiency.

It is easier to understand anemia by comparing the number of red corpuscles with the automobiles on the street. There will be fewer cars if the factory fails to manufacture them or if nothing is done to renew the supply of parts so that autos can be kept in good repair. Labor - management relationships also are important; otherwise strikes and slowdowns may interfere with production or repair. Many other things can happen; the factory may burn down or be taken over for other purposes. There also is a possibility that the machinery will wear out.

An analogous condition occurs to the bone marrow, where the red cells are made. Fat or bone may grow into the spaces normally occupied by marrow. Cancer cells may invade or, as in the leukemias, the normal cells can be crowded out. These disorders are serious because blood cells have a life expectancy of about four months and, unless new ones replace the old, the outcome will be a severe anemia (aplastic). Blood transfusions offer the only hope.

In other instances the factory is working but not all the parts can be replaced. This condition is comparable to the anemias that develop in persons who do not obtain the necessary blood building elements in the diet such as foods rich in protein and iron and other minerals. The same can be said when the nutriment is improperly absorbed from the stomach because of some abnormality. The result is a deficiency anemia and treatment obviously is different. Iron tables or a diet rich in meats may be required. In some instances the iron is not absorbed by the system because the stomach lacks hydrochloric acid. On the other hand, if the liver extract principal in the diet is absent or deficient, or the individual is unable to absorb this important element, then pernicious anemia will occur. Iron, in the circumstances, will not be of value whereas liver extract and vitamin B-12 will.

The glandular system also plays a role. By this we refer to the effect of the adrenal, pituitary, and thyroid glands which enter into the control of blood production, utilization, and destruction. Any abnormality along this line obviously upsets the applecart.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen advises periodic checkups during pregnancy.

CALCIUM COLLECTOR

P. M. writes: Can you explain to me why I have collected calcium in my knee caps, elbows and shoulders?

REPLY

If the calcium is in the bursae this chalklike material results from irritation and represents a form of healing. It is harder than ordinary scar tissue. If it is on the surface and pieces fall out from time to time, calcinosis may be responsible. This condition frequently is caused by disturbances in calcium or cholesterol metabolism.

VIRUS INFECTION

S. W. Writes: I've had several attacks of stomach flue this winter, as have many of my friends. Is this because the first one was not cleared up entirely or is each a new attack?

REPLY

The question is difficult to answer because flu has a tendency to behave in this fashion and it is possible that you were not cured. I assume that the diagnosis is correct; if there is a question along this line, see your physician.

STIMULANT

B. W. writes: Why does the heart beat faster after drinking coffee?

REPLY

Because coffee is a stimulant. The effect depends upon the amount consumed and how much caffeine is absorbed.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Mrs. R. K. writes: This is a sort of which came first, the chicken or the egg, question. Do kidney ailments cause hypertension or vice versa?

REPLY

Both are possible. If kidney trouble develops the chances of developing hypertension are greater than ordinarily.

PAIN IN THE CHEST

K. T. writes: Does pain in the chest always mean heart disease?

REPLY

By no means; there are many other causes besides heart disease. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing causes of chest pain.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

GOP Reaction To MacArthur Incident Differs; Senator Taft Discouraged Impeachment Of Truman; Joe Martin Issued Ultimatum To Sam Rayburn

WASHINGTON — Capitol Hill cloakrooms have been buzzing as never before over the MacArthur incident. This is true of Republicans perhaps more than Democrats. The Democrats are glum, the Republicans elated—though not all of them.

Here are highlights from some of the most significant of these back-state conversations:

Bob Taft expressed concern to Senator Wherry of Nebraska that the GOP may get stuck with MacArthur as its 1952 presidential candidate. Of course, this would eliminate him, though Taft didn't mention this to Wherry. Taft has been noticeably irritable, has snapped at Senate functionaries and fellow senators. He got in a private wrangle with Bob Kerr of Oklahoma over Kerr's statement criticizing MacArthur.

GOP Senator Millikin of Colorado also expressed worry that Eisenhower would oppose MacArthur, which would split the Republicans down the middle. Bridges of New Hampshire replied that Eisenhower was too smart to get into the middle, that Eisenhower also might differ with Truman and run the risk of being fired.

Bridges has been bustling around GOP cloakrooms more than anyone else. He told one group joyfully: "This is the biggest windfall that has ever come to the Republican party."

On one occasion, Virginia's Senator Robertson, a Democrat, remarked to Bridges: "Well, you have a new candidate for president."

"He's better than the present President," the New Hampshire Senator shot back.

"I guess there's a lot of life left in him even at 71," piped up Lodge of Massachusetts.

Actually, Lodge, Duff of Pennsylvania and Ives of New York have held some worried huddles about the MacArthur boom and how it would affect their Eisenhower boom. During one of these huddles, Ives snorted: "How in hell are we going to get any unity around here!"

Smith of New Jersey, the former Princeton professor, has been quite critical over the fact that MacArthur wasn't left in Japan to keep the occupation intact and complete the peace treaty. But privately Smith seemed to approve of removing MacArthur from military command.

Senators Knowland and Nixon, both California Republicans, are eager-beavers on the MacArthur bandwagon. But Nixon had an interesting conversation with Duff of Pennsylvania just before MacArthur was fired.

"What party does Eisenhower belong to?" Nixon asked.

Duff, one of the strongest boosters for Eisenhower, assured him that Ike was a Republican.

"I hope so," declared Nixon. "He's the man for us."

Nixon, however, is now beating the bass drum on the MacArthur bandwagon.

Taft Discouraged Impeachment

During the first Republican meeting in ex-Speaker Joe Martin's office on the morning MacArthur was fired, Congressman Charlie Halleck of Indiana demanded that Republicans immediately press for Truman's impeachment.

It was Bob Taft, however, who demurred. Such a move, he said, was asinine. It would be much smarter, he advised, to bring MacArthur back to the United States and build up sentiment for his case before the Republican party went all-out for him.

The impeachment idea was then dropped, though Joe Martin told GOP colleagues to keep talking about it. "We've got to keep the fire burning," he said, half joking.

Martin's Ultimatum

It was Joe Martin who adoitly masterminded the drive to invite MacArthur to a joint session of Congress. At first Democratic leaders were decidedly lukewarm, argued it would set a bad precedent for Congress to roll out the red carpet for a general, especially one ousted for insubordination. They also felt it would be an affront to President Truman.

However, Martin handed a virtual ultimatum to his old friend, Speaker Sam Rayburn. He gave him until 2:30 Friday to agree to invite MacArthur to a joint session of Congress.

"MacArthur has been away 14 years," Rayburn drawled sourly. "What's all the rush?"

So Martin extended the deadline to four o'clock.

Martin didn't say so, but the reason he pushed Rayburn was because MacArthur's office in Tokyo had given him a veiled ultimatum that the General might not speak in Washington at all unless conditions were to his choosing; also that he had to know in a hurry in order to plan his itinerary. It was also made clear that MacArthur was not anxious to answer questions before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

After getting his ultimatum from Martin, Speaker Rayburn called the White House, cautioned the President might be made a martyr by snubbing him, so it was decided the General would be given a chance to address Congress.

Rayburn then went back to Joe Martin, suggested they give MacArthur the same treatment given Eisenhower—namely, a meeting of both houses of Congress in the auditorium of the Library of Congress.

Whereupon Martin issued another ultimatum. He demanded a full-dress meeting in the House chamber. Otherwise, he warned, the Republicans would rent the vast Uline arena—an ice palace where the circus is held—and announce to the world that the Democrats would not permit MacArthur to address Congress.

Wearily, Rayburn gave in.

MacArthur Hearing

The Senate Armed Services Committee had agreed upon a secret list of witnesses for the MacArthur hearing before they received the General's first telegram declining to appear. The chosen witnesses are: Secretary of Defense Marshall, General Bradley, General Wedemeyer and Admiral Radford.

The group was agreed upon after much debate in a series of secret meetings. First, the Republican members gathered in the office of Senator Bridges of New Hampshire and prepared an ultimatum that MacArthur must be called.

Chairman Russell of Georgia interrupted a brief vacation to fly back to Washington, conferred with Bridges and gladly agreed to call MacArthur. Later the full committee was called behind closed doors at which time Russell insisted that Marshall and Bradley must also be called to tell the other side of the story.

Bridges then demanded that General Wedemeyer and Admiral Radford—who tangled with the Air Force two years ago—should also testify, since they are expected to back up MacArthur's Far Eastern policy. In the end, it was decided to call all of them.

The Position Of Japan

NO PHASE of the MacArthur controversy is more important than the future of Japan Conquered by the United States, in a phase of World War II in which no other country played an important role, Japan could have been devastated. Instead, Douglas MacArthur brought to Japan ample evidence that the United States can end a fight with a handshake and even help the enemy to a reconstructed life.

Thus, MacArthur as our proconsul created a new Japan. Whatever its role is to be, its foundation is the friendship and support of the United States. The Japanese cannot defend themselves. They have not the economic means to sustain themselves. Left alone, they must fall a prey to Soviet Russia.

Their dependence upon the United States has been symbolized by the personality of General Douglas MacArthur. Despite the almost universal cliche that human nature is the same everywhere, it is more correct to say that different human being do not respond in the same manner to identical challenges. The Japanese have been conditioned by their history to accept the leadership of one individual, whether he be mikado or shogun. In a word, they approach the man-god concept of leadership.

MacArthur's personality and his moralistic conduct in Japan fitted this Japanese concept. Therefore, his success in Japan depended as much upon his personality as upon his authority. He became the father of the Japanese people and they expected from him not only guidance but protection.

MacArthur's attitude toward Russia coincided with the Japanese attitude. For the Japanese have for nearly 100 years feared and hated the Russians. Before Japan was opened to the world by Commodore Perry (in 1853), Russia made several attempts to settle on Japan but failed. After Perry, extra-territoriality and a conventional tariff were established over Japan and foreign troops were stationed in that country, the Russians establishing a garrison in Nagasaki, the evils of which were remembered even in my time in that country.

After the Meiji Revolution (1868), the Japanese sent delegations to America and to several European countries to learn the processes of modernization, but they did not send a delegation to Russia.

In 1882, Korea was opened to Western trade, with China, Japan and Russia vying for control of that country. This struggle eventuated in the Sino-Japanese War (1894-95) in which Japan was victorious, the Japanese by the Treaty of Shimonoseki gaining the Pescadores, Formosa, and the Liaotung peninsula (Dairen and Port Arthur) in Manchuria.

However, Russia, France, and Germany forced Japan to forego her Manchurian gains and to accept a money indemnity instead (1896). The same year, Russia and China signed the Li-Lobanov Treaty by which Russia gained the right to build the Chinese Eastern Railroad. Thus controlling the very area that Japan had won in war and lost by diplomacy.

And throughout this period, Russia was penetrating into Korea and establishing herself as the conqueror of Manchuria. This led to the Russo-Japanese war (1904-05) in

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman has split America. He has stirred up such dissension and division among the American people that the disunity which prevails today transcends in importance even the issues which led to his dismissal of General MacArthur.

From all over the country the evidence is piling up that Mr. Truman has stirred up bitterness such as has not been noted since the days before the Civil War. The emotional reaction to the dismissal of General MacArthur has not been lessened by the strangely partisan behavior that has developed in Congress itself.

Thus, the Democrats at first resented the idea of a joint meeting to hear General MacArthur. Only upon further reflection did they decide to go along with plans to welcome the General.

Then came the sniping and the innuendoes. Mr. Truman, who told the Democrats gathered at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner last Saturday night to put the national interest above personal interest, promptly disregarded his own political impulses and started off another wave of bitterness by his innuendo against General MacArthur.

Belittles MacArthur's Return

Within the last 24 hours another incident has brought more irritation. It has been announced that, when General MacArthur returns to Washington after an absence of 14 years spent fighting for his country, the only man who is to be sent to the airport by the White House to greet him is General Vaughan.

No more studied way of belittling the visit of General MacArthur could have been dreamed up at the White House. If this is a sample of the political judgement of the President or of his advisers, it indicates that the poor strategy which led to the peremptory firing of MacArthur has not been followed by any better understanding of the public temper.

There were half a dozen ways by which the President could have relieved General MacArthur of his command. There were many ways by which the split in this country could have been avoided. But what is much worse is that the Democratic party in Congress has lined up solidly against General MacArthur and in defense of President Truman's arbitrary action. Conversely, the Republicans, seeing the whole thing taking on a political flavor, have themselves lined up in self-defense and in defense of General MacArthur.

Thus has the most important issue before the country—how to prevent a big-scale war—been turned over to political handling. This cannot bring a bipartisan approach to world policy. It cannot bring a united spirit behind any program of the Administration. It is about the worst tragedy that could have befallen America.

President Truman must accept full responsibility for the blunder. He did not tell the party leaders in advance what he intended to do or how he intended to do it. He asked opinions from a few of the leaders, to be sure, and indicated that he had to do something. But it was one-man government that finally functioned. One man in the White House, in a sudden decision late last Tuesday, decided to dismiss a general who had served his country well and to announce that decision to the press. One-man government treated with contempt not only the valiant service of a great general but also the principle of affording a hearing to an important official engaged in an important assignment 8,000 miles away from home—a mission of civil as well as military management of an occupied country.

Sad Days For America

Mr. Truman could have sent for General MacArthur and could have threshed out the differences. If they could not [illegible] been resolved, Mr. Truman [illegible] given MacArthur the [illegible] retiring or of being relieved [illegible].

A false issue is now being trumped up. It is an argument being advanced by the President that MacArthur wants to bring on a large-scale war and that Mr. Truman wants peace. Nothing could be more illustrative of the narrowness of vision that prevails in Washington today. For General MacArthur is sincerely convinced that the proposals he has championed mean peace. Many observers—not in the military establishment—believe an appeasement policy by the President and the Department of State will bring on a third world war with all its horrible consequences.

General MacArthur has been reported as opposing peace-at-any-price. Actually he has not been doing any more than asking for a vigorous prosecution of a war in which 60,000 casualties already have been suffered by the United States—more casualties in nine months than in the first full year of World War II for this country.

The effort to misrepresent MacArthur's position has begun. All the engines of publicity of the Administration have been started. The President's gibe at MacArthur at the political dinner Saturday night was the beginning. Already the Democrats are getting ready to turn on the smears. These are sad days for America.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Headless Worm

TEHERAN

THERE IS A very simple measure of the folly of the Iranian ruling class and the flabby short-sightedness of American and British policy here. This country is being gnawed to death by a headless worm. Nowhere else in the world could the Tudeh party, without any nationally known leader, with only the smallest hard core of true Communists, constitute a serious threat. But as recent events all too clearly testify, the Tudeh party is a serious threat in Iran.

You ask any Iranian who heads the Tudeh, who leads and directs it, and even if he is one of the Tudeh's young intellectual fellow travellers, he replies with a shrug, "The Soviet Embassy."

The whole party financing, estimated at the locally enormous sum of 2,000,000 tomans a month, is openly derived from Soviet sources. Much of the flood of Tudeh literature is printed by a "clandestine" press in the Soviet embassy's huge compound. In short, a more naked operation would be hard to imagine.

Younger Men Join

In addition, the nature of Soviet intentions in Iran was disclosed as bluntly as possible during the Azerbaijan crisis in 1946, when the Tudeh following melted down almost to the hard core alone. Finally the party operates under the handicap of illegality. Although the Partisans of Peace and League to Combat the Anglo-Iranian oil company serve as useful fronts, the fact that the party is theoretically illegal at least causes inconvenience. In the face of all this, the Tudeh has completely penetrated what passes for a labor movement in Iran. With the memory of Azerbaijan fading, it has made such headway among younger men that 50 per cent of the university students and recent graduates are estimated to be members or fellow travellers. It possesses its own underground communications net, including a large radio station in Shiraz, and it sends its orders about the country as rapidly as the Iranian government itself. It is able to unleash strikes and severe disorders wherever and whenever it desires, as the last days have shown. And if present conditions continue unchanged, it will go on gaining strength and will almost inevitably win in the end.

There are four causes for this situation.

First, and most important of all, Iran's own leading men, the landlords and mercahnt-politician-millionaires who control the country, have signally failed to put the national house in order. The wartime occupation swelled the urban proletariat and opened the eyes of the peasant masses to the wretchedness of their lot. But the weak and corrupt postwar governments have utterly failed to combat the misery and hopelessness that daily increases here.

Second, the masters of the Kremlin about a year ago shrewdly changed their whole tone towards Iran, abandoning loud menace for smooth amiability. No longer reminded daily of the danger in the north, the Iranian politicians have been encouraged both to forget their dependence for protection on the West, and to fall out more readily among themselves.

Many American Mistakes

Third, the British long continued to behave here almost as though this were still the epoch of the Darcy concession. They seemed to think anything and everything could still be "arranged" in the old way until the shock of oil nationalization woke them up.

Fourth and finally, the Americans have made almost every conceivable mistake, arousing great hopes of lavish economic aid which never came; arousing great hopes also of helping the Iranians to escape from their unhappy position between the Russians and British but making no effort to do so; neither working intimately with the British nor developing an independent policy; occasionally intervening to influence local political events but never intervening decisively to produce a real result.

In the chaos thus created, the Tudeh has emerged as the only

Kroch's bookstore in Chicago sold seventeen copies of Dale Carnegie's How to Win Friends and Influence People to one cash customer the other day. Ralph Weil, who made the sale, asked, "Could I have your name?" "I suppose so," said the customer with a certain reluctance. "It's Malik."

In private life Betty Smith, whose "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" is now being fashioned into a musical play, is the wife of Joseph Piper Jones. Whenever they fare forth from their home in Chapel Hill, she relates, they have a system for signing hotel registers. If the trip is in connection with her literary endeavors, they use her name. If it's a pleasure jaunt, they use his. One night the issue was not quite clear. Her husband poised his pen over the register and asked. "What name shall we use tonight, dear—Smith or Jones?" The room clerk hastily assured them every room was taken.

Information (?) Treaty Proposal

The American Society of Newspaper Editors, at its annual meeting in Washington this week, is to hear the reasons why the United States opposes the proposal now before the UN on freedom of information. By midsummer all UN member nations are to have commented officially on the proposal. Their comments will be considered by the UN Economic and Social Council in deciding whether to have an information freedom treaty drafted for submission to the UN nations.

In 1948 a UN conference at Geneva drew up a convention, acceptable on the whole to this country, on the narrower subject of gathering and transmitting news. But when that convention was submitted to the UN General Assembly in April, 1949, many nations insisted on many restrictions. As a result, that news-gathering convention has so far simply gathered dust.

The new freedom of information proposal would commit all nations accepting it to secure certain broad rights—such as seeking, receiving, and transmitting news and opinions—for their citizens and also for non-citizens within their territories. The United States concedes that these rights are properly subject to some restrictions in order to prevent abuses—as in this country.

However, the proposed restrictions go further. For one thing, they would prohibit the dissemination of news stories likely to wound the sensibilities of any people and of "false or distorted" reports undermining friendly relations between peoples or governments. These restrictions are supported by a bloc of states, including some Latin American and Arab ones, that control their own press and/or complain of adverse criticism in the press of other countries, especially the United States.

This country holds that restrictions like these would have authorized the suppression of dispatches on the amatory activities of King Farouk, or on the seizure of La Prensa, or on child marriage in India, or on military forces concentrated along the Yugoslav border. Yet the Soviet Union condemns the proposed restrictions as too weak to stop the "war-mongering" of the "capitalist press!"

Civil War Episode

Something not unlike the present MacArthur affair occurred in the Civil War. In each case a "Mac" was involved. The next few weeks should indicate whether the military and political repercussions will be the same now as then.

George B. McClellan, a West Point graduate who had served with distinction in the Mexican War, was made commander of the Army of the Potomac after the rout of the Union forces at Bull Run. But he postponed an attack until President Lincoln himself finally ordered a general advance on February 22, 1862. McClellan objected to the route assigned him, was granted the route he preferred, even so disobeyed the President's order, delayed his advance until March, then went forward slowly, met reverses.

McClellan complained constantly to the President and to the Secretary of War that they were not diverting to him from other fronts the additional troops he needed for a victory: "I am not responsible for this (defeat)." "If I save this army now, I tell you (Secretary of War Stanton) plainly that I owe no thanks to you or to any other person in Washington. You have done your best to sacrifice this army."

Lincoln dismissed McClellan from his command before the end of the year because of what the President called the General's "slows" and relegated him to an inactive post. But "Little Mac" was widely popular, and as the war still went badly for the Union, demands arose for his reinstatement—for instance, from the governor of New Jersey, the New York City Council, a New York and a Washington newspaper.

He was nominated by the Democratic party for President in 1864 ("Abe removed McClellan; now we'll remove Abe"); was easily defeated by Lincoln; in later years was elected governor of New Jersey. McClellan's difficulties in 1862 stemmed in large part from relying on faulty intelligence that over-stated the strength of the enemy forces.

Communists Past And Present

Still more minor Hollywood characters can be expected to confess to the House Un-American Activities Committee this week, as four confessed last week, that they had been Communist party members once upon a time. Six others refused to answer questions about any past Communist affiliation, on the grounds of self-incrimination. Ten former Hollywood writers went to jail last year for refusing to answer similar questions, but had pleaded freedom of speech instead of self-incrimination.

One in every nine or ten Communist party members in this country is in California, according to a recent estimate by J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI. One in every two is in the state of New York. Only 200 or so are to be found in the District of Columbia.

The Communist party in this country reached a membership peak of around 100,000 during the depression of 1929-33. The roll dwindled in 1939 when Stalin signed a treaty of alliance with Hitler, and today is put by Hoover at 43,000. The Communist newspaper, the "Daily Worker," once boasted a circulation of around 80,000; last month it confessed, in an appeal for funds to keep going, that it was down to 14,000 daily and 50,000 on Sunday.

However, the FBI director says that the decline in membership doesn't mean very much, because the party has deliberately gone underground and for every member has ten sympathizers ready to do its bidding. Mr. Hoover warned on March 30 that every "indoctrinated Communist" gives allegiance to Moscow and, "If there should be war," would like nothing better than to throw a mean monkey-wrench into the economic machinery of this country.

Smaller Wheat Crop

Dry weather and insects cut the prospective U. S. wheat crop in March, according to the latest forecast just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Probable production of winter wheat this year now is placed at 727,000,000 bushels, or 183,000,000 bushels less than forecast on December 1 last.

No forecast has been issued on spring wheat, which has not been planted in most areas. The winter wheat forecast compares with an average of 790,000,000 bushels for the 10 years 1940-49.

Rains since April 1 may have revived some winter wheat acreage which had been abandoned as lost, but hopes have been abandoned for a bumper wheat crop this year. What is looked for now is an average crop, with spring wheat planting expected to be about normal.

How To Keep Well

Our Blood Producing Factory

ANEMIC individuals usually are pictured as pale and weak. This is true but it does not indicate that every one with these manifestations is anemic. Even physicians are fooled occasionally. Such symptoms are associated wtih anemia because there are too few red corpuscles in the blood. These tiny cells contain hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood. The chief constituent of hemoglobin is iron, which carries oxygen to the tissues and carbon dioxide back to the lungs. Pallor stems from a shortage of hemoglobin; fatigue from an oxygen deficiency.

It is easier to understand anemia by comparing the number of red corpuscles with the automobiles on the street. There will be fewer cars if the factory fails to manufacture them or if nothing is done to renew the supply of parts so that autos can be kept in good repair. Labor - management relationships also are important; otherwise strikes and slowdowns may interfere with production or repair. Many other things can happen; the factory may burn down or be taken over for other purposes. There also is a possibility that the machinery will wear out.

An analogous condition occurs to the bone marrow, where the red cells are made. Fat or bone may grow into the spaces normally occupied by marrow. Cancer cells may invade or, as in the leukemias, the normal cells can be crowded out. These disorders are serious because blood cells have a life expectancy of about four months and, unless new ones replace the old, the outcome will be a severe anemia (aplastic). Blood transfusions offer the only hope.

In other instances the factory is working but not all the parts can be replaced. This condition is comparable to the anemias that develop in persons who do not obtain the necessary blood building elements in the diet such as foods rich in protein and iron and other minerals. The same can be said when the nutriment is improperly absorbed from the stomach because of some abnormality. The result is a deficiency anemia and treatment obviously is different. Iron tables or a diet rich in meats may be required. In some instances the iron is not absorbed by the system because the stomach lacks hydrochloric acid. On the other hand, if the liver extract principal in the diet is absent or deficient, or the individual is unable to absorb this important element, then pernicious anemia will occur. Iron, in the circumstances, will not be of value whereas liver extract and vitamin B-12 will.

The glandular system also plays a role. By this we refer to the effect of the adrenal, pituitary, and thyroid glands which enter into the control of blood production, utilization, and destruction. Any abnormality along this line obviously upsets the applecart.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen advises periodic checkups during pregnancy.

CALCIUM COLLECTOR

P. M. writes: Can you explain to me why I have collected calcium in my knee caps, elbows and shoulders?

REPLY

If the calcium is in the bursae this chalklike material results from irritation and represents a form of healing. It is harder than ordinary scar tissue. If it is on the surface and pieces fall out from time to time, calcinosis may be responsible. This condition frequently is caused by disturbances in calcium or cholesterol metabolism.

VIRUS INFECTION

S. W. Writes: I've had several attacks of stomach flue this winter, as have many of my friends. Is this because the first one was not cleared up entirely or is each a new attack?

REPLY

The question is difficult to answer because flu has a tendency to behave in this fashion and it is possible that you were not cured. I assume that the diagnosis is correct; if there is a question along this line, see your physician.

STIMULANT

B. W. writes: Why does the heart beat faster after drinking coffee?

REPLY

Because coffee is a stimulant. The effect depends upon the amount consumed and how much caffeine is absorbed.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Mrs. R. K. writes: This is a sort of which came first, the chicken or the egg, question. Do kidney ailments cause hypertension or vice versa?

REPLY

Both are possible. If kidney trouble develops the chances of developing hypertension are greater than ordinarily.

PAIN IN THE CHEST

K. T. writes: Does pain in the chest always mean heart disease?

REPLY

By no means: there are many other causes besides heart disease. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing causes of chest pain.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

GOP Reaction To MacArthur Incident Differs; Senator Taft Discouraged Impeachment Of Truman; Joe Martin Issued Ultimatum To Sam Rayburn

WASHINGTON — Capitol Hill cloakrooms have been buzzing as never before over the MacArthur incident. This is true of Republicans perhaps more than Democrats. The Democrats are glum, the Republicans elated—though not all of them.

Here are highlights from some of the most significant of these backstate conversations:

Bob Taft expressed concern to Senator Wherry of Nebraska that the GOP may get stuck with MacArthur as its 1952 presidential candidate. Of course, this would eliminate him, though Taft didn't mention this to Wherry. Taft has been noticeably irritable, has snapped at Senate functionaries and fellow senators. He got in a private wrangle with Bob Kerr of Oklahoma over Kerr's statement criticizing MacArthur.

GOP Senator Millikin of Colorado also expressed worry that Eisenhower would oppose MacArthur, which would split the Republicans down the middle. Bridges of New Hampshire replied that Eisenhower was too smart to get into the middle, that Eisenhower also might differ with Truman and run the risk of being fired.

Bridges has been bustling around GOP cloakrooms more than anyone else. He told one group joyfully: "This is the biggest windfall that has ever come to the Republican party."

On one occasion, Virginia's Senator Robertson, a Democrat, remarked to Bridges: "Well, you have a new candidate for president."

"He's better than the present President," the New Hampshire Senator shot back.

"I guess there's a lot of life left in him even at 71," piped up Lodge of Massachusetts.

Actually, Lodge, Duff of Pennsylvania and Ives of New York have held some worried huddles about the MacArthur boom and how it would affect their Eisenhower boom. During one of these huddles, Ives snorted: "How in hell are we going to get any unity around here!"

Smith of New Jersey, the former Princeton professor, has been quite critical over the fact that MacArthur wasn't left in Japan to keep the occupation intact and complete the peace treaty. But privately Smith seemed to approve of removing MacArthur from military command.

Senators Knowland and Nixon, both California Republicans, are eager-beavers on the MacArthur bandwagon. But Nixon had an interesting conversation with Duff of Pennsylvania just before MacArthur was fired.

"What party does Eisenhower belong to?" Nixon asked.

Duff, one of the strongest boosters for Eisenhower, assured him that Ike was a Republican.

"I hope so," declared Nixon. "He's the man for us."

Taft Discouraged Impeachment

During the first Republican meeting in ex-Speaker Joe Martin's office on the morning MacArthur was fired, Congressman Charlie Halleck of Indiana demanded that Republicans immediately press for Truman's impeachment.

It was Bob Taft, however, who demurred. Such a move, he said, was asinine. It would be much smarter, he advised, to bring MacArthur back to the United States and build up sentiment for his case before the Republican party went all-out for him.

The impeachment idea was then dropped, though Joe Martin told GOP colleagues to keep talking about it. "We've got to keep the fire burning," he said, half joking.

Martin's Ultimatum

It was Joe Martin who adoitly masterminded the drive to invite MacArthur to a joint session of Congress. At first Democratic leaders were decidedly lukewarm, argued it would set a bad precedent for Congress to roll out the red carpet for a general, especially one ousted for insubordination. They also felt it would be an affront to President Truman.

However, Martin handed a virtual ultimatum to his old friend, Speaker Sam Rayburn. He gave him until 2:30 Friday to agree to invite MacArthur to a joint session of Congress.

"MacArthur has been away 14 years," Rayburn drawled sourly. "What's all the rush?"

So Martin extended the deadline to four o'clock.

Martin didn't say so, but the reason he pushed Rayburn was because MacArthur's office in Tokyo had given him a veiled ultimatum that the General might not speak in Washington at all unless conditions were to his choosing; also that he had to know in a hurry in order to plan his itinerary. It was also made clear that MacArthur was not anxious to answer questions before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

After getting his ultimatum from Martin, Speaker Rayburn called the White House, cautioned the President might be made a martyr by snubbing him, so it was decided the General would be given a chance to address Congress.

Rayburn then went back to Joe Martin, suggested they give MacArthur the same treatment given Eisenhower—namely, a meeting of both houses of Congress in the auditorium of the Library of Congress.

Whereupon Martin issued another ultimatum. He demanded a full-dress meeting in the House chamber. Otherwise, he warned, the Republicans would rent the vast Uline arena—an ice palace where the circus is held—and announce to the world that the Democrats would not permit MacArthur to address Congress.

Wearily, Rayburn gave in.

MacArthur Hearing

The Senate Armed Services Committee had agreed upon a secret list of witnesses for the MacArthur hearing before they received the General's first telegram declining to appear. The chosen witnesses are: Secretary of Defense Marshall, General Bradley, General Wedemeyer and Admiral Radford.

The group was agreed upon after much debate in a series of secret meetings. First, the Republican members gathered in the office of Senator Bridges of New Hampshire and prepared an ultimatum that MacArthur must be called.

Chairman Russell of Georgia interrupted a brief vacation to fly back to Washington, conferred with Bridges and gladly agreed to call MacArthur. Later the full committee was called behind closed doors at which time Russell insisted that Marshall and Bradley must also be called to tell the other side of the story.

Bridges then demanded that General Wedemeyer and Admiral Radford—who tangled with the Air Force two years ago—should also testify, since they are expected to back up MacArthur's Far Eastern policy. In the end, it was decided to call all of them.

This struggle eventuated in the Sino-Japanese War (1894-95) in which Japan was victorious, the Japanese by the Treaty of Shimonoseki gaining the Pescadores, Formosa, and the Liaotung peninsula (Dairen and Port Arthur) in Manchuria.

However, Russia, France, and Germany forced Japan to forego her Manchurian gains and to accept a money indemnity instead (1896). The same year, Russia and China signed the Li-Lobanov Treaty by which Russia gained the right to build the Chinese Eastern Railroad. Thus controlling the very area that Japan had won in war and lost by diplomacy.

And throughout this period, Russia was penetrating into Korea and establishing herself as the conqueror of Manchuria. This led to the Russo-Japanese war (1904-05) in

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman has split America. He has stirred up such dissension and division among the American people that the disunity which prevails today transcends in importance even the issues which led to his dismissal of General MacArthur.

From all over the country the evidence is piling up that Mr. Truman has stirred up bitterness such as has not been noted since the days before the Civil War. The emotional reaction to the dismissal of General MacArthur has not been lessened by the strangely partisan behavior that has developed in Congress itself.

Thus, the Democrats at first resented the idea of a joint meeting to hear General MacArthur. Only upon further reflection did they decide to go along with plans to welcome the General.

Then came the sniping and the innuendoes. Mr. Truman, who told the Democrats gathered at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner last Saturday night to put the national interest above personal interest, promptly disregarded his own political impulses and started off another wave of bitterness by his innuendo against General MacArthur.

Belittles MacArthur's Return

Within the last 24 hours another incident has brought more irritation. It has been announced that, when General MacArthur returns to Washington after an absence of 14 years spent fighting for his country, the only man who is to be sent to the airport by the White House to greet him is General Vaughan.

No more studied way of belittling the visit of General MacArthur could have been dreamed up at the White House. If this is a sample of the political judgement of the President or of his advisers, it indicates that the poor strategy which led to the peremptory firing of MacArthur has not been followed by any better understanding of the public temper.

There were half a dozen ways by which the President could have relieved General MacArthur of his command. There were many ways by which the split in this country could have been avoided. But what is much worse is that the Democratic party in Congress has lined up solidly against General MacArthur and in defense of President Truman's arbitrary action. Conversely, the Republicans, seeing the whole thing taking on a political flavor, have themselves lined up in self-defense and in defense of General MacArthur.

Thus has the most important issue before the country—how to prevent a big-scale war—been turned over to political handling. This cannot bring a bipartisan approach to world policy. It cannot bring a united spirit behind any program of the Administration. It is about the worst tragedy that could have befallen America.

President Truman must accept full responsibility for the blunder. He did not tell the party leaders in advance what he intended to do or how he intended to do it. He asked opinions from a few of the leaders, to be sure, and indicated that he had to do something. But it was one-man government that finally functioned. One man in the White House, in a sudden decision late last Tuesday, decided to dismiss a general who had served his country well and to announce that decision to the press. One-man government treated with contempt not only the valiant service of a great general but also the principle of affording a hearing to an important official engaged in an important assignment 8,000 miles away from home—a mission of civil as well as military management of an occupied country.

Sad Days For America

Mr. Truman could have sent for General MacArthur and could have threshed out the differences. If they could not [illegible] been resolved, Mr. Truman [illegible] given MacArthur the [illegible] etiring or of being relieve[illegible]h.

A false issue is now being trumped up. It is an argument being advanced by the President that MacArthur wants to bring on a large-scale war and that Mr. Truman wants peace. Nothing could be more illustrative of the narrowness of vision that prevails in Washington today. For General MacArthur is sincerely convinced that the proposals he has championed mean peace. Many observers—not in the military establishment—believe an appeasement policy by the President and the Department of State will bring on a third world war with all its horrible consequences.

General MacArthur has been reported as opposing peace-at-any-price. Actually he has not been doing any more than asking for a vigorous prosecution of a war in which 60,000 casualties already have been suffered by the United States—more casualties in nine months than in the first full year of World War II for this country.

The effort to misrepresent MacArthur's position has begun. All the engines of publicity of the Administration have been started. The President's gibe at MacArthur at the political dinner Saturday night was the beginning. Already the Democrats are getting ready to turn on the smears. These are sad days for America.

Matter Of Fact

TEHERAN

THERE IS A very simple measure of the folly of the Iranian ruling class and the flabby shortsightedness of American and British policy here. This country is being gnawed to death by a headless worm. Nowhere else in the world could the Tudeh party, without any nationally known leader, with only the smallest hard core of true Communists, constitute a serious threat. But as recent events all too clearly testify, the Tudeh party is a serious threat in Iran.

You ask any Iranian who heads the Tudeh, who leads and directs it, and even if he is one of the Tudeh's young intellectual fellow travellers, he replies with a shrug, "The Soviet Embassy."

The whole party financing, estimated at the locally enormous sum of 2,000,000 tomans a month, is openly derived from Soviet sources. Much of the flood of Tudeh literature is printed by a "clandestine" press in the Soviet embassy's huge compound. In short, a more naked operation would be hard to imagine.

Younger Men Join

In addition, the nature of Soviet intentions in Iran was disclosed as bluntly as possible during the Azerbaijan crisis in 1946, when the Tudeh following melted down almost to the hard core alone. Finally the party operates under the handicap of illegality. Although the Partisans of Peace and League to Combat the Anglo-Iranian oil company serve as useful fronts, the fact that the party is theoretically illegal at least causes inconvenience. In the face of all this, the Tudeh has completely penetrated what passes for a labor movement in Iran. With the memory of Azerbaijan fading, it has made such headway among younger men that 50 per cent of the university students and recent graduates are estimated to be members or fellow travellers. It possesses its own underground communications net, including a large radio station in Shiraz, and it sends its orders about the country as rapidly as the Iranian government itself. It is able to unleash strikes and severe disorders wherever and whenever it desires, as the last days have shown. And if present conditions continue unchanged, it will go on gaining strength and will almost inevitably win in the end.

There are four causes for this situation.

First, and most important of all, Iran's own leading men, the landlords and mercahnt-politician-millionaires who control the country, have signally failed to put the national house in order. The wartime occupation swelled the urban proletariat and opened the eyes of the peasant masses to the wretchedness of their lot. But the weak and corrupt postwar governments have utterly failed to combat the misery and hopelessness that daily increases here.

Second, the masters of the Kremlin about a year ago shrewdly changed their whole tone towards Iran, abandoning loud menace for smooth amiability. No longer reminded daily of the danger in the north, the Iranian politicians have been encouraged both to forget their dependence for protection on the West, and to fall out more readily among themselves.

Many American Mistakes

Third, the British long continued to behave here almost as though this were still the epoch of the Darcy concession. They seemed to think anything and everything could still be "arranged" in the old way until the shock of oil nationalization woke them up.

Fourth and finally, the Americans have made almost every conceivable mistake, arousing great hopes of lavish economic aid which never came; arousing great hopes also of helping the Iranians to escape from their unhappy position between the Russians and British but making no effort to do so; neither working intimately with the British nor developing an independent policy; occasionally intervening to influence local political events but never intervening decisively to produce a real result.

In the chaos thus created, the Tudeh has emerged as the only

Kroch's bookstore in Chicago sold seventeen copies of Dale Carnegie's How to Win Friends and Influence People to one cash customer the other day. Ralph Weil, who made the sale, asked, "Could I have your name?" "I suppose so," said the customer with a certain reluctance. "It's Malik."

In private life Betty Smith, whose "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" is now being fashioned into a musical play, is the wife of Joseph Piper Jones. Whenever they fare forth from their home in Chapel Hill, she relates, they have a system for, signing hotel registers. If the trip is in connection with her literary endeavors, they use her name. If it's a pleasure jaunt, they use his. One night the issue was not quite clear. Her husband poised his pen over the register and asked. "What name shall we use tonight, dear—Smith or Jones?" The room clerk hastily assured them every room was taken.

Information (?) Treaty Proposal

The American Society of Newspaper Editors, at its annual meeting in Washington this week, is to hear the reasons why the United States opposes the proposal now before the UN on freedom of information. By midsummer all UN member nations are to have commented officially on the proposal. Their comments will be considered by the UN Economic and Social Council in deciding whether to have an information freedom treaty drafted for submission to the UN nations.

In 1948 a UN conference at Geneva drew up a convention, acceptable on the whole to this country, on the narrower subject of gathering and transmitting news. But when that convention was submitted to the UN General Assembly in April, 1949, many nations insisted on many restrictions. As a result, that news-gathering convention has so far simply gathered dust.

The new freedom of information proposal would commit all nations accepting it to secure certain broad rights—such as seeking, receiving, and transmitting news and opinions—for their citizens and also for non-citizens within their territories. The United States concedes that these rights are properly subject to some restrictions in order to prevent abuses—as in this country.

However, the proposed restrictions go further. For one thing, they would prohibit the dissemination of news stories likely to wound the sensibilities of any people and of "false or distorted" reports undermining friendly relations between peoples or governments. These restrictions are supported by a bloc of states, including some Latin American and Arab ones, that control their own press and/or complain of adverse criticism in the press of other countries, especially the United States.

This country holds that restrictions like these would have authorized the suppression of dispatches on the amatory activities of King Farouk, or on the seizure of La Prensa, or on child marriage in India, or on military forces concentrated along the Yugoslav border. Yet the Soviet Union condemns the proposed restrictions as too weak to stop the "war-mongering" of the "capitalist press!"

Civil War Episode

Something not unlike the present MacArthur affair occurred in the Civil War. In each case a "Mac" was involved. The next few weeks should indicate whether the military and political repercussions will be the same now as then.

George B. McClellan, a West Point graduate who had served with distinction in the Mexican War, was made commander of the Army of the Potomac after the rout of the Union forces at Bull Run. But he postponed an attack until President Lincoln himself finally ordered a general advance on February 22, 1862. McClellan objected to the route assigned him, was granted the route he preferred, even so disobeyed the President's order, delayed his advance until March, then went forward slowly, met reverses.

McClellan complained constantly to the President and to the Secretary of War that they were not diverting to him from other fronts the additional troops he needed for a victory: "I am not responsible for this (defeat)." "If I save this army now, I tell you (Secretary of War Stanton) plainly that I owe no thanks to you or to any other person in Washington. You have done your best to sacrifice this army."

Lincoln dismissed McClellan from his command before the end of the year because of what the President called the General's "slows" and relegated him to an inactive post. But "Little Mac" was widely popular, and as the war still went badly for the Union, demands arose for his reinstatement—for instance, from the governor of New Jersey, the New York City Council, a New York and a Washington newspaper.

He was nominated by the Democratic party for President in 1864 ("Abe removed McClellan; now we'll remove Abe"); was easily defeated by Lincoln; in later years was elected governor of New Jersey. McClellan's difficulties in 1862 stemmed in large part from relying on faulty intelligence that over-stated the strength of the enemy forces.

Communists Past And Present

Still more minor Hollywood characters can be expected to confess to the House Un-American Activities Committee this week, as four confessed last week, that they had been Communist party members once upon a time. Six others refused to answer questions about any past Communist affiliation, on the grounds of self-incrimination. Ten former Hollywood writers went to jail last year for refusing to answer similar questions, but had pleaded freedom of speech instead of self-incrimination.

One in every nine or ten Communist party members in this country is in California, according to a recent estimate by J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI. One in every two is in the state of New York. Only 200 or so are to be found in the District of Columbia.

The Communist party in this country reached a membership peak of around 100,000 during the depression of 1929-33. The roll dwindled in 1939 when Stalin signed a treaty of alliance with Hitler, and today is put by Hoover at 43,000. The Communist newspaper, the "Daily Worker," once boasted a circulation of around 80,000; last month it confessed, in an appeal for funds to keep going, that it was down to 14,000 daily and 50,000 on Sunday.

However, the FBI director says that the decline in membership doesn't mean very much, because the party has deliberately gone underground and for every member has ten sympathizers ready to do its bidding. Mr. Hoover warned on March 30 that every "indoctrinated Communist" gives allegiance to Moscow and, "if there should be war," would like nothing better than to throw a mean monkey-wrench into the economic machinery of this country.

Smaller Wheat Crop

Dry weather and insects cut the prospective U. S. wheat crop in March, according to the latest forecast just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Probable production of winter wheat this year now is placed at 727,000,000 bushels, or 183,000,000 bushels less than forecast on December 1 last.

No forecast has been issued on spring wheat, which has not been planted in most areas. The winter wheat forecast compares with an average of 790,000,000 bushels for the 10 years 1940-49.

Rains since April 1 may have revived some winter wheat acreage which had been abandoned as lost, but hopes have been abandoned for a bumper wheat crop this year. What is looked for now is an average crop, with spring wheat planting expected to be about normal.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Our Blood Producing Factory

ANEMIC individuals usually are pictured as pale and weak. This is true but it does not indicate that every one with these manifestations is anemic. Even physicians are fooled occasionally. Such symptoms are associated wtih anemia because there are too few red corpuscles in the blood. These tiny cells contain hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood. The chief constituent of hemoglobin is iron, which carries oxygen to the tissues and carbon dioxide back to the lungs. Pallor stems from a shortage of hemoglobin; fatigue from an oxygen deficiency.

It is easier to understand anemia by comparing the number of red corpuscles with the automobiles on the street. There will be fewer cars if the factory fails to manufacture them or if nothing is done to renew the supply of parts so that autos can be kept in good repair. Labor - management relationships also are important; otherwise strikes and slowdowns may interfere with production or repair. Many other things can happen; the factory may burn down or be taken over for other purposes. There also is a possibility that the machinery will wear out.

An analogous condition occurs to the bone marrow, where the red cells are made. Fat or bone may grow into the spaces normally occupied by marrow. Cancer cells may invade or, as in the leukemias, the normal cells can be crowded out. These disorders are serious because blood cells have a life expectancy of about four months and, unless new ones replace the old, the outcome will be a severe anemia (aplastic). Blood transfusions offer the only hope.

In other instances the factory is working but not all the parts can be replaced. This condition is comparable to the anemias that develop in persons who do not obtain the necessary blood building elements in the diet such as foods rich in protein and iron and other minerals. The same can be said when the nutriment is improperly absorbed from the stomach because of some abnormality. The result is a deficiency anemia and treatment obviously is different. Iron tables or a diet rich in meats may be required. In some instances the iron is not absorbed by the system because the stomach lacks hydrochloric acid. On the other hand, if the liver extract principal in the diet is absent or deficient, or the individual is unable to absorb this important element, then pernicious anemia will occur. Iron, in the circumstances, will not be of value whereas liver extract and vitamin B-12 will.

The glandular system also plays a role. By this we refer to the effect of the adrenal, pituitary, and thyroid glands which enter into the control of blood production, utilization, and destruction. Any abnormality along this line obviously upsets the applecart.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen advises periodic checkups during pregnancy.

CALCIUM COLLECTOR

P. M. writes: Can you explain to me why I have collected calcium in my knee caps, elbows and shoulders?

REPLY

If the calcium is in the bursae this chalklike material results from irritation and represents a form of healing. It is harder than ordinary scar tissue. If it is on the surface and pieces fall out from time to time, calcinosis may be responsible. This condition frequently is caused by disturbances in calcium or cholesterol metabolism.

VIRUS INFECTION

S. W. Writes: I've had several attacks of stomach flue this winter, as have many of my friends. Is this because the first one was not cleared up entirely or is each a new attack?

REPLY

The question is difficult to answer because flu has a tendency to behave in this fashion and it is possible that you were not cured. I assume that the diagnosis is correct; if there is a question along this line, see your physician.

STIMULANT

B. W. writes: Why does the heart beat faster after drinking coffee?

REPLY

Because coffee is a stimulant. The effect depends upon the amount consumed and how much caffeine is absorbed.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Mrs. R. K. writes: This is a sort of which came first, the chicken or the egg, question. Do kidney ailments cause hypertension or vice versa?

REPLY

Both are possible. If kidney trouble develops the chances of developing hypertension are greater than ordinarily.

PAIN IN THE CHEST

K. T. writes: Does pain in the chest always mean heart disease?

REPLY

By no means; there are many other causes besides heart disease. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing causes of chest pain.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

GOP Reaction To MacArthur Incident Differs; Senator Taft Discouraged Impeachment Of Truman; Joe Martin Issued Ultimatum To Sam Rayburn

WASHINGTON — Capitol Hill cloakrooms have been buzzing as never before over the MacArthur incident. This is true of Republicans perhaps more than Democrats. The Democrats are glum, the Republicans elated—though not all of them.

Here are highlights from some of the most significant of these backstate conversations:

Bob Taft expressed concern to Senator Wherry of Nebraska that the GOP may get stuck with MacArthur as its 1952 presidential candidate. Of course, this would eliminate him, though Taft didn't mention this to Wherry. Taft has been noticeably irritable, has snapped at Senate functionaries and fellow senators. He got in a private wrangle with Bob Kerr of Oklahoma over Kerr's statement criticizing MacArthur.

GOP Senator Millikin of Colorado also expressed worry that Eisenhower would oppose MacArthur, which would split the Republicans down the middle. Bridges of New Hampshire replied that Eisenhower was too smart to get into the middle, that Eisenhower also might differ with Truman and run the risk of being fired.

Bridges has been bustling around GOP cloakrooms more than anyone else. He told one group joyfully: "This is the biggest windfall that has ever come to the Republican party."

On one occasion, Virginia's Senator Robertson, a Democrat, remarked to Bridges: "Well, you have a new candidate for president."

"He's better than the present President," the New Hampshire Senator shot back.

"I guess there's a lot of life left in him even at 71," piped up Lodge of Massachusetts.

Actually, Lodge, Duff of Pennsylvania and Ives of New York have held some worried huddles about the MacArthur boom and how it would affect their Eisenhower boom. During one of these huddles, Ives snorted: "How in hell are we going to get any unity around here!"

Smith of New Jersey, the former Princeton professor, has been quite critical over the fact that MacArthur wasn't left in Japan to keep the occupation intact and complete the peace treaty. But privately Smith seemed to approve of removing MacArthur from military command.

Senators Knowland and Nixon, both California Republicans, are eager-beavers on the MacArthur bandwagon. But Nixon had an interesting conversation with Duff of Pennsylvania just before MacArthur was fired.

"What party does Eisenhower belong to?" Nixon asked.

Duff, one of the strongest boosters for Eisenhower, assured him that Ike was a Republican.

"I hope so," declared Nixon. "He's the man for us."

Taft Discouraged Impeachment

During the first Republican meeting in ex-Speaker Joe Martin's office on the morning MacArthur was fired, Congressman Charlie Halleck of Indiana demanded that Republicans immediately press for Truman's impeachment.

It was Bob Taft, however, who demurred. Such a move, he said, was asinine. It would be much smarter, he advised, to bring MacArthur back to the United States and build up sentiment for his case before the Republican party went all-out for him.

The impeachment idea was then dropped, though Joe Martin told GOP colleagues to keep talking about it. "We've got to keep the fire burning," he said, half joking.

Martin's Ultimatum

It was Joe Martin who adoitly masterminded the drive to invite MacArthur to a joint session of Congress. At first Democratic leaders were decidedly lukewarm, argued it would set a bad precedent for Congress to roll out the red carpet for a general, especially one ousted for insubordination. They also felt it would be an affront to President Truman.

However, Martin handed a virtual ultimatum to his old friend, Speaker Sam Rayburn. He gave him until 2:30 Friday to agree to invite MacArthur to a joint session of Congress.

"MacArthur has been away 14 years," Rayburn drawled sourly. "What's all the rush?"

So Martin extended the deadline to four o'clock.

Martin didn't say so, but the reason he pushed Rayburn was because MacArthur's office in Tokyo had given him a veiled ultimatum that the General might not speak in Washington at all unless conditions were to his choosing; also that he had to know in a hurry in order to plan his itinerary. It was also made clear that MacArthur was not anxious to answer questions before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

After getting his ultimatum from Martin, Speaker Rayburn called the White House, cautioned the President might be made a martyr by snubbing him, so it was decided the General would be given a chance to address Congress.

Rayburn then went back to Joe Martin, suggested they give MacArthur the same treatment given Eisenhower—namely, a meeting of both houses of Congress in the auditorium of the Library of Congress.

Whereupon Martin issued another ultimatum. He demanded a full-dress meeting in the House chamber. Otherwise, he warned, the Republicans would rent the vast Uline arena—an ice palace where the circus is held—and announce to the world that the Democrats would not permit MacArthur to address Congress.

Wearily, Rayburn gave in.

MacArthur Hearing

The Senate Armed Services Committee had agreed upon a secret list of witnesses for the MacArthur hearing before they received the General's first telegram declining to appear. The chosen witnesses are: Secretary of Defense Marshall, General Bradley, General Wedemeyer and Admiral Radford.

The group was agreed upon after much debate in a series of secret meetings. First, the Republican members gathered in the office of Senator Bridges of New Hampshire and prepared an ultimatum that MacArthur must be called.

Chairman Russell of Georgia interrupted a brief vacation to fly back to Washington, conferred with Bridges and gladly agreed to call MacArthur. Later the full committee was called behind closed doors at which time Russell insisted that Marshall and Bradley must also be called to tell the other side of the story.

Bridges then demanded that General Wedemeyer and Admiral Radford—who tangled with the Air Force two years ago—should also testify, since they are expected to back up MacArthur's Far Eastern policy. In the end, it was decided to call all of them.

These Days

The Position Of Japan

NO PHASE of the MacArthur controversy is more important than the future of Japan Conquered by the United States, in a phase of World War II in which no other country played an important role, Japan could have been devastated. Instead, Douglas MacArthur brought to Japan ample evidence that the United States can end a fight with a handshake and even help the enemy to a reconstructed life.

Thus, MacArthur as our proconsul created a new Japan. Whatever its role is to be, its foundation is the friendship and support of the United States. The Japanese cannot defend themselves. They have not the economic means to sustain themselves. Left alone, they must fall a prey to Soviet Russia.

Their dependence upon the United States has been symbolized by the personality of General Douglas MacArthur. Despite the almost universal cliche that human nature is the same everywhere, it is more correct to say that different human being do not respond in the same manner to identical challenges. The Japanese have been conditioned by their history to accept the leadership of one individual, whether he be mikado or shogun. In a word, they approach the man-god concept of leadership.

MacArthur's personality and his moralistic conduct in Japan fitted this Japanese concept. Therefore, his success in Japan depended as much upon his personality as upon his authority. He became the father of the Japanese people and they expected from him not only guidance but protection.

MacArthur's attitude toward Russia coincided with the Japanese attitude. For the Japanese have for nearly 100 years feared and hated the Russians. Before Japan was opened to the world by Commodore Perry (in 1853), Russia made several attempts to settle on Japan but failed. After Perry, extraterritoriality and a conventional tariff were established over Japan and foreign troops were stationed in that country, the Russians establishing a garrison in Nagasaki, the evils of which were remembered even in my time in that country.

After the Meiji Revolution (1868), the Japanese sent delegations to America and to several European countries to learn the processes of modernization, but they did not send a delegation to Russia.

In 1882, Korea was opened to Western trade, with China, Japan and Russia vying for control of that country. This struggle eventuated in the Sino-Japanese War (1894-95) in which Japan was victorious, the Japanese by the Treaty of Shimonoseki gaining the Pescadores, Formosa, and the Liaotung peninsula (Dairen and Port Arthur) in Manchuria.

However, Russia, France, and Germany forced Japan to forego her Manchurian gains and to accept a money indemnity instead (1896). The same year, Russia and China signed the Li-Lobanov Treaty by which Russia gained the right to build the Chinese Eastern Railroad. Thus controlling the very area that Japan had won in war and lost by diplomacy.

And throughout this period, Russia was penetrating into Korea and establishing herself as the conqueror of Manchuria. This led to the Russo-Japanese war (1904-05) in WASHINGTON — President Truman has split America. He has stirred up such dissension and division among the American people that the disunity which prevails today transcends in importance even the issues which led to his dismissal of General MacArthur.

Belittles MacArthur's Return

Within the last 24 hours another incident has brought more irritation. It has been announced that, when General MacArthur returns to Washington after an absence of 14 years spent fighting for his country, the only man who is to be sent to the airport by the White House to greet him is General Vaughan.

The effort to misrepresent MacArthur's position has begun. All the engines of publicity of the Administration have been started. The President's gibe at MacArthur at the political dinner Saturday night was the beginning. Already the Democrats are getting ready to turn on the smears. These are sad days for America.

Nowhere else in the world could the Tudeh party, without any nationally known leader, with only the smallest hard core of true Communists, constitute a serious threat. But as recent events all too clearly testify, the Tudeh party is a serious threat in Iran.

You ask any Iranian who heads the Tudeh, who leads and directs it, and even if he is one of the Tudeh's young intellectual fellow travellers, he replies with a shrug, "The Soviet Embassy."

The whole party financing, estimated at the locally enormous sum of 2,000,000 tomans a month, is openly derived from Soviet sources. Much of the flood of Tudeh literature is printed by a "clandestine" press in the Soviet embassy's huge compound. In short, a more naked operation would be hard to imagine.

Younger Men Join

In addition, the nature of Soviet intentions in Iran was disclosed as bluntly as possible during the Azerbaijan crisis in 1946, when the Tudeh following melted down almost to the hard core alone. Finally the party operates under the handicap of illegality. Although the Partisans of Peace and League to Combat the Anglo-Iranian oil company serve as useful fronts, the fact that the party is theoretically illegal at least causes inconvenience. In the face of all this, the Tudeh has completely penetrated what passes for a labor movement in Iran. With the memory of Azerbaijan fading, it has made such headway among younger men that 50 per cent of the university students and recent graduates are estimated to be members or fellow travellers. It possesses its own underground communications net, including a large radio station in Shiraz, and it sends its orders about the country as rapidly as the Iranian government itself. It is able to unleash strikes and severe disorders wherever and whenever it desires, as the last days have shown. And if present conditions continue unchanged, it will go on gaining strength and will almost inevitably win in the end.

There are four causes for this situation.

First, and most important of all, Iran's own leading men, the landlords and mercahnt-politician-millionaires who control the country, have signally failed to put the national house in order. The wartime occupation swelled the urban proletariat and opened the eyes of the peasant masses to the wretchedness of their lot. But the weak and corrupt postwar governments have utterly failed to combat the misery and hopelessness that daily increases here.

Second, the masters of the Kremlin about a year ago shrewdly changed their whole tone towards Iran, abandoning loud menace for smooth amiability. No longer reminded daily of the danger in the north, the Iranian politicians have been encouraged both to forget their dependence for protection on the West, and to fall out more readily among themselves.

Many American Mistakes

Third, the British long continued to behave here almost as though this were still the epoch of the Darcy concession. They seemed to think anything and everything could still be "arranged" in the old way until the shock of oil nationalization woke them up.

Fourth and finally, the Americans have made almost every conceivable mistake, arousing great hopes of lavish economic aid which never came; arousing great hopes also of helping the Iranians to escape from their unhappy position between the Russians and British but making no effort to do so; neither working intimately with the British nor developing an independent policy; occasionally intervening to influence local political events but never intervening decisively to produce a real result.

In the chaos thus created, the Tudeh has emerged as the only

Krogh's bookstore in Chicago sold seventeen copies of Dale Carnegie's How to Win Friends and Influence People to one cash customer the other day. Ralph Weil, who made the sale, asked, "Could I have your name?" "I suppose so," said the customer with a certain reluctance. "It's Malik."

In private life Betty Smith, whose "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" is now being fashioned into a musical play, is the wife of Joseph Piper Jones. Whenever they fare forth from their home in Chapel Hill, she relates, they have a system for signing hotel registers. If the trip is in connection with her literary endeavors, they use her name. If it's a pleasure jaunt, they use his. One night the issue was not quite clear. Her husband poised his pen over the register and asked, "What name shall we use tonight, dear—Smith or Jones?" The room clerk hastily assured them every room was taken.

New A-Weapons Please McMahon

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — The Senate-House Atomic Committee today checked up on the nation's atomic weapons and Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) reported he was "pleased" by the improvements being made.

He said there have been many improvements, hinted of the increased power of the new weapons and spoke of "future tests." But he declined to go into detail.

McMahon made his comments to newsmen after the committee met behind closed doors to discuss the weapons program with members of the Atomic Energy Commission, several of the commission's technical experts and Air Force officers.

He said the committee "checked up on the Navada tests in relation to the program at Los Alamos" and discussed "past tests and future tests" of atomic weapons.

The commission's weapons center is at Los Alamos, N. M. Large-scale weapons tests were conducted recently near Las Vegas, Nev.

McMahon said the committee also heard comparisons of the "explosive capacity of present weapons measured in kilo tons" with the explosive force of the early atomic bombs dropped on Japan during World War II.

Asked directly whether the present weapons have much greater force, the Senator replied:

Motorist Yells At Wrong Man

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 17 (AP) —Vincent Labarie, 25, Passaic, N. J., hollered at the wrong man today.

Labarie started to back into a no-parking zone in front of the police station. Another motorist slid into the spot.

The other motorist was Police Chief Albert W. Simpson.

Baltimore Election Probers Quiz Pollack

BALTIMORE April 17 (AP)—James H. (Jack) Pollack, storm center of Baltimore politics, went before the grand jury today to answer some questions about the city primary elections last month.

Another on the list of witnesses was Murray L. Schuster, treasurer for the candidates who ran for the City Council in the Fourth Legislative District with Pollack's blessing.

Two Republican candidates for city offices in the general election May 8 also were questioned.

The grand jury has been working for almost two weeks on its inquiry into spending and other activities in the primaries.

Clark Gable, Wife "Have Marital Spat"

HOLLYWOOD, April 17 (AP) — Clark Gable's studio said today the handsome actor and his wife "have had a marital spat" but it probably won't result in a separation.

Gable returned today from a trip he made alone to Arizona, and a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spokesman said he met with his wife, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley, to discuss their problems.

Violence Marks Textile Strike

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 17 (AP) —Shooting, a dynamiting and bitter words punctuated the CIO's southern textile strike today.

Management accused the Textile Workers Union of America of importing professional agitators at Danville, Va. TWUA's president placed responsibility for the wounding of a striker there on Dan River Mills. Shots and tear gas were fired at that huge mill.

The home of Mrs. H. P. Honeycutt, 38, herself a TWUA member, was dynamited at Durham, N. C. She had continued to work during the 17-day-old strike to support three of her five children. Nobody was injured but the house was damaged.

Tear gas bombs were hurled at Dan River's Schoolfield plant last midnight as state police sought to break up a demonstration. The next shift was not disturbed.

But late today state police used the threat of tear gas and clubs to break up another demonstration at the mill gates.

A crowd of about 501 strikers tried to block the exit of workers remaining on the job, state police said, but they were dispersed without any violence.

So the case will be tried all over again tomorrow before a new set of jurors.

Father Refuses To Approve Transfusion To Save Child

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP) — "My religious teachings forbid it."

That was the adamant answer a young father gave today to medical experts' pleading that he approve a blood transfusion to save the life of his six-day-old daughter, Cheryl Lynn.

The state's attorney's office consulted a judge about whether the juvenile code could be invoked to get around parental authority and obtain medical treatment.

The parents, Darrell and Rhoda Labrenz, 25 and 20, described themselves as Jehovah's Witnesses. Their stand against transfusions, they maintain is plainly set forth in the Bible (Genesis, Chapter 9):

"But flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat."

Their little daughter lies in Bethany Hospital, sinking rapidly since birth with a blood condition in which the vital red blood cells are killed off.

The condition, RH factor, is caused by the parents having opposing factor blood types. Physicians said the child's life can be saved by a complete flushing of her blood stream.

Negro Farmhand Held On Charge Of Rape

EASTON, Md., April 17 (AP) — A negro farmhand was held tonight on a charge of raping the 32-year-old mother of two children.

Talbot County State's Attorney Harry E. Clark identified the man as Oscar Newcomb, 26, of near Federalsburg.

Authorities were taking elaborate precautions against possible mob action. Clark said Newcomb would be moved from the county jail at Easton as an additional safety measure, but he would not say where the prisoner will be taken.

Family Life Workshop Is Conducted

A favorable "Life Journey from Birth to Death" depends primarily upon three things, Mrs. Jeanne S. Moehn, Family Life specialist from the University of Maryland, told District 1 Homemakers' Clubs yesterday at the meeting in the city hall.

These Mrs. Moehn listed as first the ability to live each period, infancy, preschool, childhood, adolescence, early maturity, middle life and old age, so completely that one is willing to relinquish it and pass on to the next period; second, upon the kind of life in each stage of development, making them ready for the next; and third, upon the individual being able to accept the transitions of life happily without fear.

Each phase was discussed from the physical, psychological and communal side. It was suggested that "Family Relationship" is a more inclusive name for this committee. In summary it was agreed that emotional stability is attained and partly dependent upon emotional maturity of parents; wise childhood guidance; activity; acceptance of self; earned recognition; loving and being loved, and a wholesome philosophy of living.

Family Life Workshop Is Conducted

A favorable "Life Journey from Birth to Death" depends primarily upon three things, Mrs. Jeanne S. Moehn, Family Life specialist from the University of Maryland, told District 1 Homemakers' Clubs yesterday at the meeting in the city hall.

These Mrs. Moehn listed as first the ability to live each period, infancy, preschool, childhood, adolescence, early maturity, middle life and old age, so completely that one is willing to relinquish it and pass on to the next period; second, upon the kind of life in each stage of development, making them ready for the next; and third, upon the individual being able to accept the transitions of life happily without fear.

Each phase was discussed from the physical, psychological and communal side. It was suggested that "Family Relationship" is a more inclusive name for this committee. In summary it was agreed that emotional stability is attained and partly dependent upon emotional maturity of parents; wise childhood guidance; activity; acceptance of self; earned recognition; loving and being loved, and a wholesome philosophy of living.

Mrs. E. E. McCollough county chairman, introduced the speaker. The following clubs were represented by chairmen, LaVale, Frostburg, East Side, Valley Road, Bedford Road, Ellerslie, Mapleside, Union Grove and Cresaptown.

For an April shower, surprise the bride-to-be with a complete trousseau of her favorite aids to beauty!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

YOU'LL BE giving the bride-to-be proof-positive of your well wishes if you surprise her with a shower of her favorite beauty preparations. My bridal consultant says such a gift is not only a high tribute to the bride's present and future femininity and loveliness, but a lavish gesture she would not even think of making in her own behalf while she's concentrating all her efforts on a gleaming wedding gown and a shining new home.

It's the one and only time of her life, however, that her Uncle John Powers will forgive her for overlooking the provisions for her beauty care, and then not for long. There's no surer way for any woman to let romance slip out of her life than to neglect her beauty routines after her wedding.

A Cosmetic Trousseau

Only a foolish lovely would begin her new life by unfolding her beauty routines as anything less than fastidious rites. Any woman's dressing table contents should be as neat, handsome and adequate as the rest of her home. The gift of a new set of beauty preparations will prevent any heedlessness on her part from getting her off to a bad start.

The list that follows is just about right for every woman after she reaches twenty years:

For a shining halo: A liquid or liquifying shampoo; a hair freshener for between-set cleansings; a pomade or dressing for daily grooming; a spray-on "veil" for wisp control and finished effects at any time; a packet of pastel nets; assorted lengths of pretty hair ribbons and delicate chiffon scarves.

For a petal skin: Soap suited to the skin type; a cleanser for cosmetic removal; a non-gooey night-care preparation; all make-up requisites from foundation through mascara, including a lipstick wardrobe; pastel tissue; cotton balls; magnifying mirror; a travel kit for journeying cosmetics; a handsomely fitted purse kit.

Feminine Touches

For a hand-box look: A set of bath and beauty brushes.

Washington Whirl

WASHINGTON

OVER every breakfast, lunch, cocktail and dinner table MacArthur's the main topic . . . Politicos rasping: "Told you so. Just as we suspected! Truman has made up his mind not to run. This proves it!" . . . Old soldiers convinced: "The '52 presidential campaign will be something — with Republicans running Mac, and Democrats behind his one-time protege, Ike!"

●—●—●

When the circus pitches its tent, May 15, Betty Hutton and Hedy Lamarr "look forward to finishing scenes here in Cecil B. DeMille's "Greatest Show on Earth."

AUSTINE

Washington itself has often been called a three ring circus but this year Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey have a few acts that even we haven't got . . . And costumes this year were designed with the technicolor movie, begun at Sarasota, Florida, in mind.

Besides movie stars, this year the circus will be using a brand-new tent for the first time . . . Heretofore they had one for menagerie and one for performers . . . Among the new acts are some flown in from Italy, Germany and Spain which weren't on hand for the Madison Square Garden opening . . . By the way, didya know Italy produces the most riding and tight-rop walking acts? . . . Spain trapeze artists . . . The Latins, apparently, have a better sense of balance than any nationality.

President Truman himself recently signed a bill permitting these foreign circus performers to come here and work for six months.

BUFFALO BILL TO GARGANTUA

If you didn't realize how many grown-up "fans" the circus has, remember that this month alone three books have been published on the Big Top! . . . In one, "Step Right Up" by Dan Mannix, the author, a fugitive from Philadelphia's Main Line, tells how he joined the show the same night that "Flamo the Great" blew himself up while doing the human volcano effect . . . Mannix became an apprentice fire-eater, which he describes in hair-raising or, better hair-singeing detail.

In the other book called "Circus," you read how George A. Hamid, called the "greatest tumbler of all time," began as an acrobat and ended up, not end up, but as head of a circus and a tycoon . . . George Hamid buddied with Buffalo Bill and Annie Oakley taught him to read English . . .

In the third book, Veterinarian "Doc" Henderson, reminisces on John Ringling North's summoning him in 1941 to become medico to the livestock (wild and otherwise) in The Greatest Show on Earth . . . Among many feats the author has: Removed abscesses from elephants' ears, treated giraffes for tuberculosis, wormed polar bears mended broken jaws on lions, and was in attendance upon Gargantua when the latter died. "The real tragedy of a gorilla is that his diseases may be curable but the patient himself is untreatable," says circus vet J. Y. Henderson in "Circus Doctor."

FIRST LADY DODGE

Francesca Lodge, now Connecticut's First Lady, and always interested in plugging the arts, made a special trip to Manhattan to give her brother-in-law Emlen Etting's exhibit at a gallery there her personal sendoff.

TEXAS TEA PARTY

A Texas tea party, a fanfare for native son Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, took over the Congressional Club the other afternoon. . . . And guests couldn't help but notice how many beauties that state has sent to Washington's official set . . . They say all the models and showgirls in New York come from Texas—well, so do many of the Capital's leading ladies:

Many of them took turns at the tea table the other afternoon, such as: petite, auburn-haired Mrs. Tom Clark, wife of the Supreme Court Justice . . . Tall, curvaceous Mrs. Ken Regan, wife of the Congressman . . . And feminine "Ladybird" Johnson, a Senate lady . . . And they are only a few of the Lone Star's goodlookers.

BATS ON HER HEAD

A bat hat — will decorate the belfry of Jarmila Novotna, the Met star, this spring . . . You need not read this again . . . You read it right the first time . . . The singer asked Walter Florell to throw together a chapeau . . . She wanted to wear to parties in her honor while she's on tour this spring in the production of "The Bat" . . . So the designer has literally collected stuffed bats to plant on her brim . . . Can you top this?

truly organized and powerful national grouping. Besides the Tudeh there is only the band of politicians of the National Front, led by Dr. Mussadegh, and their religious fanatic allies, the Fedayan Islam of the Mullah Kashani, one of whose followers murdered Gen. Razmara. The murder of Razmara, as everyone knows, led to the oil nationalization vote. As a result the National Front now dominates the official political scene.

But of these events also, the Tudeh will inherit the benefits. On the one hand, the political assassinations have largely demoralized the run of the mill Iranian politicians. On the other hand, the bitter outburst of anti-foreign feeling has greatly diminished the opportunities for American and British policy to influence the situation. And meanwhile nationalization itself remains as an immense, unsolved problem, to complicate, confuse and violently exaggerate the whole political process.

The likelihood of some sort of eventual explosion is all too plain. Fortunately, American and British influence has not been wholly dissipated. The Shah remains a commanding figure and the army, still loyal to the Shah, still seems able to control the situation. If cool, clear headed action is taken in Washington, London and Tehran, a disaster here may yet be avoided. But this action must be taken very soon.

When the circus pitches its tent, May 15, Betty Hutton and Hedy Lamarr "look forward to finishing scenes here in Cecil B. DeMille's "Greatest Show on Earth."

AUSTINE

Washington itself has often been called a three ring circus but this year Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey have a few acts that even we haven't got . . . And costumes this year were designed with the technicolor movie, begun at Sarasota, Florida, in mind.

Besides movie stars, this year the circus will be using a brand-new tent for the first time . . . Heretofore they had one for menagerie and one for performers . . . Among the new acts are some flown in from Italy, Germany and Spain which weren't on hand for the Madison Square Garden opening . . . By the way, didya know Italy produces the most riding and tight-rop walking acts? . . . Spain trapeze artists . . . The Latins, apparently, have a better sense of balance than any nationality.

President Truman himself recently signed a bill permitting these foreign circus performers to come here and work for six months.

BUFFALO BILL TO GARGANTUA

If you didn't realize how many grown-up "fans" the circus has, remember that this month alone three books have been published on the Big Top! . . . In one, "Step Right Up" by Dan Mannix, the author, a fugitive from Philadelphia's Main Line, tells how he joined the show the same night that "Flamo the Great" blew himself up while doing the human volcano effect . . . Mannix became an apprentice fire-eater, which he describes in hair-raising or, better hair-singeing detail.

In the other book called "Circus," you read how George A. Hamid, called the "greatest tumbler of all time," began as an acrobat and ended up, not end up, but as head of a circus and a tycoon . . . George Hamid buddied with Buffalo Bill and Annie Oakley taught him to read English . . .

In the third book, Veterinarian "Doc" Henderson, reminisces on John Ringling North's summoning him in 1941 to become medico to the livestock (wild and otherwise) in The Greatest Show on Earth . . . among many feats the author has:

Removed abscesses from elephants' ears, treated giraffes for tuberculosis, wormed polar bears mended broken jaws on lions, and was in attendance upon Gargantua when the latter died. "The real tragedy of a gorilla is that his diseases may be curable but the patient himself is untreatable," says circus vet J. Y. Henderson in "Circus Doctor."

FIRST LADY DODGE

Francesca Lodge, now Connecticut's First Lady, and always interested in plugging the arts, made a special trip to Manhattan to give her brother-in-law Emlen Etting's exhibit at a gallery there her personal sendoff.

TEXAS TEA PARTY

A Texas tea party, a fanfare for native son Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, took over the Congressional Club the other afternoon. . . . And guests couldn't help but notice how many beauties that state has sent to Washington's official set . . . They say all the models and showgirls in New York come from Texas—well, so do many of the Capital's leading ladies.

Many of them took turns at the tea table the other afternoon, such as: petite, auburn-haired Mrs. Tom Clark, wife of the Supreme Court Justice . . . Tall, curvaceous Mrs. Ken Regan, wife of the Congressman . . . And feminine "Ladybird" Johnson, a Senate lady . . . And they are only a few of the Lone Star's goodlookers.

BATS ON HER HEAD

A bat hat — will decorate the belfry of Jarmila Novotna, the Met star, this spring . . . You need not read this again . . . You read it right the first time . . . The singer asked Walter Florell to throw together a chapeau . . . She wanted to wear to parties in her honor while she's on tour this spring in the production of "The Bat" . . . So the designer has literally collected stuffed bats to plant on her brim . . . Can you top this?

truly organized and powerful national grouping. Besides the Tudeh there is only the band of politicians of the National Front, led by Dr. Mussadegh, and their religious fanatic allies, the Fedayan Islam of the Mullah Kashani, one of whose followers murdered Gen. Razmara. The murder of Razmara, as everyone knows, led to the oil nationalization vote. As a result the National Front now dominates the official political scene.

But of these events also, the Tudeh will inherit the benefits. On the one hand, the political assassinations have largely demoralized the run of the mill Iranian politicians. On the other hand, the bitter outburst of anti-foreign feeling has greatly diminished the opportunities for American and British policy to influence the situation. And meanwhile nationalization itself remains as an immense, unsolved problem, to complicate, confuse and violently exaggerate the whole political process.

The likelihood of some sort of eventual explosion is all too plain. Fortunately, American and British influence has not been wholly dissipated. The Shah remains a commanding figure and the Army, still loyal to the Shah, still seems able to control the situation. If so, clear headed action is taken in Washington, London and Tehran a disaster here may yet be avoided. But this action must be taken very soon.

For an April shower, surprise the bride-to-be with a complete trousseau of her favorite aids to beauty!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

YOU'LL BE giving the bride-to-be proof-positive of your well wishes if you surprise her with a shower of her favorite beauty preparations. My bridal consultant says such a gift is not only a high tribute to the bride's present and future femininity and loveliness, but a lavish gesture she would not even think of making in her own behalf while she's concentrating all her efforts on a gleaming wedding gown and a shining new home.

It's the one and only time of her life, however, that her Uncle John Powers will forgive her for overlooking the provisions for her beauty care, and then not for long. There's no surer way for any woman to let romance slip out of her life than to neglect her beauty routines after her wedding.

A Cosmetic Trousseau

Only a foolish lovely would begin her new life by unfolding her beauty routines as anything less than fastidious rites. Any woman's dressing table contents should be as neat, handsome and adequate as the rest of her home. The gift of a new set of beauty preparations will prevent any heedlessness on her part from getting her off to a bad start.

The list that follows is just about right for every woman after she reaches twenty years:

For a shining halo: A liquid or liquifying shampoo; a hair freshener for between-set cleansings; a pomade or dressing for daily grooming; a spray-on "veil" for wisp control and finished effects at any time; a packet of pastel nets; assorted lengths of pretty hair ribbons and delicate chiffon scarves.

For a petal skin: Soap suited to the skin type; a cleanser for cosmetic removal; a non-gooey night-care preparation; all make-up requisites from foundation through mascara, including a lipstick wardrobe; pastel tissue; cotton balls; magnifying mirror; a travel kit for journeying cosmetics; a handsomely fitted purse kit.

Feminine Touches

For a feminine touch: A manicure kit; cosmetic gloves; hand lotion.

For a hand-box look: A set of bath and beauty brushes.

YOUR IDEAL WEIGHT

A new, lighting calculator that tells you how to compute your own individual ideal weight. Write to me in care of this newspapers, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask for "Your Ideal Weight."

Tomorrow: Leg beauty.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) A SOGGY ANTI-climax will be reached at the Washington airport when Douglas MacArthur steps out of his rocketing "Bataan" and accepts the extended hand of the official greeter at the bottom of the tin steps.

MacArthur has undergone a sequence of memorable handshakes in the past few days. In Tokyo there were emotional handclasps from Emperor Hirohito and the man who must fill MacArthur's sizeable shoes, Lt. Gen. Matt Ridgway.

At Pearl Harbor the man at the bottom of the steps as MacArthur alighted was that tremendous fighting man, Adm. Arthur W. Radford. At San Francisco it was one of the Army's most brilliant officers, Lt. Gen. Alfred C. Wedemeyer.

But at Washington the extended hand of welcome will be that of Harry Vaughan.

Mr. Truman apparently combed his staff from top to bottom looking for just the right ersatz Grover Whalen to represent him at the airport. I don't know the process by which he eliminated MacArthur's two equals in rank, Bradley and Marshall, and the four-star general who holds MacArthur's old job as chief of staff, Lawton Collins. But they were passed over like yardbirds.

In selecting the official welcomer, the President may have felt himself further handicapped by the recent resignation from the White House staff of Mrs. Merl Young. The loss of that splendid public servant has left a considerable void in the White House talent list.

• — • — •

I have made a studious survey of Vaughan's qualifications as a representative of the White House at this unique homecoming of a great an dignified American. Results are somewhat bewildering. Or are they?

Mr. Truman apparently considers it fitting and just to have MacArthur met by a lunk-head whose chief contribution to the national weal is his ability to tell stories based mainly on four-letter words.

The man picked to represent the majesty of the United States has a sense of humor which also expressed itself in turning a pig loose in the office of J. Edgar Hoover, and lewdly telling a member of President Auriol's party recently that the only French he knew concerned certain sexual relations.

MacArthur's greeter served briefly in Australia early in the war, as provost marshal of Brisbane, but was abruptly relieved of his position — unquestionably at MacArthur's request.

At a time, shortly after the war, when there was a critical shortage in building materials, Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods told a Senate committee that MacArthur's greeter attempted to swing White House pressure behind the building of the Tanforan racetrack.

One of the best pals MacArthur's greeter ever had was John Maragon who, it was developed in hearings leading up to his conviction for perjury, had the run of Vaughan's office, used his phone, and tripped with him.

On a familiar witness stand, MacArthur's greeter once testified that he had accepted a campaign contribution from a lawyer who had been after him to spring a liquor dealer convicted of black marketing.

Our man went in big for deep freezes at one time—free freezes—and passed them around like cigars. Bess Truman got one.

• — • — •

When the Department of Agriculture was attempting to conserve grain supplies by cutting the quotas of booze distillers, MacArthur's greeter grabbed a phone and told Agriculture it would have to rescind the order.

"I'm the one you're to deal with on that," he raged, according to later testimony concerning Vaughan's career as a fixer.

MacArthur's greeter accepted a medal from Peron's government, and when he was criticized and it was suggested that he be divorced from the public payroll, the President rose at a Washington dinner, in mixed company, and growled:

"If any S.O.B. thinks he can get me to discharge any of my staff or cabinet by any smart aleck remark over the air, he's got another think coming."

MacArthur's greeter took a nice party of 11 on a junket to Guatamala a couple of years ago and when a reporter asked him who picked up the tab he roared, "It's nobody's damn business."

MacArthur's greeter has known Harry Truman for 33 years. They served together as artillerymen at Fort Sill, Okla., and in France. When H.S.T. was elected to the Senate, he made his profane old friend his secretary. Later, Vaughan became the first military aide ever assigned to a vice president. The taxpayers have long provided him with a $12,000 a year salary, certain tax-free expenses, and a car and chauffeur.

His history records no athletic prowess at school, but in Washington there's no question about it—he's our foremost four-letter man. And the President feels that he is best fitted to welcome back to Washington a highly moral and gifted man who has devoted 50 years to keeping that capital secure.

Our man went in big for deep freezes at one time—free freezes—and passed them around like cigars. Bess Truman got one.

• — • — •

When the Department of Agriculture was attempting to conserve grain supplies by cutting the quotas of booze distillers, MacArthur's greeter grabbed a phone and told Agriculture it would have to rescind the order.

"I'm the one you're to deal with on that," he raged, according to later testimony concerning Vaughan's career as a fixer.

MacArthur's greeter accepted a medal from Peron's government, and when he was criticized and it was suggested that he be divorced on the public payroll, the President rose at a Washington dinner, in mixed company, and growled:

"If any S.O.B. thinks he can get me to discharge any of my staff or cabinet by any smart aleck remark over the air, he's got another think coming."

MacArthur's greeter took a nice party of 11 on a junket to Guatamala a couple of years ago and when a reporter asked him who picked up the tab he roared, "It's nobody's damn business."

MacArthur's greeter has known Harry Truman for 33 years. They served together as artillerymen at Fort Sill, Okla., and in France. When H.S.T. was elected to the Senate, he made his profane old friend his secretary. Later, Vaughan became the first military aide ever assigned to a vice president. The taxpayers have long provided him with a $12,000 a year salary, certain tax-free expenses, and a car and chauffeur.

His history records no athletic prowess at school, but in Washington there's no question about it—he's our foremost four-letter man. And the President feels that he is best fitted to welcome back to Washington a highly moral and gifted man who has devoted 50 years to keeping that capital secure.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) A SOGGY ANTI-climax will be reached at the Washington airport when Douglas MacArthur steps out of his rocketing "Bataan" and accepts the extended hand of the official greeter at the bottom of the tin steps.

MacArthur has undergone a sequence of memorable handshakes in the past few days. In Tokyo there were emotional handclasps from Emperor Hirohito and the man who must fill MacArthur's sizeable shoes, Lt. Gen. Matt Ridgway.

At Pearl Harbor the man at the bottom of the steps as MacArthur alighted was that tremendous fighting man, Adm. Arthur W. Radford. At San Francisco it was one of the Army's most brilliant officers, Lt. Gen. Alfred C. Wedemeyer.

But at Washington the extended hand of welcome will be that of Harry Vaughan.

Mr. Truman apparently combed his staff from top to bottom looking for just the right ersatz Grover Whalen to represent him at the airport. I don't know the process by which he eliminated MacArthur's two equals in rank, Bradley and Marshall, and the four-star general who holds MacArthur's old job as chief of staff, Lawton Collins. But they were passed over like yardbirds.

In selecting the official welcomer, the President may have felt himself further handicapped by the recent resignation from the White House staff of Mrs. Merl Young. The loss of that splendid public servant has left a considerable void in the White House talent list.

• — • — •

I have made a studious survey of Vaughan's qualifications as a representative of the White House at this unique homecoming of a great an dignified American. Results are somewhat bewildering. Or are they?

Mr. Truman apparently considers it fitting and just to have MacArthur met by a lunk-head whose chief contribution to the national weal is his ability to tell stories based mainly on four-letter words.

The man picked to represent the majesty of the United States has a sense of humor which also expressed itself in turning a pig loose in the office of J. Edgar Hoover, and lewdly telling a member of President Auriol's party recently that the only French he knew concerned certain sexual relations.

MacArthur's greeter served briefly in Australia early in the war, as provost marshal of Brisbane, but was abruptly relieved of his position — unquestionably at MacArthur's request.

At a time, shortly after the war, when there was a critical shortage in building materials, Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods told a Senate committee that MacArthur's greeter attempted to swing White House pressure behind the building of the Tanforan racetrack.

One of the best pals MacArthur's greeter ever had was John Maragon who, it was developed in hearings leading up to his conviction for perjury, had the run of Vaughan's office, used his phone, and tripped with him.

On a familiar witness stand, MacArthur's greeter once testified that he had accepted a campaign contribution from a lawyer who had been after him to spring a liquor dealer convicted of black marketing.

Our man went in big for deep freezes at one time—free freezes—and passed them around like cigars. Bess Truman got one.

County Approves Tax Rates For Special Taxing Areas

The tax rates for the fiscal year starting July 1 for the various special taxing areas in Allegany county were approved yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners. This rate is in addition to the regular county tax.

A rate of 10 cents per $100 of assessable property has been approved for the LaVale Sanitary District to pay the interest and principal on bonds outstanding for the fiscal year starting July 1. Approximately $5,000 will be raised for this purpose.

The Mt. Savage Special Taxing Area rate of 20 cents for $100 has also been approved. This is for street lights in that community and $1,565.42 will be raised.

The Potomac Park Citizens Committee rate has been set at 20 cents per $100 of assessable property to pay for street lights and fire protection.

In Cresaptown the tax rate to amortize the water supply bonds has been set at 45 cents per $100 of assessable property. This will raise an estimated $5,600.

Textile Workers To Submit Ideas On New Contract

Negotiating Group May Be Revamped

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), may submit recommendations for changes desired in the union's contract at a meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

Playford Aldridge, president, said the union's Policy Committee has already begun to lay the groundwork for a new contract with the Celanese Corporation.

The union's 60-day notice of intentions of amending the present contract is due on June 8 and a meeting with the company must take place within 10 days of that date.

Also slated tonight in preparation for the opening of contract talks is discussion and action on possible revamping of the negotiating committee.

The present negotiating committee was set up in 1942. Since that time, due to changes at the Amcelle plant involving increases, decreases and elimination of some departments, revising of the committee has been suggested.

Officials said the proposed changes would not change the number of negotiators but would give better representation to some departments.

Interviews Planned For Rec Positions

The Recreation Board will begin interviewing applicants for summer jobs in the Recreation Department, Edmund F. Hoey, director, announced yesterday.

He said the Board hopes to have a list to submit for approval of the Mayor and Council by April 23 or April 30.

Some 100 persons have applied for the positions which include 14 playground directors, 14 junior recreation assistants, four checkers, two cashiers and four life guards at Constitution Park swimming pool and five play field directors.

JAYNE'S P-W tablets KILL PIN-WORMS
(You may have them and not know it)
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Textile Workers To Submit Ideas On New Contract

Negotiating Group May Be Revamped

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), may submit recommendations for changes desired in the union's contract at a meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

Playford Aldridge, president, said the union's Policy Committee has already begun to lay the groundwork for a new contract with the Celanese Corporation.

The union's 60-day notice of intentions of amending the present contract is due on June 8 and a meeting with the company must take place within 10 days of that date.

Also slated tonight in preparation for the opening of contract talks is discussion and action on possible revamping of the negotiating committee.

The present negotiating committee was set up in 1942. Since that time, due to changes at the Amcelle plant involving increases, decreases and elimination of some departments, revising of the committee has been suggested.

Officials said the proposed changes would not change the number of negotiators but would give better representation to some departments.

Interviews Planned For Rec Positions

The Recreation Board will begin interviewing applicants for summer jobs in the Recreation Department, Edmund F. Hoey, director, announced yesterday.

He said the Board hopes to have a list to submit for approval of the Mayor and Council by April 23 or April 30.

Some 100 persons have applied for the positions which include 14 playground directors, 14 junior recreation assistants, four checkers, two cashiers and four life guards at Constitution Park swimming pool and five play field directors.

PROOF! Gertrude Berg, TV star of The Goldbergs, watched as a full glass of water was placed on one of 837 independent-action Beautyrest springs. She was amazed that water did not spill when near-by springs were pushed down. Reason: Beautyrest is made differently. Springs not "tied together." Result: No sags, just even, "Levelized Support."

PROOF! Above, John Ringling North (President of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus) and circus elephant, "Big Mo." Elephant is hoisting all five tons into air, with rear feet planted on Beautyrest. (Note right foot on edge of mattress.) Yet even this weight failed to break down pat ented, sag-proof edges. Proof: Beautyrest is built to stand hard use.

PROOF! "I hereby certify," says Mrs. Anita Propeack, New York City Notary Public, "that I went to the United States Testing Co., and saw the brutal 'Torture Tester' machine pound leading mattresses till they broke down. Beautyrest took 740,744 more poundings, lasted twice as long as any other mattress tested. It really can take it!"

City Will Request Federal Probe Of Junk Yard Here

The Mayor and Council will ask the Division of National Capitol Parks to investigate the dumping of junk at Community Park.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall was informed yesterday of the situation there and an investigation of the source of the junk will be urged by park policemen so that the area may be cleared for recreational purposes.

The move is the second in eliminating the eyesore at Wineow Street. The Mayor and Council gave Abe Feldstein a 30-day extension to allow the construction of a fence around the Feldstein Iron and Metal Company property.

Meanwhile, the Police Department is checking a charge by Feldstein made that there are 21 other junk yards operating in the city that have no permits or fences. The results of the junk yard probe will be made next Monday.

Feldstein had been given on March 19 by the council 30 days to fence in his junk on both sides of Wineow Street or have his license revoked.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, said that the city is anxious to clear the park property of the junk metal which has been placed there.

Planned in the next week is the construction of two softball diamonds and a baseball field in the area owned by the National Capitol Parks Division.

The diamonds are scheduled to be constructed in the same manner as the Pennsylvania Avenue field was re-surfaced Saturday by volunteer labor.

City officials state that Feldstein claims he did not place the junk on the ball park area.

At the meeting Feldstein said he hadn't built the fence within the 30-day period as the weather has been bad.

To this Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder said that Feldstein has had plenty of good weather the past 15 years to build the fence.

Mrs. Roeder said her department is demanding compliance with the terms of the permit on grounds of both health and recreation.

City Will Request Federal Probe Of Junk Yard Here

The Mayor and Council will ask the Division of National Capitol Parks to investigate the dumping of junk at Community Park.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall was informed yesterday of the situation there and an investigation of the source of the junk will be urged by park policemen so that the area may be cleared for recreational purposes.

The move is the second in eliminating the eyesore at Wineow Street. The Mayor and Council gave Abe Feldstein a 30-day extension to allow the construction of a fence around the Feldstein Iron and Metal Company property.

Meanwhile, the Police Department is checking a charge by Feldstein made that there are 21 other junk yards operating in the city that have no permits or fences. The results of the junk yard probe will be made next Monday.

Feldstein had been given on March 19 by the council 30 days to fence in his junk on both sides of Wineow Street or have his license revoked.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, said that the city is anxious to clear the park property of the junk metal which has been placed there.

Planned in the next week is the construction of two softball diamonds and a baseball field in the area owned by the National Capitol Parks Division.

The diamonds are scheduled to be constructed in the same manner as the Pennsylvania Avenue field was re-surfaced Saturday by volunteer labor.

City officials state that Feldstein claims he did not place the junk on the ball park area.

At the meeting Feldstein said he hadn't built the fence within the 30-day period as the weather has been bad.

To this Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder said that Feldstein has had plenty of good weather the past 15 years to build the fence.

Mrs. Roeder said her department is demanding compliance with the terms of the permit on grounds of both health and recreation.

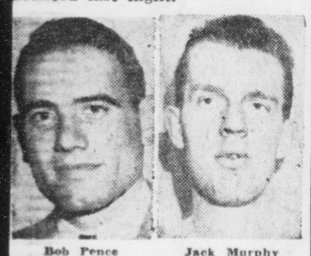
Pence, Murphy Make All-Star Team; Raines Hurls No-Hitter

Paul Herman Cops Valuable Player Award

Pence Makes 1st Team For 3rd Year; League Reorganizes In June

Two members of the Cumberland Spas team have earned places on the All-American Professional Basketball League's All-Star team and Paul Herman, classy guard of Wheeling's Blues, champions of the five-club circuit, has been voted the outstanding player for the 1950-51 season, Commissioner Charles "Chick" Davies, Pittsburgh, announced last night.



Bob Pence

Jack Murphy

Voting on the all-star team and valuable player award was conducted at the league's final meeting n Sunday at the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh.

Ten Players Named

Ten players were named on the league's all-star team and every team is represented.

The Cumberland players to land berths were Robert E. "Bob" Pence, ex-Fairmont State College (W. Va.) ace, present football coach at Allegany High School, who rounded out his fourth straight season in the league, and John "Jack" Murphy the 6-foot-5 center from Newark N. J., who played his first season in the league. Pence, incidentally, made the all-star team for the third successive season.

Pence and Murphy were among the forwards chosen. The others were Eddie Sterling and Andy Tonkovich, Wheeling, and Al McCullough, Erie. Murphy and Lennie Rhodes, negro star of Erie, were the centers selected. Guards named were Mike Bytzura, Altoona; Herman, Wheeling; George Washington, Erie and Dick Petee, of Beaver Falls.

Cumberland failed to land any players on the first all-star team in 1948 when Columbus and Youngstown grabbed the spotlight. Lou Bell and Pence, however, made the second team.

In 1949 Player-Coach Louis "Red" Klotz and Pence were selected on the first team and last season Jimmy Clevenger and Pence were chosen for the No. 1 team.

Herman of Wheeling made the second team in 1948 and the first team in 1949 and 1951.

Wins Memorial Trophy

Herman is the recipent of the $25 award known as the "Chuck" Karmarkovich Trophy, named in memory of the Johnstown (Pa.) Clippers' star who suffered fatal injuries in an automobile accident while traveling with the team. Johnstown withdrew from the league after Karmarkovich's death.

Wheeling's champions earned the trophy valued at $40 while Erie's Admirals, runners-up, received a $25 trophy.

Commissioner Davies announced that the league finished with a balance of $303 in the treasury.

Efforts to reorganize the circuit for the 1951-52 season will be made at a meeting to be held on June 16 and 17 at Pittsburgh.

Lemon Beats Detroit, 2-1

Tribe's 1950 Ace Yields Two Blows

DETROIT, April 17 (AP)—Genial Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians, the American League's winningest pitcher last season, pushed Detroit right into the deep freeze today with a nifty two-hit performance that flattened the Tigers 2-1.

The clubs, battling in a chilly 37 degrees, stayed on even terms until the ninth when, with the score tied at 1-all, Detroit shortstop Johnny Lipon bobbled an easy grounder to allow Cleveland's Larry Doby to score from third.

Second baseman Jerry Priddy nicked Lemon for the only two Tiger hits, a double in the third and a single in the fifth. Lemon won 23 and lost 11 last year. Box:

Favorites Win In North-South Golf Contests

Walker Cupper Loses, Dale Morey Is Victor

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17 (AP)—Favorites eased their way through the first round of match play in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament today with one exception. Only Walker Cup player Harold Paddock, Jr., Cleveland Heights, Ohio, stumbled, losing a 2 and 1 decision to unheralded Leon C. Walsh, 35-year-old Wilmington, N. C., city champion, in the day's principal surprise.

Otherwise, the Walker Cuppers and medalist Dale Morey, who registers out of Dallas, Texas, but spends much of his time in Indiana, moved along about as expected.

Of the 32 matches played only one went as far as the 18th green and only three others went past the 16th.

Left in the upper bracket were Morey, Walker Cuppers Bill Campbell, Huntington, W. Va.; Jimmy McHale, Overbrook, Pa.; an Pinehurst's Dick Chapman, and such threats as Hobart Manley, Savannah, Ga., Jack Coyle, Springfield, Ill., Bill Markham, East Hampton Conn., and J. E. (Buddy) Lutz, Jr., Reading, Pa. Lutz, by the way, turned in a hole in one on the 156-yard ninth.

In the lower bracket were Frank Stranahan, of Toledo, Ohio, a two-time winner, and cup player; two cup alternates, Harvie Ward, Jr., Southern Jines, N. C., and Bill (Dynamite) Goodloe, Valdosta, Ga., and dangerous rivals such as Oklahoma's Bo Winninger; Howard Everitt, Atlantic City, N. J., who was one stroke back of medalist Morey yesterday, and Mal Galletta, a former North-South champion, from St. Albans, N. Y.

Raschi Hurls, Jensen Belts Yanks To Win

44,860 Fans See Boston's Red Sox Suffer 5-0 Loss

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Yankee Vic Raschi fashioned a flashy six-hit, 5-0 victory for New York's defending world champs over Boston today.

While 44,860 fans watched, the talented Yankee righthander rode home behind a seven-hit attack that routed Willie Wight in the sixth inning.

Jackie Jensen, the California football star whom Manager Casey Stengel wanted to convert into a pitcher, stole the show from Mickey Mantle, the publicized rookie flash.

Jensen, playing left field in place of limping Hank Bauer, smashed a two-run homer in the third for the first scores of the game. His double to right field in the sixth started Wight on the way to the showers.

Mantle, the 19-year-old kid from the Joplin, Mo., Class C farm, contributed a left field single in the sixth inning rout of Wight, the ex-Yankee acquired from Chicago in a major December trade. It was Mickey's only hit in four trips in his big league debut.

All the scoring was wrapped up nearly in two innings—the third and sixth. Box:

Mt. St. Mary's Fired Cage Coach 10 Days Ago And Decision Stands

Scheduling Of Spas Started The Trouble

EMMITSBURG, Md., April 17 (AP)—Pete Coruso is still the ex-basketball coach of little Mt. St. Mary's College.

He was fired ten days ago. Then, last Tuesday Caruso said he was informed the athletic council had met the night before and had reinstated him.

Today, the Rev. E. S. Berry, secretary of the council, issued this formal statement:

"There has been no change in the council decision as announced April 7 in regards to Peter Caruso."

It was on April 7 that the Athletic council announced it was dropping Caruso because of a "policy disagreement," brought on partially by his scheduling a game with the professional Cumberland Spas "without sanction or knowledge of the college."

Caruso came with Mt. St. Mary's last year from St. Peter's College in Jersey City, N. J. The mounts had one of their best seasons, winning the Mason-Dixon Conference championship against such teams at Johns Hopkins and American University, then got as far as the semi-finals of the Catholic Invitational Tourney.

Several hours before Father Berry issued his statement, Caruso said "I can't figure it out. I never had this trouble before.

I broke a three-year contract at St. Peter's to come here. I was to get a three-year contract here, but it wasn't until after I had already quit my job that I saw the last paragraph of my present contract. It says if the season was not satisfactory, the contract would terminate after one year.

"I think 20 wins and 13 defeats for the season, plus the showing we made in the Mason-Dixon and the Catholic Tournament, should be called a successful season."

"I don't know," he added. "I can't find out if I'm still working or not. They won't tell me."

Chicago White Sox Rout Browns, 17-3

ST. LOUIS, April 17 (AP)—Chicago's revamped White Sox pounded five pitchers for 19 hits and ran roughshod over the St. Louis Browns for a 17-3 victory today before a slim turnout of 5,660 in the opening day game at Sportsman's Park. The Browns' pitchers yielded 14 bases on balls.

Lefthander Billy Pierce went the full distance and kept ten Brownie hits well scattered as the White Sox continued the mastery demonstrated by nine straight exhibition triumphs over the Browns this spring.

Nelson Fox, Chicago second baseman, tied a major league record by hitting two doubles in a single inning. He led off the eighth with a two-base hit and when his turn came around again in the seven-run inning, he delivered another. Box:

Woodson's Tigers Cop Opening Game, 8 To 0

WESTERNPORT, April 17—Bobby Raines, sophomore right hander, started off Bruce High School's baseball season in an auspicious manner today when he pitched a no-run, no-hit contest against Kitzmiller High School of Garrett county. The score was 8-0.

Only 21 batsmen faced Raines in the seven inning contest, only two Kitzmiller players reached first base and none advanced to the keystone hassock. The first player to reach the initial sack was Burgess who was hit by a pitched ball in the opening stanza. In the 6th, a Kitzmiller player got a life on an error but was wiped out later in a double play executed by Raines and Foley. The Bruce twirler struck out 15 batsmen and failed to issue a base on balls.

Coach Woody Woodson's aggregation sewed up the game by scoring four of its eight runs in the second inning.

The winners nicked Hershberger and Cordora for six hits, two of which were credited to Howe. The Kitzmiller pitchers issued eight walks.

Bruce opens its Bi-State Conference campaign with Central of Lonaconing here Friday. A return game at Kitzmiller is set for June 18. The Bulldogs will play a schedule of 16 games, 14 of which will be in the league. Box:

Sues Joe Louis

DETAILS of a contract made with former heavy king Joe Louis were disclosed in an answer filed by Louis' attorney to a suit filed against the "Brown Bomber" by John Roxborough (above), a co-manager, who asked an accounting of Louis' earnings in the Charles fight last September. According to the answer, Louis had contracted to pay his manager, Julian Black, 50 per cent of his gross earnings from 1935 to 1945 with Louis to pay his own training expenses, railroad fares and other items. The connection between Roxborough and the 10-year contract between Louis and Black was not clarified but Roxborough claimed he has a contract with Louis calling for 25 per cent of gross earnings for an indefinite period. (International)

Larry Jansen Blanks Braves

Gives Up Five Hits In Giants' 5-0 Win

BOSTON, April 17—(AP)—Larry Jansen fashioned a frigid, sparkling five-hitter today to send the New York Giants away winging with a National League opening day victory over the Boston Braves, 4 to 0.

Bobby Thomson knocked in two of the Giant runs with a single and a long fly and Wes Westrum and Don Mueller took care of the other two with singles. Neither side made an extra base hit.

Jansen had trouble in the ninth when Bob Elliott and Sid Gordon singled to start off. He then struck out Ebba St. Claire, and made Bob Addis ground out. The game ended when Walker Cooper, pinch-hitting for Johnny Logan, hit a long fly to center. Box:

Pence, Murphy Make All-Star Team; Raines Hurls No-Hitter

Pence Makes 1st Team For 3rd Year; League Reorganizes In June

Two members of the Cumberland Spas team have earned places on the All-American Professional Basketball League's All-Star team and Paul Herman, classy guard of Wheeling's Blues, champions of the five-club circuit, has been voted the outstanding player for the 1950-51 season, Commissioner Charles "Chick" Davies, Pittsburgh, announced last night.

Bob Pence — Jack Murphy

Voting on the all-star team and valuable player award was conducted at the league's final meeting Sunday at the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh.

Ten Players Named

Ten players were named on the league's all-star team and every team is represented.

The Cumberland players to land berths were Robert E. "Bob" Pence, ex-Fairmont State College (W. Va.) ace, present football coach at Allegany High School, who rounded out his fourth straight season in the league, and John "Jack" Murphy, the 6-foot-5 center from Newark, N. J., who played his first season in the league. Pence, incidentally, made the all-star team for the third successive season.

Pence and Murphy were among the forwards chosen. The others were Eddie Sterling and Andy Tontovich, Wheeling, and Al McCullough, Erie. Murphy and Lennie Rhodes, negro star of Erie, were the centers selected. Guards named were Mike Bytzura, Altoona; Hernan, Wheeling; George Washington, Erie and Dick Petee, of Beaver Falls.

Cumberland failed to land any players on the first all-star team in 1948 when Columbus and Youngstown grabbed the spotlight. Lou Bell and Pence, however, made the second team.

In 1949 Player-Coach Louis "Red" Klotz and Pence were selected on the first team and last season Jimmy Clevenger and Pence were chosen for the No. 1 team.

Herman of Wheeling made the second team in 1948 and the first team in 1949 and 1951.

Wins Memorial Trophy

Herman is the recipent of the 25 award known as the "Chuck" Karmarkovich Trophy, named in memory of the Johnstown (Pa.) Flippers' star who suffered fatal injuries in an automobile accident while traveling with the team. Johnstown withdrew from the league after Karmarkovich's death.

Wheeling's champions earned the trophy valued at $40 while Erie's Admirals, runners-up, received a $25 trophy.

Commissioner Davies announced that the league finished with a balance of $303 in the treasury.

Efforts to reorganize the circuit for the 1951-52 season will be made at a meeting to be held on June 16 and 17 at Pittsburgh.

Lemon Beats Detroit, 2-1

Tribe's 1950 Ace Yields Two Blows

DETROIT, April 17 (AP)—Genial Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians, the American League's winningest pitcher last season, pushed Detroit right into the deep freeze today with a nifty two-hit performance that flattened the Tigers 2-1.

The clubs, battling in a chilly 37 degrees, stayed on even terms until the ninth when, with the score tied at 1-all, Detroit shortstop Johnny Lipon bobbled an easy grounder to allow Cleveland's Larry Doby to score from third.

Second baseman Jerry Priddy nicked Lemon for the only two Tiger hits, a double in the third and a single in the fifth. Lemon won 23 and lost 11 last year. Box:

Favorites Win In North-South Golf Contests

Walker Cupper Loses, Dale Morey Is Victor

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17 (AP)—Favorites eased their way through the first round of match play in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament today with one exception. Only Walker Cup player Harold Paddock, Jr., Cleveland Heights, Ohio, stumbled, losing a 2 and 1 decision to unheralded Leon C. Walsh, 35-year-old Wilmington, N. C., city champion, in the day's principal surprise.

Otherwise, the Walker Cuppers and medalist Dale Morey, who registers out of Dallas, Texas, but spends much of his time in Indiana, moved along about as expected.

Of the 32 matches played only one went as far as the 18th green and only three others went past the 16th.

Left in the upper bracket were Morey, Walker Cuppers Bill Campbell, Huntington, W. Va.; Jimmy McHale, Overbrook, Pa.; an Pinehurst's Dick Chapman, and such threats as Hobart Manley, Savannah, Ga., Jack Coyle, Springfield, Ill., Bill Markham, East Hampton Conn., and J. E. (Buddy) Lutz, Jr., Reading, Pa. Lutz, by the way, turned in a hole in one on the 156-yard ninth.

In the lower bracket were Frank Stranahan, of Toledo, Ohio, a two-time winner, and cup player; two cup alternates, Harvie Ward, Jr., Southern Jines, N. C., and Bill (Dynamite) Goodloe, Valdosta, Ga., and dangerous rivals such as Oklahoma's Bo Winninger; Howard Everitt, Atlantic City, N. J., who was one stroke back of medalist Morey yesterday, and Mal Galletta, a former North-South champion, from St. Albans, N. Y.

Raschi Hurls, Jensen Belts Yanks To Win

44,860 Fans See Boston's Red Sox Suffer 5-0 Loss

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Yankee Vic Raschi fashioned a flashy six-hit, 5-0 victory for New York's defending world champs over Boston today.

While 44,860 fans watched, the talented Yankee righthander rode home behind a seven-hit attack that routed Willie Wight in the sixth inning.

Jackie Jensen, the California football star whom Manager Casey Stengel wanted to convert into a pitcher, stole the show from Mickey Mantle, the publicized rookie flash.

Jensen, playing left field in place of limping Hank Bauer, smashed a two-run homer in the third for the first scores of the game. His double to right field in the sixth started Wight on the way to the showers.

Mantle, the 19-year-old kid from the Joplin, Mo., Class C farm, contributed a left field single in the sixth inning rout of Wight, the ex-Yankee acquired from Chicago in a major December trade. It was Mickey's only hit in four trips in his big league debut.

All the scoring was wrapped up nearly in two innings—the third and sixth. Box:

Mt. St. Mary's Fired Cage Coach 10 Days Ago And Decision Stands

Scheduling Of Spas Started The Trouble

EMMITSBURG, Md., April 17 (AP)—Pete Coruso is still the ex-basketball coach of little Mt. St. Mary's College.

He was fired ten days ago. Then, last Tuesday Caruso said he was informed the athletic council had met the night before and had reinstated him.

Today, the Rev. E. S. Berry, secretary of the council, issued this formal statement:

"There has been no change in the council decision as announced April 7 in regards to Peter Caruso."

It was on April 7 that the Athletic council announced it was dropping Caruso because of a "policy disagreement," brought on partially by his scheduling a game with the professional Cumberland Spas "without sanction or knowledge of the college."

Caruso came with Mt. St. Mary's last year from St. Peter's College in Jersey City, N. J. The mounts had one of their best seasons, winning the Mason-Dixon Conference championship against such teams at Johns Hopkins and American University, then got as far as the semi-finals of the Catholic Invitational Tourney.

Several hours before Father Berry issued his statement, Caruso said "I can't figure it out. I never had this trouble before.

I broke a three-year contract at St. Peter's to come here. I was to get a three-year contract here, but it wasn't until after I had already quit my job that I saw the last paragraph of my present contract. It says if the season was not satisfactory, the contract would terminate after one year.

"I think 20 wins and 13 defeats for the season, plus the showing we made in the Mason-Dixon and the Catholic Tournament, should be called a successful season."

"I don't know," he added. "I can't find out if I'm still working or not. They won't tell me."

Chicago White Sox Rout Browns, 17-3

ST. LOUIS, April 17 (AP)—Chicago's revamped White Sox pounded five pitchers for 19 hits and ran roughshod over the St. Louis Browns for a 17-3 victory today before a slim turnout of 5,660 in the opening day game at Sportsman's Park. The Browns' pitchers yielded 14 bases on balls.

Lefthander Billy Pierce went the full distance and kept ten Brownie hits well scattered as the White Sox continued the mastery demonstrated by nine straight exhibition triumphs over the Browns this spring.

Nelson Fox, Chicago second baseman, tied a major league record by hitting two doubles in a single inning. He led off the eighth with a two-base hit and when his turn came around again in the seven-run inning, he delivered another. Box:

Woodson's Tigers Cop Opening Game, 8 To 0

WESTERNPORT, April 17—Bobby Raines, sophomore right hander, started off Bruce High School's baseball season in an auspicious manner today when he pitched a no-run, no-hit contest against Kitzmiller High School of Garrett county. The score was 8-0.

Only 21 batsmen faced Raines in the seven inning contest, only two Kitzmiller players reached first base and none advanced to the keystone hassock. The first player to reach the initial sack was Burgess who was hit by a pitched ball in the opening stanza. In the 6th, a Kitzmiller player got a life on an error but was wiped out later in a double play executed by Raines and Foley. The Bruce twirler struck out 15 batsmen and failed to issue a base on balls.

Coach Woody Woodson's aggregation sewed up the game by scoring four of its eight runs in the second inning.

The winners nicked Hershberger and Cordora for six hits, two of which were credited to Howe. The Kitzmiller pitchers issued eight walks.

Bruce opens its Bi-State Conference campaign with Central of Lonaconing here Friday. A return game at Kitzmiller is set for June 18. The Bulldogs will play a schedule of 16 games, 14 of which will be in the league. Box:

Sues Joe Louis

DETAILS of a contract made with former heavy king Joe Louis were disclosed in an answer filed by Louis' attorney to a suit filed against the "Brown Bomber" by John Roxborough (above), a co-manager, who asked an accounting of Louis' earnings in the Charles fight last September. According to the answer, Louis had contracted to pay his manager, Julian Black, 50 per cent of his gross earnings from 1935 to 1945 with Louis to pay his own training expenses, railroad fares and other items. The connection between Roxborough and the 10-year contract between Louis and Black was not clarified but Roxborough claimed he has a contract with Louis calling for 25 per cent of gross earnings for an indefinite period. (International)

Larry Jansen Blanks Braves

Gives Up Five Hits In Giants' 5-0 Win

BOSTON, April 17—(AP)—Larry Jansen fashioned a frigid, sparkling five-hitter today to send the New York Giants away winging with a National League opening day victory over the Boston Braves, 4 to 0.

Bobby Thomson knocked in two of the Giant runs with a single and a long fly and Wes Westrum and Don Mueller took care of the other two with singles. Neither side made an extra base hit.

Jansen had trouble in the ninth when Bob Elliott and Sid Gordon singled to start off. He then struck out Ebba St. Claire, and made Bob Addis ground out. The game ended when Walker Cooper, pinch-hitting for Johnny Logan, hit a long fly to center. Box:

Pence, Murphy Make All-Star Team; Raines Hurls No-Hitter

Pence Makes 1st Team For 3rd Year; League Reorganizes In June

Two members of the Cumberland Spas team have earned places on the All-American Professional Basketball League's All-Star team and Paul Herman, classy guard of Wheeling's Blues, champions of the five-club circuit, has been voted the outstanding player for the 1950-51 season, Commissioner Charles "Chick" Davies, Pittsburgh, announced last night.

Bob Pence — Jack Murphy

Voting on the all-star team and valuable player award was conducted at the league's final meeting Sunday at the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh.

Ten Players Named

Ten players were named on the league's all-star team and every team is represented.

The Cumberland players to land berths were Robert E. "Bob" Pence, ex-Fairmont State College (W. Va.) ace, present football coach at Allegany High School, who rounded out his fourth straight season in the league, and John "Jack" Murphy the 6-foot-5 center from Newark N. J., who played his first season in the league. Pence, incidentally, made the all-star team for the third successive season.

Pence and Murphy were among the forwards chosen. The others were Eddie Sterling and Andy Tonkovich, Wheeling, and Al McCullough, Erie. Murphy and Lennie Rhodes, negro star of Erie, were the centers selected. Guards named were Mike Bytzura, Altoona; Herman, Wheeling; George Washington, Erie and Dick Petee, of Beaver Falls.

Cumberland failed to land any players on the first all-star team in 1948 when Columbus and Youngstown grabbed the spotlight. Lou Bell and Pence, however, made the second team.

In 1949 Player-Coach Louis "Red" Klotz and Pence were selected on the first team and last season Jimmy Clevenger and Pence were chosen for the No. 1 team.

Herman of Wheeling made the second team in 1948 and the first team in 1949 and 1951.

Wins Memorial Trophy

Herman is the recipent of the $5 award known as the "Chuck" Karmarkovich Trophy, named in memory of the Johnstown (Pa.) Flippers' star who suffered fatal injuries in an automobile accident while traveling with the team. Johnstown withdrew from the league after Karmarkovich's death.

Wheeling's champions earned the trophy valued at $40 while Erie's Admirals, runners-up, received a $5 trophy.

Commissioner Davies announced that the league finished with a balance of $303 in the treasury.

Efforts to reorganize the circuit for the 1951-52 season will be made at a meeting to be held on June 16 and 17 at Pittsburgh.

Lemon Beats Detroit, 2-1

Tribe's 1950 Ace Yields Two Blows

DETROIT, April 17 (AP)—Genial Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians, the American League's winningest pitcher last season, pushed Detroit right into the deep freeze today with a nifty two-hit performance that flattened the Tigers 2-1.

The clubs, battling in a chilly 37 degrees, stayed on even terms until the ninth when, with the score tied at 1-all, Detroit shortstop Johnny Lipon bobbled an easy grounder to allow Cleveland's Larry Doby to score from third.

Second baseman Jerry Priddy nicked Lemon for the only two Tiger hits, a double in the third and a single in the fifth. Lemon won 23 and lost 11 last year. Box:

Favorites Win In North-South Golf Contests

Walker Cupper Loses, Dale Morey Is Victor

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17 (AP)—Favorites eased their way through the first round of match play in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament today with one exception. Only Walker Cup player Harold Paddock, Jr., Cleveland Heights, Ohio, stumbled, losing a 2 and 1 decision to unheralded Leon C. Walsh, 35-year-old Wilmington, N. C., city champion, in the day's principal surprise.

Otherwise, the Walker Cuppers and medalist Dale Morey, who registers out of Dallas, Texas, but spends much of his time in Indiana, moved along about as expected.

Of the 32 matches played only one went as far as the 18th green and only three others went past the 16th.

Left in the upper bracket were Morey, Walker Cuppers Bill Campbell, Huntington, W. Va.; Jimmy McHale, Overbrook, Pa.; an Pinehurst's Dick Chapman, and such threats as Hobart Manley, Savannah, Ga., Jack Coyle, Springfield, Ill., Bill Markham, East Hampton Conn., and J. E. (Buddy) Lutz, Jr., Reading, Pa. Lutz, by the way, turned in a hole in one on the 156-yard ninth.

In the lower bracket were Frank Stranahan, of Toledo, Ohio, a two-time winner, and cup player; two cup alternates, Harvie Ward, Jr., Southern Jines, N. C., and Bill (Dynamite) Goodloe, Valdosta, Ga., and dangerous rivals such as Oklahoma's Bo Winninger; Howard Everitt, Atlantic City, N. J., who was one stroke back of medalist Morey yesterday, and Mal Galletta, a former North-South champion, from St. Albans, N. Y.

Raschi Hurls, Jensen Belts Yanks To Win

44,860 Fans See Boston's Red Sox Suffer 5-0 Loss

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Yankee Vic Raschi fashioned a flashy six-hit, 5-0 victory for New York's defending world champs over Boston today.

While 44,860 fans watched, the talented Yankee righthander rode home behind a seven-hit attack that routed Willie Wight in the sixth inning.

Jackie Jensen, the California football star whom Manager Casey Stengel wanted to convert into a pitcher, stole the show from Mickey Mantle, the publicized rookie flash.

Jensen, playing left field in place of limping Hank Bauer, smashed a two-run homer in the third for the first scores of the game. His double to right field in the sixth started Wight on the way to the showers.

Mantle, the 19-year-old kid from the Joplin, Mo., Class C farm, contributed a left field single in the sixth inning rout of Wight, the ex-Yankee acquired from Chicago in a major December trade. It was Mickey's only hit in four trips in his big league debut.

All the scoring was wrapped up nearly in two innings—the third and sixth. Box:

Mt. St. Mary's Fired Cage Coach 10 Days Ago And Decision Stands

Scheduling Of Spas Started The Trouble

EMMITSBURG, Md., April 17 (AP)—Pete Coruso is still the ex-basketball coach of little Mt. St. Mary's College.

He was fired ten days ago. Then, last Tuesday Caruso said he was informed the athletic council had met the night before and had reinstated him.

Today, the Rev. E. S. Berry, secretary of the council, issued this formal statement:

"There has been no change in the council decision as announced April 7 in regards to Peter Caruso."

It was on April 7 that the Athletic council announced it was dropping Caruso because of a "policy disagreement," brought on partially by his scheduling a game with the professional Cumberland Spas "without sanction or knowledge of the college."

Caruso came with Mt. St. Mary's last year from St. Peter's College in Jersey City, N. J. The mounts had one of their best seasons, winning the Mason-Dixon Conference championship against such teams at Johns Hopkins and American University, then got as far as the semi-finals of the Catholic Invitational Tourney.

Several hours before Father Berry issued his statement, Caruso said "I can't figure it out. I never had this trouble before.

I broke a three-year contract at St. Peter's to come here. I was to get a three-year contract here, but it wasn't until after I had already quit my job that I saw the last paragraph of my present contract. It says if the season was not satisfactory, the contract would terminate after one year.

"I think 20 wins and 13 defeats for the season, plus the showing we made in the Mason-Dixon and the Catholic Tournament, should be called a successful season."

"I don't know," he added. "I can't find out if I'm still working or not. They won't tell me."

Chicago White Sox Rout Browns, 17-3

ST. LOUIS, April 17 (AP)—Chicago's revamped White Sox pounded five pitchers for 19 hits and ran roughshod over the St. Louis Browns for a 17-3 victory today before a slim turnout of 5,660 in the opening day game at Sportsman's Park. The Browns' pitchers yielded 14 bases on balls.

Lefthander Billy Pierce went the full distance and kept ten Brownie hits well scattered as the White Sox continued the mastery demonstrated by nine straight exhibition triumphs over the Browns this spring.

Nelson Fox, Chicago second baseman, tied a major league record by hitting two doubles in a single inning. He led off the eighth with a two-base hit and when his turn came around again in the seven-run inning, he delivered another. Box:

Sues Joe Louis

DETAILS of a contract made with former heavy king Joe Louis were disclosed in an answer filed by Louis' attorney to a suit filed against the "Brown Bomber" by John Roxborough (above), a co-manager, who asked an accounting of Louis' earnings in the Charles fight last September. According to the answer, Louis had contracted to pay his manager, Julian Black, 50 per cent of his gross earnings from 1935 to 1945 with Louis to pay his own training expenses, railroad fares and other items. The connection between Roxborough and the 10-year contract between Louis and Black was not clarified but Roxborough claimed he has a contract with Louis calling for 25 per cent of gross earnings for an indefinite period. (International)

Larry Jansen Blanks Braves

Gives Up Five Hits In Giants' 5-0 Win

BOSTON, April 17—(AP)—Larry Jansen fashioned a frigid, sparkling five-hitter today to send the New York Giants away winging with a National League opening day victory over the Boston Braves, 4 to 0.

Bobby Thomson knocked in two of the Giant runs with a single and a long fly and Wes Westrum and Don Mueller took care of the other two with singles. Neither side made an extra base hit.

Jansen had trouble in the ninth when Bob Elliott and Sid Gordon singled to start off. He then struck out Ebba St. Claire, and made Bob Addis ground out. The game ended when Walker Cooper, pinch-hitting for Johnny Logan, hit a long fly to center. Box:

Robin Roberts Beats Dodgers

Ennis, Goliat Clout Homers In 5-2 Win

BROOKLYN, April 17 (AP)—Robin Roberts pitched the defending champion Philadelphia Phils to a 5-2 victory over Brooklyn today to dampen the Dodgers' home inaugural before 19,217 disappointed and winter-frocked Ebbets Field fans.

The righthanded ace picked up where he left off last October, spacing nine hits in a route-going effort.

Roberts got the necessary hitting support from Del Ennis, Mike Goliat and Dick Sisler.

Ennis drove in three runs, two of them with a homer in the sixth. Goliat hit a homer with the bases empty in the second to gain the honor of hitting the first major league four-bagger of the year. Sisler connected for two singles.

The Dodgers couldn't do anything with Roberts until the sixth when Jackie Robinsen clubbed him for a two-run homer.

Fondy, Pafko Star As Cubs Top Reds

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP) — First sacker Dee Fondy belted a bases-loaded triple in his first major league time at bat to launch the Chicago Cubs to an 8-3 win over the loosely-playing Cincinnati Reds before a Wrigley Field opening day crowd of 18,211 today.

The game was played in sunny, but chilling weather.

Only three Chicago runs were earned as the Reds committed five errors behind four pitchers, including starter Ken Raffensberger.

Fondy, rookie up from Fort Worth, and veteran centerfielder Andy Pafko slammed six hits between them for a total of 13 bases. Pafko clouted a homer, triple and single. Fondy also collected two singles, driving across four runs in all.

That was all right-hander Frank Hiller needed as he went the route for the Cubs, scattering 12 redleg hits.

Romney Pitcher Scores Shutout

Charles Town Falls Before Joe Ely, 3-0

ROMNEY, W. Va., April 17—Joe Ely, sophomore twirler of Romney High School, made his first start for the Pioneers today and blanked Charles Town High School on the latter's diamond by the score of 3-0.

Romney obtained only three hits but took advantage of erratic play afield and four passes to sew up the game in the early innings. Ten errors were made by the teams, eight of which were charged against Charles Town.

Ely fanned three and gave up only one pass.

Moorefield plays Romney here Thursday. The Pioneers play at Fort Ashby on Friday. Box:

Snead Drives Golf Ball Over Wrigley Field Scoreboard

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP)—Sammy Snead settled a long-standing argument today over whether a golf ball could be driven from home plate over the towering centerfield score board at Wrigley Field. It can, by a golfer like Sam.

Wearing street clothes, Snead sent a ball zooming well over the score-board with a No. 2 iron after hitting the board with a swing with a No. 4 iron. Snead calculated the carry was 175 yards. The scoreboard rises 89 feet in the air some 50 feet behind the 400-mark on the centerfield wall.

Snead did the trick before the Cincinnati - Chicago Cubs opener. Sam was in town for an ex-ray of his recently-broken left hand. He said the examination revealed the break was mending properly, but that exercising of the hand was necessary.

Ennis, Goliat Clout Homers In 5-2 Win

BROOKLYN, April 17 (AP)—Robin Roberts pitched the defending champion Philadelphia Phils to a 5-2 victory over Brooklyn today to dampen the Dodgers' home inaugural before 19,217 disappointed and winter-frocked Ebbets Field fans.

The righthanded ace picked up where he left off last October, spacing nine hits in a route-going effort.

Roberts got the necessary hitting support from Del Ennis, Mike Goliat and Dick Sisler.

Ennis drove in three runs, two of them with a homer in the sixth. Goliat hit a homer with the bases empty in the second to gain the honor of hitting the first major league four-bagger of the year. Sisler connected for two singles.

The Dodgers couldn't do anything with Roberts until the sixth when Jackie Robinson clubbed him for a two-run homer.

Fondy, Pafko Star As Cubs Top Reds

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP) — First sacker Dee Fondy belted a bases-loaded triple in his first major league time at bat to launch the Chicago Cubs to an 8-3 win over the loosely-playing Cincinnati Reds before a Wrigley Field opening day crowd of 18,211 today.

The game was played in sunny, but chilling weather.

Fondy, rookie up from Fort Worth, and veteran centerfielder Andy Pafko slammed six hits between them for a total of 13 bases. Pafko clouted a homer, triple and single. Fondy also collected two singles, driving across four runs in all.

That was all right-hander Frank Hiller needed as he went the route for the Cubs, scattering 12 redleg hits.

Romney Pitcher Scores Shutout

Charles Town Falls Before Joe Ely, 3-0

ROMNEY, W. Va., April 17—Joe Ely, sophomore twirler of Romney High School, made his first start for the Pioneers today and blanked Charles Town High School on the latter's diamond by the score of 3-0.

Romney obtained only three hits but took advantage of erratic play afield and four passes to sew up the game in the early innings. Ten errors were made by the teams, eight of which were charged against Charles Town.

Ely fanned three and gave up only one pass.

Moorefield plays Romney here Thursday. The Pioneers play at Fort Ashby on Friday. Box:

Snead Drives Golf Ball Over Wrigley Field Scoreboard

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP)—Sammy Snead settled a long-standing argument today over whether a golf ball could be driven from home plate over the towering centerfield score board at Wrigley Field. It can, by a golfer like Sam.

Wearing street clothes, Snead sent a ball zooming well over the score-board with a No. 2 iron after hitting the board with a swing with a No. 4 iron. Snead calculated the carry was 175 yards. The scoreboard rises 89 feet in the air some 50 feet behind the 400-mark on the centerfield wall.

Snead did the trick before the Cincinnati - Chicago Cubs opener. Sam was in town for an ex-ray of his recently-broken left hand. He said the examination revealed the break was mending properly, but that exercising of the hand was necessary.

Romney Pitcher Scores Shutout

Charles Town Falls Before Joe Ely, 3-0

ROMNEY, W. Va., April 17—Joe Ely, sophomore twirler of Romney High School, made his first start for the Pioneers today and blanked Charles Town High School on the latter's diamond by the score of 3-0.

Romney obtained only three hits but took advantage of erratic play afield and four passes to sew up the game in the early innings. Ten errors were made by the teams, eight of which were charged against Charles Town.

Ely fanned three and gave up only one pass.

Moorefield plays Romney here Thursday. The Pioneers play at Fort Ashby on Friday. Box:

Snead Drives Golf Ball Over Wrigley Field Scoreboard

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP)—Sammy Snead settled a long-standing argument today over whether a golf ball could be driven from home plate over the towering centerfield score board at Wrigley Field. It can, by a golfer like Sam.

Wearing street clothes, Snead sent a ball zooming well over the score-board with a No. 2 iron after hitting the board with a swing with a No. 4 iron. Snead calculated the carry was 175 yards. The scoreboard rises 89 feet in the air some 50 feet behind the 400-mark on the centerfield wall.

Snead did the trick before the Cincinnati - Chicago Cubs opener. Sam was in town for an ex-ray of his recently-broken left hand. He said the examination revealed the break was mending properly, but that exercising of the hand was necessary.

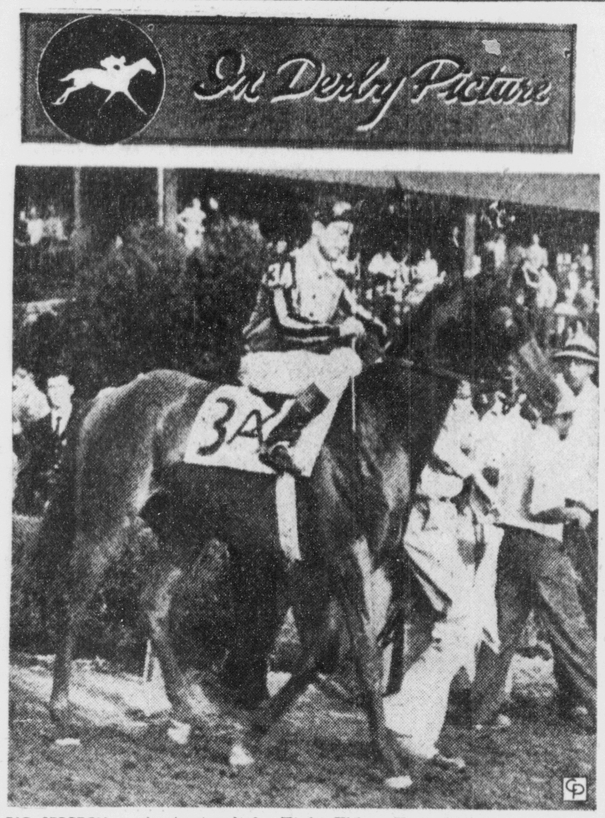
Pity Poor Pitchers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Here's a game that called for strong pitching. It was the longest professional baseball game on record.

On May 31, 1909, Bloomington and Decatur in the Three I League played at Decatur and it lasted 26 innings. The game was won by Decatur 2-1. A triple scoring a runner from first (hit by pitcher) brought home the winning tally in the last half of the 26th. This was the first run since the third inning. The amazing note about the game was that each team used only nine players in the marathon contest. Both hurlers went the route.



BIG STRETCH, a chestnut colt by Eight Thirty-Easy Day and owned by the Greentree stable, finished in the money 10 out of 15 starts last season and won $103,467. Big Stretch was beaten by a nose in the Belmont Futurity and then won the Pimlico Futurity. (International)

Pity Poor Pitchers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Here's a game that called for strong pitching. It was the longest professional baseball game on record.

On May 31, 1909, Bloomington and Decatur in the Three I League played at Decatur and it lasted 26 innings. The game was won by Decatur 2-1. A triple scoring a runner from first (hit by pitcher) brought home the winning tally in the last half of the 26th. This was the first run since the third inning. The amazing note about the game was that each team used only nine players in the marathon contest. Both hurlers went the route.

Pity Poor Pitchers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Here's a game that called for strong pitching. It was the longest professional baseball game on record.

On May 31, 1909, Bloomington and Decatur in the Three I League played at Decatur and it lasted 26 innings. The game was won by Decatur 2-1. A triple scoring a runner from first (hit by pitcher) brought home the winning tally in the last half of the 26th. This was the first run since the third inning. The amazing note about the game was that each team used only nine players in the marathon contest. Both hurlers went the route.

In Derby Picture

BIG STRETCH, a chestnut colt by Eight Thirty-Easy Day and owned by the Greentree stable, finished in the money 10 out of 15 starts last season and won $103,467. Big Stretch was beaten by a nose in the Belmont Futurity and then won the Pimlico Futurity. (International)

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Man From Vermont

THREE OF US were having dinner with Amon Carter, the fabulous Texan, in his apartment at the Ritz Hotel the other night just before its closing and swan song. After finishing a steak and some titbits of gossip, we got around to more serious subjects, such as who would be our next president. It was about 50-50 between Eisenhower and Taft with the host sitting silently and discreetly on the sidelines. A late starter made it two and two.

"My favorite president," I said, "was the thrifty man from Vermont, Calvin Coolidge. We could use him now."

"He was a lucky president, too," added someone. "Not much trouble during his term."

Then Mr. Carter told an anecdote. On the recommendation of his political advisers, Mr. Coolidge appointed Alexander Moore, publisher of the old Pittsburgh Leader who married Lillian Russell, the actress, as ambassador to Spain. He had also helped settle a steel strike. About a month later, after he had been confirmed, there was some sort of a social function at the White House, and one of the President's aides pointed out Moore whom Mr. Coolidge did not know.

"There is your new ambassador to Spain," said the man.

The President looked him over carefully, and then remarked,

"If he's Ambassador to Spain, why don't he go there? What's he doing hanging around here?"

Then I told one which may not be new, but fits into the pattern. Bruce Barton was active in the campaign to get Coolidge nominated for the vice-presidency, and was visiting him at the summer White House in the Adirondack Mountains. In his office was a direct wire to Washington, and one of his secretaries brought him a message from Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state. It turned out the glamorous Queen of Rumania, wanted to visit the United States, and Mr. Hughes suggested an official invitation be issued. Mr. Coolidge sent the following reply,

"Please ask the Queen, just so long as she understands she is to pay her own expenses."

When he first arrived at his mountain camp, a friend found him walking restlessly by himself at noon, and he asked,

"What time do we eat here?"

"Usually not until one o'clock," was the reply.

He seemed disappointed and added, "I'm used to have lunch at twelve."

"Would you like me to go to the kitchen and get them to fix you up a sandwich?" asked the man.

He said,

"No—because if I do that, it will spoil my appetite."

He was the man-from-home type, believing in thrift, enterprise, and other fundamentals which made this country great. After World War I, when there was some talk about reducing the debts and interest owed us by foreign powers, he is supposed to have observed wryly, . . .

"Well, they hired the money, didn't they?"

It was after he retired announcing "he did not choose to run" I first met him. As he wrote some articles for us, I got to know him fairly well and saw him frequently when he would stay at the Vanderbilt Hotel to attend the directors' meetings of the New York Life Insurance Company. He was a philosopher. When president, he used to take a nap after lunch which was comforting and assured the country that everything was on an even keel.

He insisted to be a successful president you must know politics and thought Mr. Hoover, his successor, was handicapped in his relations with Congress by lacking this experience. When you look back to that period, those were the good old days.

Mineral Grand Jury Returns 8 Indictments

Seven Felony Charges Are Included

KEYSER, W. Va.—Eight indictments were returned by the Mineral County Grand Jury at the opening of the April term of court yesterday. Seven were on felonious counts and one a misdemeanor.

The grand jury, with W. V. Kesner, forman, began its work about 10:30 a. m. In his instructions to the jury, Judge Ernest R. See called attention to the great number of juvenile cases in the Mineral county court, and warned that something must be done to curb this situation.

Suspects Bookies

Referring to the Kefauver Congressional investigation of crime activities in the nation, the judge referred to West Virginia. He said that in the local area he believed there is much relief from slot machines operators but added that he suspects a little "booking."

The charge was brief and the jurors were not kept long from their deliberations on the docket prepared by Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott.

The grand jury's report included the following indictments:

Clarence Taylor McBee, indicted on theft of an automobile from Harry Taylor several months ago from its parking place on Centre Street, Keyser. The car was located in Baltimore by Federal Bureau of Investigation officers and later turned over to Taylor.

Wire Stolen

William McAvoy and Ray Franklin Walker, charged with theft of a quantity of power line wire amounting to approximately 200 pounds, for which the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company claims ownership.

Clyde L. Gales, three indictments charging him with feloniously passing bad checks at two local banks, for $25 each.

Austin Judy indicted for having a tip board in his possession in his place of business at Wiley Ford.

Seven Felony Charges Are Included

KEYSER, W. Va.—Eight indictments were returned by the Mineral County Grand Jury at the opening of the April term of court yesterday. Seven were on felonious counts and one a misdemeanor.

The grand jury, with W. V. Kesner, forman, began its work about 10:30 a. m. In his instructions to the jury, Judge Ernest R. See called attention to the great number of juvenile cases in the Mineral county court, and warned that something must be done to curb this situation.

Suspects Bookies

Referring to the Kefauver Congressional investigation of crime activities in the nation, the judge referred to West Virginia. He said that in the local area he believed there is much relief from slot machines operators but added that he suspects a little "booking."

The charge was brief and the jurors were not kept long from their deliberations on the docket prepared by Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott.

The grand jury's report included the following indictments:

Clarence Taylor McBee, indicted on theft of an automobile from Harry Taylor several months ago from its parking place on Centre Street, Keyser. The car was located in Baltimore by Federal Bureau of Investigation officers and later turned over to Taylor.

Clyde L. Gales, three indictments charging him with feloniously passing bad checks at two local banks, for $25 each.

Austin Judy indicted for having a tip board in his possession in his place of business at Wiley Ford.

Everett Roy Weese, Jr., was indicted on a misdemeanor count charging delinquency with a 12-year-old local girl.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 17 (INS)—A new beauty, and a threat to Elizabeth Taylor on the Warner lot, is Janice Rule, who gets one of the top spots in "Starlift." Jack Warner really thinks Janice has the making of a real star.

She's a good dancer — in fact, the Warner talent scout discovered her dancing in "Miss Liberty" in New York. She played Robert Young's co-ed daughter in "Goodbye, My Fancy," and is, indeed, an extremely pretty girl. She was on the cover of one of the national magazines so it looks as if Janice is on her way to the top.

All of the Warner stars will play themselves in "Starlift" — Gary Cooper, Ruth Roman, Doris Day, and so forth. This is the story of Travis Air Base and Jack Warner has the co-operation of the entire base where GIs arrive and leave daily for Korea.

Gloria Swanson may get another crack at the Academy Award. We all hope she does.

Jerry Wald wants her to star in "Exclusive Model," a movie to be made in Paris and in the shops of the great couturieres (dressmakers to you and me).

The role of a woman past her first youth, who reigns over an exclusive clothes house in Paris couldn't be a better fit for Gloria, who was once known as the best "clothes horse" on the screen. There's also a role for a young girl —the model.

Jerry and Norman Krasna are sending a representative to Paris to cover the collections from behind the scenes.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Peter Lawford sat between his two girl friends, Sharman Douglas and Jeanne MacDonald, at a recent dinner party.

I'd say Pete's a brave man. But I can tell you it's Jeanne with whom he's in love. He gave her a pair of diamond and amethyst clips.

Miss MacDonald was once a society reporter on a Honolulu newspaper, but she likes Hollywood and has no intention of returning to her job. Reporting on a paper was never like seeing Hollywood with Peter Lawford.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

June Haver's mother, Mrs. Marie Haver, and Dr. Carter Nixon, who broke their engagement a year ago, were out together for the first time since they said goodbye to romance.

Singer Billy Ekstine is convalescing following a minor operation.

Tommy Farrell, Glenda's boy, who stepped on a rusty nail and contracted blood poisoning, is okay now and able to join Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in their act.

For the first time in four years Joan Crawford is letting Manhattan have a look at her. She is there for a vacation and a look-see at the plays.

Quite a night for Sammy Davis when Eddie and Bill Goetz, and Sylvia and Danny Kaye visited Ciro's. Sammy does an imitation of Danny and it is so good that Danny gave Sammy some more pointers on how to do a take off on him. Also, the young negro comedian, singer and dancer was asked by Bill Goetz to make a test at U-I.

Joan Fontaine, who was at the three-day fiesta at La Quinta which closed the season, has now gone to San Francisco to attend the Bachelors Ball.

At the Mocambo Ted Briskin and Mona Knox were ringsiding. Also Susan Hayward and her husband, Jesse Barker. Dan Dailey was staging.

Ben Blue, who has been playing to standing room only at Charley Foy's, has to leave in two weeks, unfortunately, for a New York summer replacement TV show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Americans smoke some 400 billion cigarets a year.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, April 17 (INS)—A new beauty, and a threat to Elizabeth Taylor on the Warner lot, is Janice Rule, who gets one of the top spots in "Starlift." Jack Warner really thinks Janice has the making of a real star.

She's a good dancer — in fact, the Warner talent scout discovered her dancing in "Miss Liberty" in New York. She played Robert Young's co-ed daughter in "Goodbye, My Fancy," and is, indeed, an extremely pretty girl. She was on the cover of one of the national magazines so it looks as if Janice is on her way to the top.

All of the Warner stars will play themselves in "Starlift" — Gary Cooper, Ruth Roman, Doris Day, and so forth. This is the story of Travis Air Base and Jack Warner has the co-operation of the entire base where GIs arrive and leave daily for Korea.

• — • — •

Gloria Swanson may get another crack at the Academy Award. We all hope she does.

Jerry Wald wants her to star in "Exclusive Model," a movie to be made in Paris and in the shops of the great couturieres (dressmakers to you and me).

The role of a woman past her first youth, who reigns over an exclusive clothes house in Paris couldn't be a better fit for Gloria, who was once known as the best "clothes horse" on the screen. There's also a role for a young girl —the model.

Jerry and Norman Krasna are sending a representative to Paris to cover the collections from behind the scenes.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Peter Lawford sat between his two girl friends, Sharman Douglas and Jeanne MacDonald, at a recent dinner party.

I'd say Pete's a brave man. But I can tell you it's Jeanne with whom he's in love. He gave her a pair of diamond and amethyst clips.

Miss MacDonald was once a society reporter on a Honolulu newspaper, but she likes Hollywood and has no intention of returning to her job. Reporting on a paper was never like seeing Hollywood with Peter Lawford.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

June Haver's mother, Mrs. Marie Haver, and Dr. Carter Nixon, who broke their engagement a year ago, were out together for the first time since they said goodbye to romance.

Singer Billy Ekstine is convalescing following a minor operation.

Tommy Farrell, Glenda's boy, who stepped on a rusty nail and contracted blood poisoning, is okay now and able to join Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in their act.

For the first time in four years Joan Crawford is letting Manhattan have a look at her. She is there for a vacation and a look-see at the plays.

Quite a night for Sammy Davis when Eddie and Bill Goetz, and Sylvia and Danny Kaye visited Ciro's. Sammy does an imitation of Danny and it is so good that Danny gave Sammy some more pointers on how to do a take off on him. Also, the young negro comedian, singer and dancer was asked by Bill Goetz to make a test at U-I.

Joan Fontaine, who was at the three-day fiesta at La Quinta which closed the season, has now gone to San Francisco to attend the Bachelors Ball.

At the Mocambo Ted Briskin and Mona Knox were ringsiding. Also Susan Hayward and her husband, Jesse Barker. Dan Dailey was staging.

Ben Blue, who has been playing to standing room only at Charley Foy's, has to leave in two weeks, unfortunately, for a New York summer replacement TV show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Americans smoke some 400 billion cigarets a year.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Just A Few Odds And Ends

THE Maiden Form Brassiere Company is now sponsoring "I Cover Times Square." Come to think of it, this program, which possesses a rich, overripe odor, has always had a rather unfortunate choice of sponsor. The last one was Air Wick which used to tell us: "Air Wick keeps your home pleasant." Then, right into our homes, Air Wick would propel "I Cover Times Square," smelling up the place to high heaven.

John Crosby

• — • — •

Aunt Jenny, a soap opera heroine who tells tales of great suffering to a horde of women, issues little pills of wisdom to the flock from time to time under the title "Aunt Jenny Says." Recently a press release informs me, Aunt Jenny said: "It is better to be silent and thought to be a fool than to speak up and remove all doubt." A good crack, no doubt about it. Good enough, in fact, to to have been uttered by Abraham Lincoln a great many years before soap opera was born.

• — • — •

Another eminent radio philosopher is Dean Cameron of WJZ who just acquired a disciple even Kant might envy. Cameron got a note in the mail, reading: "Dear Cameron: You have saved my life. I have been thinking about committing suicide for a long time, but after hearing your wonderful broadcast yesterday have decided against it. I also use H-O Oats every day." The teachings of lesser prophets—Schopenhauer, Nietsche, that sort of person—may conceivably have prevented men from suicide. But I bet they never managed to persuade the guys to eat the sponsor's product, too. Cameron's achievement is a great thing for all sponsors. He has not just saved a man; he has saved a consumer, a victory for the spirit, a triumph for the economy.

• — • — •

A recent column here on popular songs brought in a small blizzard of mail which reminded me that the lurid deaths of our time have always sent the composers leaping to their escritoires to herald the event with song. Remember when John Dillinger met his end outside a movie theater in Chicago in 1934? Almost immediately there came a song called "Goodbye, Mr. Public Enemy Number One." It contained the immortal lines:

"While coming from a show,
"And John Dillinger will never kill no mo'."

Another chorus of the same song, this one on the subject of Al Capone, went like this:

"But the law is not so dumb
"As it appears to some.
"On income tax they got the

Perhaps the most famous commemorative song of its time was "They Wanted A Songbird in Heaven So God Took Caruso Away," one of the most profound laments since Milton's "Lycidas." Then there was that ode to contemporary homicide, a very controversial son, after the incarceration of the late Harry K. Thaw for killing Stanford White.

"Why don't they set him free
"And give him his liberty?
"Just because he's a millionaire
"People all treat him unfair."

This may be the only attempt in popular song to arouse sympathy for an imprisoned millionaire or, for that matter, for any kind of millionaire. That's all the dirges we have kicking around for the moment but there'll probably be more.

Well, just one more story then. Sports announcers expose themselves to all sorts of hazards. They get conked by golfballs. Large, unwieldly wrestlers are dumped into their laps. Just one thing after the other. However, a sports announcer named Joe Ryan of WALL, Middletown, N. Y., tells about a disaster which befell him and which he claims is unique. He was broadcasting a Soap Box Derby, using a portable microphone, when the largest soap box racer in the contest swerved unexpectedly and ran over him. Broke his glasses.

which Japan was victorious. By the treaty of Portsmouth, Russia recognized Japan's paramount interest in Korea, transferred to Japan the southern part of the Chinese Eastern Railroad (henceforth called the South Manchurian Railway). Japan was also given the Liaotung Peninsula in Manchuria and half of Sakhalin.

Although Japan and Russia signed a number of secret treatries by which they divided Manchuria and Mongolia between them, there was no real Russian-Japanese friendship. In fact, in 1917, when the Russian revolution occurred, the Japanese sought to take areas in Siberia as far as Lake Baikal. This was countermanded by the Allies, principally the United States, who sent expeditionary forces to Siberia to hold the Trans-Siberia Railroad as trustees for Russia.

Much that is false has been written about this Siberian expedition. I was there and know the facts first hand.

It must be obvious from this review of the historical facts that a great fear of Russia has long existed in Japan and is even stronger now. The Japanese in the 1920's and 1930's justified their reversion to militarism on the grounds that they had to be prepared to withstand conquest by Russia.

The elimination of MacArthur from Japan restores this fear. Should they feel themselves abandoned, they may be forced to turn to Russia to avoid being conquered, on the assumption that a satellite might have an easier time than a conquered country. It is, for them, a frightful dilemma.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

LET THE ENEMY ASSIST

IT MAY be best to act as the copy-book-maximeers advise and do things yourself instead of letting somebody else do them for you. But you may face a lineup in which you require help from some direction. If you happen to be a declarer, there is no quarter in which to seek assistance excepting your opponents. Giving them a chance to aid, when you have a doubtful situation as to entries and re-entries, may solve all of your problems. Tossing them into the lead can occasionally promote your secondary cards from doubtful entities into positive assets.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East

3 NT

It happened that everybody who played this deal in a duplicate tournament failed to make the game, excepting one South, who played differently from all other declarers. After the lead of the heart 5, which the 8 won, it would seem easy to rake in nine tricks with four in that suit, four in clubs and certainly one or two more between spades and diamonds. But it didn't turn out that way with them.

The queer arrangement in clubs warned the one successful declarer to subject his entry situation to careful scrutiny. It resulted in his deciding to page his friends, the enemy, in order to sublimate his problems. So he followed the first heart trick with the club K and Q, then led to the heart A, after which he sent forth the spade 9, putting on the 2 and despatching it through to the Q.

West was in a jam. Hoping to extricate himself, he led the diamond 4 to the K. The club 5 was returned to the J and the diamond J forced the A out. When the spade 6 was returned to the A, the K was put on it. Now both dummy and declarer's hand contained only winning cards while the defenders had collected only four tricks.

Just A Few Odds And Ends

THE Maiden Form Brassiere Company is now sponsoring "I Cover Times Square." Come to think of it, this program, which possesses a rich, overripe odor, has always had a rather unfortunate choice of sponsor. The last one was Air Wick which used to tell us: "Air Wick keeps your home pleasant." Then, right into our homes, Air Wick would propel "I Cover Times Square," smelling up the place to high heaven.

Aunt Jenny, a soap opera heroine who tells tales of great suffering to a horde of women, issues little pills of wisdom to the flock from time to time under the title "Aunt Jenny Says." Recently a press release informs me, Aunt Jenny said: "It is better to be silent and thought to be a fool than to speak up and remove all doubt." A good crack, no doubt about it. Good enough, in fact, to to have been uttered by Abraham Lincoln a great many years before soap opera was born.

• — • — •

Another eminent radio philosopher is Dean Cameron of WJZ who just acquired a disciple even Kant might envy. Cameron got a note in the mail, reading: "Dear Cameron: You have saved my life. I have been thinking about committing suicide for a long time, but after hearing your wonderful broadcast yesterday have decided against it. I also use H-O Oats every day." The teachings of lesser prophets—Schopenhauer, Nietsche, that sort of person—may conceivably have prevented men from suicide. But I bet they never managed to persuade the guys to eat the sponsor's product, too. Cameron's achievement is a great thing for all sponsors. He has not just saved a man; he has saved a consumer, a victory for the spirit, a triumph for the economy.

• — • — •

A recent column here on popular songs brought in a small blizzard of mail which reminded me that the lurid deaths of our time have always sent the composers leaping to their escritoires to herald the event with song. Remember when John Dillinger met his end outside a movie theater in Chicago in 1934? Almost immediately there came a song called "Goodbye, Mr. Public Enemy Number One." It contained the immortal lines:

"While coming from a show,
"Again justice dealt its blow.
"And John Dillinger will never kill no mo'."

Another chorus of the same song, this one on the subject of Al Capone, went like this:

"But the law is not so dumb
"As it appears to some.
"On income tax they got the goods on him."

Perhaps the most famous commemorative song of its time was "They Wanted A Songbird in Heaven So God Took Caruso Away," one of the most profound laments since Milton's "Lycidas." Then there was that ode to contemporary homicide, a very controversial son, after the incarceration of the late Harry K. Thaw for killing Stanford White.

"Why don't they set him free
"And give him his liberty?
"Just because he's a millionaire
"People all treat him unfair."

This may be the only attempt in popular song to arouse sympathy for an imprisoned millionaire or, for that matter, for any kind of millionaire. That's all the dirges we have kicking around for the moment but there'll probably be more.

Well, just one more story then. Sports announcers expose themselves to all sorts of hazards. They get conked by golfballs. Large, unwieldly wrestlers are dumped into their laps. Just one thing after the other. However, a sports announcer named Joe Ryan of WALL, Middletown, N. Y., tells about a disaster which befell him and which he claims is unique. He was broadcasting a Soap Box Derby, using a portable microphone, when the largest soap box racer in the contest swerved unexpectedly and ran over him. Broke his glasses.

which Japan was victorious. By the treaty of Portsmouth, Russia recognized Japan's paramount interest in Korea, transferred to Japan the southern part of the Chinese Eastern Railroad (henceforth called the South Manchurian Railway). Japan was also given the Liaotung Peninsula in Manchuria and half of Sakhalin.

Although Japan and Russia signed a number of secret treatries by which they divided Manchuria and Mongolia between them, there was no real Russian-Japanese "friendship. In fact, in 1917, when the Russian revolution occurred, the Japanese sought to take areas in Siberia as far as Lake Baikal. This was countermanded by the Allies, principally the United States, who sent expeditionary forces to Siberia to hold the Trans-Siberia Railroad as trustees for Russia.

Much that is false has been written about this Siberian expedition. I was there and know the facts first hand.

It must be obvious from this review of the historical facts that a great fear of Russia has long existed in Japan and is even stronger now. The Japanese in the 1920's and 1930's justified their reversion to militarism on the grounds that they had to be prepared to withstand conquest by Russia.

The elimination of MacArthur from Japan restores this fear. Should they feel themselves abandoned, they may be forced to turn to Russia to avoid being conquered, on the assumption that a satellite might have an easier time than a conquered country. It is, for them, a frightful dilemma.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LET THE ENEMY ASSIST

IT MAY be best to act as the copy-book-maximeers advise and do things yourself instead of letting somebody else do them for you. But you may face a lineup in which you require help from some direction. If you happen to be a declarer, there is no quarter in which to seek assistance excepting your opponents. Giving them a chance to aid, when you have a doubtful situation as to entries and re-entries, may solve all of your problems. Tossing them into the lead can occasionally promote your secondary cards from doubtful entities into positive assets.

	♠ J 9 5 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ 9 8 6 ♣ A J 6 4
♠ Q 7 6 ♥ J 9 6 5 2 ♦ A 10 4 ♣ 10 8	N W E S	♠ A 8 4 ♥ 4 3 ♦ K 3 2 ♣ 9 7 5 3 2
	♠ K 10 2 ♥ K Q 10 7 ♦ Q J 7 5 ♣ K Q

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

It happened that everybody who played this deal in a duplicate tournament failed to make the game, excepting one South, who played differently from all other declarers. After the lead of the heart 5, which the 8 won, it would seem easy to rake in nine tricks with four in that suit, four in clubs and certainly one or two more between spades and diamonds. But it didn't turn out that way with them.

The queer arrangement in clubs warned the one successful declarer to subject his entry situation to careful scrutiny. It resulted in his deciding to page his friends, the enemy, in order to sublimate his problems. So he followed the first heart trick with the club K and Q, then led to the heart A, after which he sent forth the spade 9, putting on the 2 and despatching it through to the Q.

West was in a jam. Hoping to extricate himself, he led the diamond 4 to the K. The club 5 was returned to the J and the diamond J forced the A out. When the spade 6 was returned to the A, the K was put on it. Now both dummy and declarer's hand contained only winning cards while the defenders had collected only four tricks.

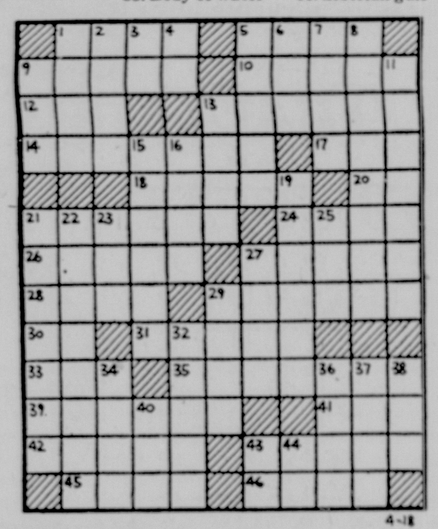
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc, Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

D M H L J T ' F L O R V W M T S R J Y V J R L F —
F J B R F P G : P H M L L H R O R P N G , U I L
T J H R F F K M N M T R — U G W J T .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: I HAVE EVER BELIEVED, AND DO NOW KNOW, THAT THERE ARE WITCHES—BROWNE.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LET THE ENEMY ASSIST

IT MAY be best to act as the copy-book-maximeers advise and do things yourself instead of letting somebody else do them for you. But you may face a lineup in which you require help from some direction. If you happen to be a declarer, there is no quarter in which to seek assistance excepting your opponents. Giving them a chance to aid, when you have a doubtful situation as to entries and re-entries, may solve all of your problems. Tossing them into the lead can occasionally promote your secondary cards from doubtful entities into positive assets.

	♠ J 9 5 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ 9 8 6 ♣ A J 6 4
♠ Q 7 6 ♥ J 9 6 5 2 ♦ A 10 4 ♣ 10 8	N W E S	♠ A 8 4 ♥ 4 3 ♦ K 3 2 ♣ 9 7 5 3 2
	♠ K 10 2 ♥ K Q 10 7 ♦ Q J 7 5 ♣ K Q

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

It happened that everybody who played this deal in a duplicate tournament failed to make the game, excepting one South, who played differently from all other declarers. After the lead of the heart 5, which the 8 won, it would seem easy to rake in nine tricks with four in that suit, four in clubs and certainly one or two more between spades and diamonds. But it didn't turn out that way with them.

The queer arrangement in clubs warned the one successful declarer to subject his entry situation to careful scrutiny. It resulted in his deciding to page his friends, the enemy, in order to sublimate his problems. So he followed the first heart trick with the club K and Q, then led to the heart A, after which he sent forth the spade 9, putting on the 2 and despatching it through to the Q.

West was in a jam. Hoping to extricate himself, he led the diamond 4 to the K. The club 5 was returned to the J and the diamond J forced the A out. When the spade 6 was returned to the A, the K was put on it. Now both dummy and declarer's hand contained only winning cards while the defenders had collected only four tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ K 5 4 3 ♥ 7 4 ♦ A 7 4 2 ♣ Q J 4
♠ 10 9 6 ♥ K 10 9 ♦ Q J 10 6 ♣ 7 5 2	N W E S	♠ Q 8 7 ♥ A Q 3 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ K 9 8 6
	♠ A J 2 ♥ J 8 6 5 2 ♦ K 8 ♣ A 10 3

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

Can you imagine any circumstances under which you would make three successive heart bids on South's cards if, after the first two, North bids No Trumps?

Market Closes Unchanged Following See-Saw Session

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—The stock market backed and filled all during today's session and wound up just about where it started.

Prices were mixed at the opening and when the market closed the margin of gains over losses was insignificant.

Price changes were fractional for the most part as issues sashayed all over the lot, now advancing a little, now slipping a bit.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged from yesterday at $95.70. The average of the 30 industrials was unchanged but the rail and utility categories advanced 10 cents each.

There was little activity, even during the few moments of improving prices late in the session. The volume was 1,440,000 shares, down sharply from yesterday's 1,730,000.

Airlines went a long way toward giving the market its steady tone. Pan American, American, United and Eastern all advanced fractions. They see-sawed a bit during the day but held their gains at the close.

Steel stocks also contributed a little strength to the market. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were unchanged, Republic and Youngstown Sheet crept ahead a little and Wheeling advanced $1.12 at $40.

The railroad stocks were typical of most categories and of the market as a whole. New York Central and Union Pacific slipped by fractions while Northern Pacific, Santa Fe and Chesapeake and Ohio moved up equally small distances.

Among the better performers were Montgomery Ward, up $1 at $72; Sears Roebuck, ahead $1 at $55.75; U. S. Rubber, up $1.87 at $58.75.

On the losing side Gulf Oil was down $1 at $88.50 and Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Texas Co., Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Consolidated Edison and Admiral Corp., were down by lesser amounts.

Market Closes Unchanged Following See-Saw Session

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—The stock market backed and filled all during today's session and wound up just about where it started.

Prices were mixed at the opening and when the market closed the margin of gains over losses was insignificant.

Price changes were fractional for the most part as issues sashayed all over the lot, now advancing a little, now slipping a bit.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged from yesterday at $95.70. The average of the 30 industrials was unchanged but the rail and utility categories advanced 10 cents each.

There was little activity, even during the few moments of improving prices late in the session. The volume was 1,440,000 shares, down sharply from yesterday's 1,730,000.

Airlines went a long way toward giving the market its steady tone. Pan American, American, United and Eastern all advanced fractions. They see-sawed a bit during the day but held their gains at the close.

Steel stocks also contributed a little strength to the market. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were unchanged, Republic and Youngstown Sheet crept ahead a little and Wheeling advanced $1.12 at $40.

The railroad stocks were typical of most categories and of the market as a whole. New York Central and Union Pacific slipped by fractions while Northern Pacific, Santa Fe and Chesapeake and Ohio moved up equally small distances.

Among the better performers were Montgomery Ward, up $1 at $72; Sears Roebuck, ahead $1 at $55.75; U. S. Rubber, up $1.87 at $58.75.

On the losing side Gulf Oil was down $1 at $88.50 and Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Texas Co., Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Consolidated Edison and Admiral Corp., were down by lesser amounts.

Market Closes Unchanged Following See-Saw Session

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—The stock market backed and filled all during today's session and wound up just about where it started.

Prices were mixed at the opening and when the market closed the margin of gains over losses was insignificant.

Price changes were fractional for the most part as issues sashayed all over the lot, now advancing a little, now slipping a bit.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged from yesterday at $95.70. The average of the 30 industrials was unchanged but the rail and utility categories advanced 10 cents each.

There was little activity, even during the few moments of improving prices late in the session. The volume was 1,440,000 shares, down sharply from yesterday's 1,730,000.

Airlines went a long way toward giving the market its steady tone. Pan American, American, United and Eastern all advanced fractions. They see-sawed a bit during the day but held their gains at the close.

Steel stocks also contributed a little strength to the market. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were unchanged, Republic and Youngstown Sheet crept ahead a little and Wheeling advanced $1.12 at $40.

The railroad stocks were typical of most categories and of the market as a whole. New York Central and Union Pacific slipped by fractions while Northern Pacific, Santa Fe and Chesapeake and Ohio moved up equally small distances.

Among the better performers were Montgomery Ward, up $1 at $72; Sears Roebuck, ahead $1 at $55.75; U. S. Rubber, up $1.87 at $58.75.

On the losing side Gulf Oil was down $1 at $88.50 and Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Texas Co., Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Consolidated Edison and Admiral Corp., were down by lesser amounts.

County Board Hikes Tax Rate To New High

Levy Jumps 13 Cents To Reach $1.82

Allegany County's tax rate for the 1951-52 fiscal year, starting July 1, will be $1.82 per $100 assessed valuation, the highest rate in the county's history.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday morning approved the annual levy which hikes the rate 13 cents, from $1.69 to $1.82.

Total Lower

Ironically, the levy is being boosted despite the fact that total expenditures anticipated by the commissioners for the new year will be $68,265.18 less than for the current fiscal period. For the 1950-51 period the total expenditures will amount to $3,037,849.13 while for the coming 12-month period they will amount to $2,969,583.95.

The necessity for the increased rate was set forth by the commissioners in a statement which they issued in connection with the levy and appropriations for the new fiscal year.

The commissioners emphasized that the unappropriated surplus on hand in 1950 was $492,549.13 whereas this year it is estimated that the surplus will be only $246,683.95, or $245,865.18 less to start the new fiscal year. Each year the surplus is added to the expected revenues for the ensuing year, thereby reducing the amount of money it is necessary to raise by direct taxation for the ensuing year.

In their statement the commissioners note that the unappropriated surplus largely comes from basing the levy on an assessable basis somewhat less than the probable total assessable basis for the county. This practice of maintaining a "cushion" is founded on the experience of past county oards, they said. It is designed to produce an unexpected surplus at the end of any fiscal year, supposedly making it possible to maintain a fairly stable tax rate.

Other reasons for the increase are the boost in the costs of government and services and $100 annual standard of living adjustments to 124 school teachers and approximately 190 other county employes making less than $3,000 per year. No pay hikes were given those making above $3,000.

Other Increases

A number of other increases are included in the new budget, which calls for the receipt of $2,311,400 from direct taxation on an accepted assessable basis of $127,000,000.

Other boosts include $10,000 per year to the Upper Potomac River Commission required by law, $5,000

Tuberculosis Association Holds Election

25 Per Cent Cut In Budget Listed

Nine new members of the board of directors and a new vice president were elected yesterday at the meeting of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association in the County office Building, Union Street, Miss Jean Reinhard Executive secretary, announced.

Mrs. Arthur Evans, Rawlings, was elected to fill the vacancy left open by the resignation of Mrs. Aurelia Becker, who was second vice president.

Elected to the board of directors were Paul Weisenmiller, Charles E. Smith, Rev. Seth Morrow, Mrs. Eleanor Westerfeld, Fr. Regis Larkin, Dr. Ivan Diehl, Byron Kight, Mrs. Albert S. Paye, and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

The association's new techincolor film, "Rodney" was previewed.

A budget of $9,529.92 was offered and approved. This figure, Miss Reinhard pointed out, is about 25 per cent lower than last year's budget. The decrease was the result of cuts in administrative costs and Christmas seal costs. It does not, in any way, indicate a curtailment of services offered by the association, Miss Reinhard added.

In addition to Mrs. Evans, five members of the board of directors will hold positions through the coming year. They were elected to two-year terms last year. They are Mrs. Harry Barton, president; William J. Edwards, honorary chairman; Mrs. Julius Abramson, first vice president; J. Leo Delaney, secretary; and Joseph Naughton, treasurer.

Reservists Examined

A board of area reserve doctors began examination last night of members of the Army Reserve Corps in Allegany and Garrett counties in order to classify the men fit for military service. The program is part of a nationwide project designed to determine the status of all reservists so the men themselves, as well as the Army, will know where they stand in the event they are called to service. Left to right are reservists Capt. A. H. Humbertson, S/Sgt. Charles H. Cave, Capt. J. M. Koogler, Maj. William M. Mateer, and Maj. S. G. Weisman. Maj. Weisman is a member of the examining board.

Slight Fruit Damage Seen In Cold Snap

Peach Crop Will Be Affected

Area fruit growers were not too much concerned over the expected drop in temperature this morning despite a warning by the Weather Bureau to get out frost fighting equipment.

Henry Miller, Paw Paw orchardist, said last night he did not expect too much harm to his apple crop since the buds have not yet burst forth. He said they "will take it" although the peach blossoms may be "thinned out somewhat" by the drop in temperature.

Should the mercury drop to 20 degrees, Miller said, there is possibility of harm to the apple crop.

Gilbert Miller, Consolidated Orchard Company, Spring Gap, said he did not believe the anticipated drop would affect his apple crop.

Mercury To Nosedive

Temperatures, according to an Associated Press release, were due to take a nose dive this morning to below freezing over most of the state.

The special bulletin issued to farmers said the temperature would drop to as low as 24 degrees in some parts of Allegany and Washington counties.

Last night at 10:30 o'clock, temperature stood at 28 degrees in Thomas, W. Va., with overcast skies. Snow had fallen there yesterday. In Deal, Pa., the same weather conditions and temperature prevailed. In Confluence, Pa., the thermometer read 38 degrees with cloudy skies. Cumberland's reading was about 40 degrees.

In the North Central area and on the Eastern Shore, the forecast was for lows of from 27 to 32 degrees, with general frost over the area.

Warmer This Afternoon

And in Southern Maryland, the weather man predicted the shoreline regions would be the only areas to escape the blanket of frost.

It will be warmer over most of the state this afternoon and tonight, the Bureau forecast.

And as far as the five day outlook is concerned, the Free State is in for a see-saw dose of warm and cool, cloudy and wet weather.

After today's warmup, there's a chance of showers tomorrow morning, followed by a cool spell at night. Milder weather is seen for Friday, followed by showers Saturday and another cool spell Sunday.

Attends Conference

S. Louis Curl, 953 Braddock Road, is attending a retail photographic salesmen's training conference in Rochester, N. Y. this week. Twenty representatives from 12 states comprise the group. The conference is being sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company.

On Saturday the group will motor to Niagara Falls where they will have an opportunity to photograph the falls with a variety of cameras and films.

Liberty Street Parking To Be Five Minutes

Cooperation Asked By City Police

Parking of five minute intervals will be allowed on the left side of Liberty Street starting this morning. All parking was curtailed on the street yesterday morning by city police in an attempt to alleviate the traffic problem resulting from construction work on the Frederick Street conduit.

Assistant Chief B. F. Gaffney last night said that complaints had been received yesterday by Commissioner John J. Long and it was decided to allow motorists to park for five minute periods in order to transact any business in that area.

Conduit construction work at the corner of Mechanic and Frederick Streets has blocked motor traffic from continuing down Mechanic Street from the City Hall Plaza.

Since Liberty Street is the only traffic artery leading to Baltimore Street and because it is a fire lane, residents are requested by city police for full cooperation in the problem.

Chief Gaffney added that police will be on duty to see that the five minute parking interval is inforced. This is necessary to allow as many persons as possible to transact business.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Protest Is Slated On Housing Site

Residents To Appeal To Mayor And Council

A delegation of Frederick Street area residents is slated to appear before the Mayor and Council Monday night to protest the location of a Negro housing development in that area.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said he was informed that the delegation will be accompanied by its attorney, Edward J. Ryan, when the formal protest is filed.

The delegation, Mayor Post said, asked that it be allowed to file the formal protest before final action is taken on the housing site.

The Cumberland Housing Authority announced last week the approval of the location on the northwesterly side of Frederick Street just above Decatur Street and adjacent to the Carver School playgrounds.

Mayor Post said city officials have been left to believe that the Mayor and Council does not have any powers to prevent the location of a housing site at that or any other locality.

He said it was his opinion that in case the Mayor and Council disapproved of any such action it could only protest to the Housing Authority.

License Issued

A beer, wine and liquor license has been issued by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board to Richard H. Dunn for a location in Corriganville. Dunn surrendered a similar permit for another location.

Record Crowds Attend Opening Of Elks' Revue

League Receives $7,128 From Event

The opening of the 1951 Minstrelks' Revue here yesterday afternoon drew the biggest crowd to the Maryland Theater since the "Birth of a Nation" showed here in 1918.

A crowd estimated at from 1,300 to 1,500 thronged to the matinee session yesterday afternoon filling all available seats.

Some 1,100 persons were present last night for the grand opening of the annual show presented by Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks, for the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

During the intermission, John H. Mosner presented a check for $7,128 to the League, the largest contribution in the history of the Minstrelks.

Present at the presentation ceremony were Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, president of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, and noted Baltimore physicians who have aided in the program.

They were Dr. George E. Bennett, Dr. George O. Eaton, Dr. E. David Weinberg, Dr. Allan Voshell, Dr. M. L. Breitstein and Dr. R. C. Thompson, all of Baltimore.

Dr. Bennett, spokesmen for the noted orthopedic doctors, spoke of the great pleasure he and his fellow physicians have had in aiding in the program for crippled children of Western Marylantl.

Last year, the Elks presented a check for $6,000 to the League.

The last performance will be presented tonight and officials said a few seats are still available. Over 225 persons are in the cast.

"MacArthur Day" To Be Marked Tomorrow In Allegany County

Allegany County Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution to set aside tomorrow as "Geneanl Douglas A. MacArthur Day" in the county. As governing body of the county they said they wish to join the nation in extending to General MacArthur a hero's welcome to his native country after an absence of fourteen years spent in devoted service to the nation.

Citizens of Allegany County are requested to exhibit the National Flag as well as to sound public warning devices at the time of his arrival in the United States.

Last night at a meeting of the Ridgeley, W. Va. Mayor and Council, they, too, adopted a plan to celebrate MacArthur's return to the United States. Mayor B. F. Magruder requests residents of Ridgeley to exhibit the American flag and added that the fire siren will be blown at the appropriate time.

City Hall personnel reported yesterday that a number of complaints were received protesting the failure of Cumberland to mark MacArthur Day.

Four non-residents have bought property on the north side of North Centre Street, near Crescent Place, for about $12,000, according to a deed filed in the office of the clerk of circuit court.

In a report from the research department of the Federal Reserve Bank, Richmond, Baltimore led the cities in Maryland with a total of $5,813,055 in building permits for last month although this is a decrease from the same period of last year. In 1950 the amount spent was $10,334,580, a difference of $4,521,525.

A total of $148,300 for last month in Frederick indicated a decrease over last year with a figure of $860,725. The first three months of this year in Frederick was a total of $486,525 as compared to $945,150 in the same period of 1950.

"Bookie" Charge Trial Recesses Until Today

Lt. Lilya Testifies About 90 Minutes

The trial of Raymond H. Goss, charged with operating a "bookie" establishment at 23 North Mechanic Street, was recessed late yesterday until 9:15 a. m. today by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris after Detective Lt. Edwin L. Lilya had spent about an hour and a half on the witness stand.

Lilya identified various betting material which he said he seized March 17 in second floor quarters at 23 North Mechanic Street.

Forcibly Entered

The detective said he forcibly entered the place, known as the Potomac News Company, about 3 p. m. March 17 after obtaining a search warrant the day before from Judge Harris. He testified that he broke a glass panel out of the door after pushing a buzzer and announcing his intentions to search the place. He found no one in the place, he added.

Mark-up sheets, black-bound books on racing, copies of the Racing Form, rubber stamps listing various tracks, ticker machine tape, an intercommunication system, a book of pari-mutual parlay charts and a ledger were among the items identified by Lilya as having been taken from the place. He read from the ledger that a man listed only as "Max," at one time owed $1,148 for bets, later paid that debt and subsequently ran up another debt of $435.

Retrieved From Dump

Other mark-up sheets which Lilya said he retrieved from a Ridgeley, W. Va., dump, he identified as having come from the establishment March 14.

Mrs. Amelia M. Zimmerman, the first prosecution witness yesterday, testified that she had leased an apartment at 23 North Mechanic Street to Goss for $100 per month. The second witness, Richard E. Harman, manager of the Cumberland telephone office, testified that Goss had obtained phone service in the premises on North Mechanic Street.

Goss is being represented by Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Jury Convicts Westernport Youth Of Arson

Judge Henderson Defers Sentencing

Despite the youth's denial and contention that a confession had been obtained through force, a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday took only about 35 minutes to convict William D. Taylor, 17, Kolberg Hill, Westernport, on a charge of arson. The jury recommended leniency.

The youth was charged with setting fire to the powder house of the Harris Powder Company near Westernport last December 28.

The trial, which began Monday afternoon, ended yesterday afternoon after a number of Taylor's relatives and friends took the witness stand in his behhalf. Among these were his mother, Mrs. Bessie Taylor; Viola Mitchell, Edith Karns, Paul Taylor, Peggy Skidmore and Jean Baker.

Last witness was Westernport Police Chief Burza Hanlin, who earlier had testified for the state.

H. B. Clark, special agent for the Western Maryland Railway, one of the state's final witnesses yesterday, testified Taylor had made a confession without intimidation or force before himself, Lt. E. J. Chapman, also a railway agent; State Police Sgt. John J. Cassidy, Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert and State Trooper Milton S. Hart.

Associate Judge George Henderson, who presided at the trial, deferred sentencing in the case after hearing the jury's verdict. In another trial Monday Judge Henderson had found Taylor guilty on two charges of attempted arson at two Westernport stores.

Three Calls Answered

Three calls were answered by city firemen yesterday. At 8:18 a. m. a flue fire at the home of John Miller, 118 Oak Street, was extinguished by South End Fire Company. No damage was caused.

Eastside Fire Company was called to 406 Furnace Street at 1:10 p. m. but a box of toys which had caught fire in the basement was extinguished by the occupant before firemen arrived.

Central Fire Company answered a false alarm at 1:10 p. m. at 406 North Centre Street.

Anglers Throng To Lakes At Opening Of Trout Season

Some 1,000 anglers turned up at Lake Koon Sunday as Pennsylvania's trout season opened.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, said 385 cars were parked in the area by 8 a. m.

Later in the day, he added, fishermen were lined up at about 15 foot intervals as they sought to catch some of the 35,000 lake and rainbow trout stocked in the dam last October.

William C. McInay, Bedford, Pa., fish and game warden, was on duty all day regulating the fishing and helping to guard against the scattering of litter.

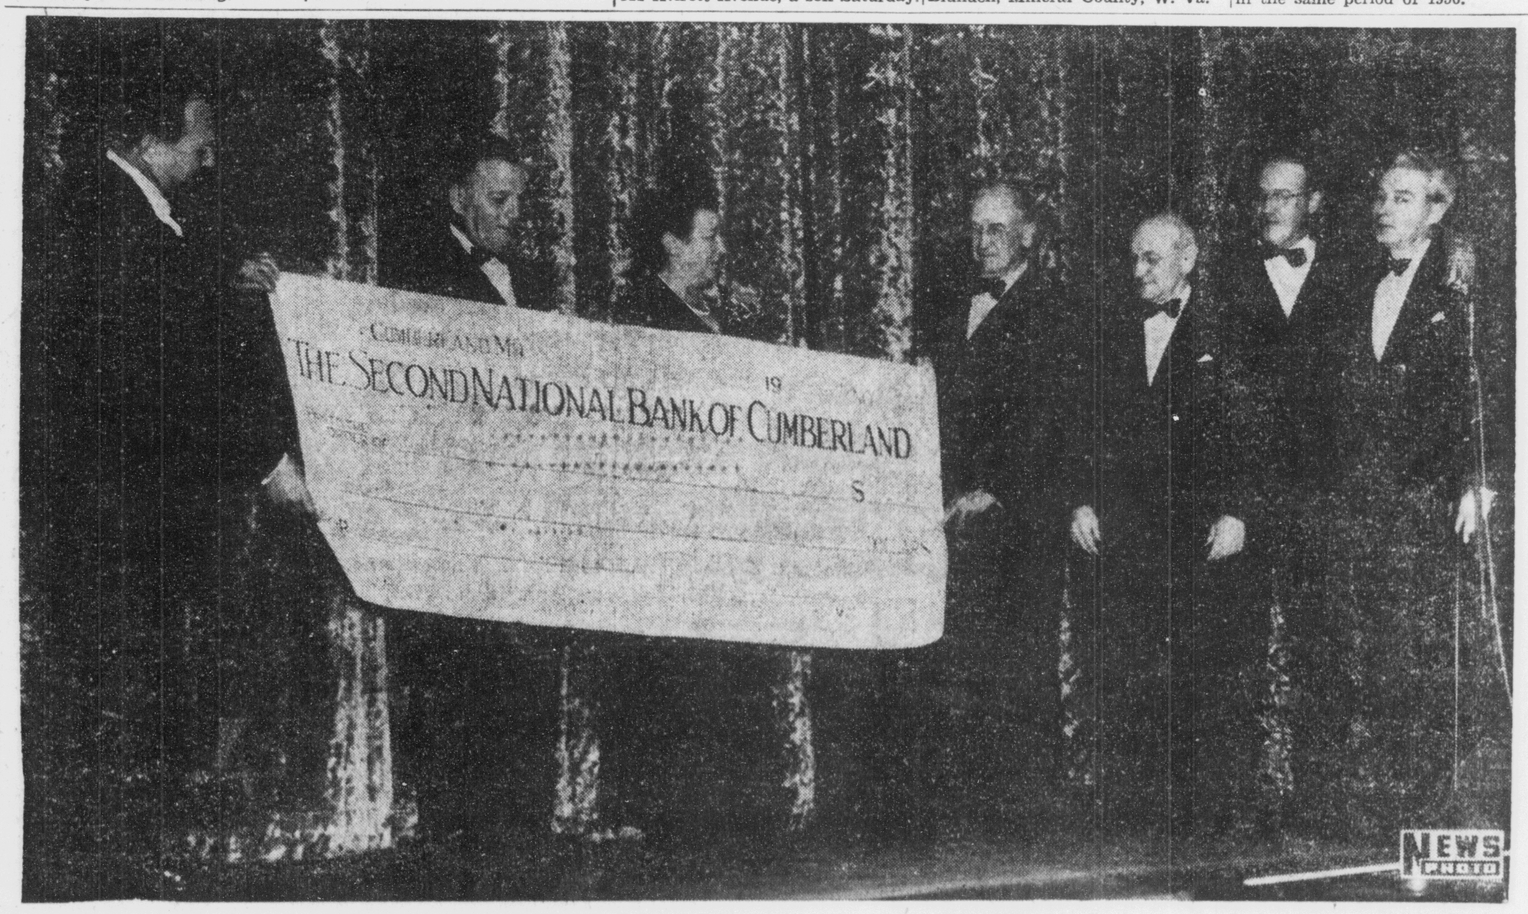
Although the bass season is not in at present Hitchcock said Lake Gordon can be fished for suckers, blue gills, pike, perch and catfish.

He said the water company is encouraging the stocking and fishing of the dams since a healthy balance of life in the water is desirable.



Minstrelks' Event Aids Crippled Children

Officials of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks, the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and noted Baltimore physicians who have aided in the League's program are seen last night during the intermission of the 1951 Minstrelks' Revue, when John H. Mosner, extreme right, presented a check for $7,128 to Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, League president. Also seen are Dr. George E. Bennett, Dr. George O. Eaton and Dr. E. David Weinberg, who have aided with the League's activities; Dr. Allan Voshell, Baltimore, president of the Maryland Society of Crippled Children and Adults, and Dr. R. C. Thompson, state director of the Maryland Department of Vocational Rehabilitation.

County Board Hikes Tax Rate To New High

Levy Jumps 13 Cents To Reach $1.82

Allegany County's tax rate for the 1951-52 fiscal year, starting July 1, will be $1.82 per $100 assessed valuation, the highest rate in the county's history.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday morning approved the annual levy which hikes the rate 13 cents, from $1.69 to $1.82.

Total Lower

Ironically, the levy is being boosted despite the fact that total expenditures anticipated by the commissioners for the new year will be $68,265.18 less than for the current fiscal period. For the 1950-51 period the total expenditures will amount to $3,037,849.13 while for the coming 12-month period they will amount to $2,969,583.95.

The necessity for the increased rate was set forth by the commissioners in a statement which they issued in connection with the levy and appropriations for the new fiscal year.

The commissioners emphasized that the unappropriated surplus on hand in 1950 was $492,549.13 whereas this year it is estimated that the surplus will be only $246,683.95, or $245,865.18 less to start the new fiscal year. Each year the surplus is added to the expected revenues for the ensuing year, thereby reducing the amount of money it is necessary to raise by direct taxation for the ensuing year.

In their statement the commissioners note that the unappropriated surplus largely comes from basing the levy on an assessable basis somewhat less than the probable total assessable basis for the county. This practice of maintaining a "cushion" is founded on the experience of past county oards, they said. It is designed to produce an unexpected surplus at the end of any fiscal year, supposedly making it possible to maintain a fairly stable tax rate.

Other reasons for the increase are the boost in the costs of government and services and $100 annual standard of living adjustments to 124 school teachers and approximately 190 other county employes making less than $3,000 per year. No pay hikes were given those making above $3,000.

Other Increases

A number of other increases are included in the new budget, which calls for the receipt of $2,311,400 from direct taxation on an accepted assessable basis of $127,000,000.

Other boosts include $10,000 per year to the Upper Potomac River Commission required by law, $5,000

Tuberculosis Association Holds Election

25 Per Cent Cut In Budget Listed

Nine new members of the board of directors and a new vice president were elected yesterday at the meeting of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association in the County office Building, Union Street, Miss Jean Reinhard Executive secretary, announced.

Mrs. Arthur Evans, Rawlings, was elected to fill the vacancy left open by the resignation of Mrs. Aurelia Becker, who was second vice president.

Elected to the board of directors were Paul Weisenmiller, Charles E. Smith, Rev. Seth Morrow, Mrs. Eleanor Westerfeld, Fr. Regis Larkin, Dr. Ivan Diehl, Byron Kight, Mrs. Albert S. Paye, and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

The 1951-52 program of activities was planned and adopted at the meeting.

The association's new techincolor film, "Rodney" was previewed.

A budget of $9,529.92 was offered and approved. This figure, Miss Reinhard pointed out, is about 25 per cent lower than last year's budget. The decrease was the result of cuts in administrative costs and Christmas seal costs. It does not, in any way, indicate a curtailment of services offered by the association, Miss Reinhard added.

In addition to Mrs. Evans, five members of the board of directors will hold positions through the coming year. They were elected to two-year terms last year. They are Mrs. Harry Barton, president; William J. Edwards, honorary chairman; Mrs. Julius Abramson, first vice president; J. Leo Delaney, secretary; and Joseph Naughton, treasurer.

Reservists Examined

A board of area reserve doctors began examination last night of members of the Army Reserve Corps in Allegany and Garrett counties in order to classify the men fit for military service. The program is part of a nationwide project designed to determine the status of all reservists so the men themselves, as well as the Army, will know where they stand in the event they are called to service. Left to right are reservists Capt. A. H. Humbertson, S/Sgt. Charles H. Cave, Capt. J. M. Koogler, Maj. William M. Mateer, and Maj. S. G. Weisman. Maj. Weisman is a member of the examining board.

Slight Fruit Damage Seen In Cold Snap

Peach Crop Will Be Affected

Area fruit growers were not too much concerned over the expected drop in temperature this morning despite a warning by the Weather Bureau to get out frost fighting equipment.

Henry Miller, Paw Paw orchardist, said last night he did not expect too much harm to his apple crop since the buds have not yet burst forth. He said they "will take it" although the peach blossoms may be "thinned out somewhat" by the drop in temperature.

Should the mercury drop to 20 degrees, Miller said, there is possibility of harm to the apple crop.

Gilbert Miller, Consolidated Orchard Company, Spring Gap, said he did not believe the anticipated drop would affect his apple crop.

Mercury To Nosedive

Temperatures, according to an Associated Press release, were due to take a nose dive this morning to below freezing over most of the state.

The special bulletin issued to farmers said the temperature would drop to as low as 24 degrees in some parts of Allegany and Washington counties.

Last night at 10:30 o'clock, temperature stood at 28 degrees in Thomas, W. Va., with overcast skies. Snow had fallen there yesterday. In Deal, Pa., the same weather conditions and temperature prevailed. In Confluence, Pa., the thermometer read 38 degrees with cloudy skies. Cumberland's reading was about 40 degrees.

In the North Central area and on the Eastern Shore, the forecast was for lows of from 27 to 32 degrees, with general frost over the area.

Warmer This Afternoon

And in Southern Maryland, the weather man predicted the shoreline regions would be the only areas to escape the blanket of frost.

It will be warmer over most of the state this afternoon and tonight, the Bureau forecast.

And as far as the five day outlook is concerned, the Free State is in for a see-saw dose of warm and cool, cloudy and wet weather.

After today's warmup, there's a chance of showers tomorrow morning, followed by a cool spell at night. Milder weather is seen for Friday, followed by showers Saturday and another cool spell Sunday.

Attends Conference

S. Louis Curl, 953 Braddock Road, is attending a retail photographic salesmen's training conference in Rochester, N. Y. this week. Twenty representatives from 12 states comprise the group. The conference is being sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company.

On Saturday the group will motor to Niagara Falls where they will have an opportunity to photograph the falls with a variety of cameras and films.

Liberty Street Parking To Be Five Minutes

Cooperation Asked By City Police

Parking of five minute intervals will be allowed on the left side of Liberty Street starting this morning. All parking was curtailed on the street yesterday morning by city police in an attempt to alleviate the traffic problem resulting from construction work on the Frederick Street conduit.

Assistant Chief B. F. Gaffney last night said that complaints had been received yesterday by Commissioner John J. Long and it was decided to allow motorists to park for five minute periods in order to transact any business in that area.

Conduit construction work at the corner of Mechanic and Frederick Streets has blocked motor traffic from continuing down Mechanic Street from the City Hall Plaza.

Since Liberty Street is the only traffic artery leading to Baltimore Street and because it is a fire lane, residents are requested by city police for full cooperation in the problem.

Chief Gaffney added that police will be on duty to see that the five minute parking interval is inforced. This is necessary to allow as many persons as possible to transact business.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Protest Is Slated On Housing Site

Residents To Appeal To Mayor And Council

A delegation of Frederick Street area residents is slated to appear before the Mayor and Council Monday night to protest the location of a Negro housing development in that area.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said he was informed that the delegation will be accompanied by its attorney, Edward J. Ryan, when the formal protest is filed.

The delegation, Mayor Post said, asked that it be allowed to file the formal protest before final action is taken on the housing site.

The Cumberland Housing Authority announced last week the approval of the location on the northwesterly side of Frederick Street just above Decatur Street and adjacent to the Carver School playgrounds.

Mayor Post said city officials have been left to believe that the Mayor and Council does not have any powers to prevent the location of a housing site at that or any other locality.

He said it was his opinion that in case the Mayor and Council disapproved of any such action it could only protest to the Housing Authority.

The Frederick Street project is the second of three developments in the Cumberland housing program.

License Issued

A beer, wine and liquor license has been issued by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board to Richard H. Dunn for a location in Corriganville. Dunn surrendered a similar permit for another location.

"MacArthur Day" To Be Marked Tomorrow In Allegany County

Allegany County Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution to set aside tomorrow as "Genearl Douglas A. MacArthur Day" in the county. As governing body of the county they said they wish to join the nation in extending to General MacArthur a hero's welcome to his native country after an absence of fourteen years spent in devoted service to the nation.

Citizens of Allegany County are requested to exhibit the National Flag as well as to sound public warning devices at the time of his arrival in the United States.

Last night at a meeting of the Ridgeley, W. Va. Mayor and Council, they, too, adopted a plan to celebrate MacArthur's return to the United States. Mayor B. F. Magruder requests residents of Ridgeley to exhibit the American flag and added that the fire siren will be blown at the appropriate time.

City Hall personnel reported yesterday that a number of complaints were received protesting the failure of Cumberland to mark MacArthur Day.

"Bookie" Charge Trial Recesses Until Today

Lt. Lilya Testifies About 90 Minutes

The trial of Raymond H. Goss, charged with operating a "bookie" establishment at 23 North Mechanic Street, was recessed late yesterday until 9:15 a. m. today by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris after Detective Lt. Edwin L. Lilya had spent about an hour and a half on the witness stand.

Lilya identified various betting material which he said he seized March 17 in second floor quarters at 23 North Mechanic Street.

Forcibly Entered

The detective said he forcibly entered the place, known as the Potomac News Company, about 3 p. m. March 17 after obtaining a search warrant the day before from Judge Harris. He testified that he broke a glass panel out of the door after pushing a buzzer and announcing his intentions to search the place. He found no one in the place, he added.

Mark-up sheets, black-bound books on racing, copies of the Racing Form, rubber stamps listing various tracks, ticker machine tape, an intercommunication system, a book of pari-mutual parlay charts and a ledger were among the items identified by Lilya as having been taken from the place. He read from the ledger that a man listed only as "Max," at one time owed $1,148 for bets, later paid that debt and subsequently ran up another debt of $435.

Retrieved From Dump

Other mark-up sheets which Lilya said he retrieved from a Ridgeley, W. Va., dump, he identified as having come from the establishment March 14.

Mrs. Amelia M. Zimmerman, the first prosecution witness yesterday, testified that she had leased an apartment at 23 North Mechanic Street to Goss for $100 per month. The second witness, Richard E. Harman, manager of the Cumberland telephone office, testified that Goss had obtained phone service in the premises on North Mechanic Street.

Goss is being represented by Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Jury Convicts Westernport Youth Of Arson

Judge Henderson Defers Sentencing

Despite the youth's denial and contention that a confession had been obtained through force, a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday took only about 35 minutes to convict William D. Taylor, 17, Kolberg Hill, Westernport, on a charge of arson. The jury recommended leniency.

The youth was charged with setting fire to the powder house of the Harris Powder Company near Westernport last December 28.

The trial, which began Monday afternoon, ended yesterday afternoon after a number of Taylor's relatives and friends took the witness stand in his behhalf. Among these were his mother, Mrs. Bessie Taylor; Viola Mitchell, Edith Karns, Paul Taylor, Peggy Skidmore and Jean Baker.

Last witness was Westernport Police Chief Burza Hanlin, who earlier had testified for the state.

H. B. Clark, special agent for the Western Maryland Railway, one of the state's final witnesses yesterday, testified Taylor had made a confession without intimidation or force before himself, Lt. E. J. Chapman, also a railway agent; State Police Sgt. John J. Cassidy, Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert and State Trooper Milton S. Hart.

Associate Judge George Henderson, who presided at the trial, deferred sentencing in the case after hearing the jury's verdict. In another trial Monday Judge Henderson had found Taylor guilty on two charges of attempted arson at two Westernport stores.

After today's warmup, there's a chance of showers tomorrow morning, followed by a cool spell at night. Milder weather is seen for Friday, followed by showers Saturday and another cool spell Sunday.

Liberty Street Parking To Be Five Minutes

Cooperation Asked By City Police

Parking of five minute intervals will be allowed on the left side of Liberty Street starting this morning. All parking was curtailed on the street yesterday morning by city police in an attempt to alleviate the traffic problem resulting from construction work on the Frederick Street conduit.

Assistant Chief B. F. Gaffney last night said that complaints had been received yesterday by Commissioner John J. Long and it was decided to allow motorists to park for five minute periods in order to transact any business in that area.

Conduit construction work at the corner of Mechanic and Frederick Streets has blocked motor traffic from continuing down Mechanic Street from the City Hall Plaza.

Since Liberty Street is the only traffic artery leading to Baltimore Street and because it is a fire lane, residents are requested by city police for full cooperation in the problem.

Chief Gaffney added that police will be on duty to see that the five minute parking interval is inforced. This is necessary to allow as many persons as possible to transact business.

Protest Is Slated On Housing Site

Residents To Appeal To Mayor And Council

A delegation of Frederick Street area residents is slated to appear before the Mayor and Council Monday night to protest the location of a Negro housing development in that area.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said he was informed that the delegation will be accompanied by its attorney, Edward J. Ryan, when the formal protest is filed.

The delegation, Mayor Post said, asked that it be allowed to file the formal protest before final action is taken on the housing site.

The Cumberland Housing Authority announced last week the approval of the location on the northwesterly side of Frederick Street just above Decatur Street and adjacent to the Carver School playgrounds.

Mayor Post said city officials have been left to believe that the Mayor and Council does not have any powers to prevent the location of a housing site at that or any other locality.

He said it was his opinion that in case the Mayor and Council disapproved of any such action it could only protest to the Housing Authority.

The Frederick Street project is the second of three developments in the Cumberland housing program.

"MacArthur Day" To Be Marked Tomorrow In Allegany County

Allegany County Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution to set aside tomorrow as "Genearl Douglas A. MacArthur Day" in the county. As governing body of the county they said they wish to join the nation in extending to General MacArthur a hero's welcome to his native country after an absence of fourteen years spent in devoted service to the nation.

Citizens of Allegany County are requested to exhibit the National Flag as well as to sound public warning devices at the time of his arrival in the United States.

Last night at a meeting of the Ridgeley, W. Va. Mayor and Council, they, too, adopted a plan to celebrate MacArthur's return to the United States. Mayor B. F. Magruder requests residents of Ridgeley to exhibit the American flag and added that the fire siren will be blown at the appropriate time.

Jury Convicts Westernport Youth Of Arson

Judge Henderson Defers Sentencing

Despite the youth's denial and contention that a confession had been obtained through force, a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday took only about 35 minutes to convict William D. Taylor, 17, Kolberg Hill, Westernport, on a charge of arson. The jury recommended leniency.

The youth was charged with setting fire to the powder house of the Harris Powder Company near Westernport last December 28.

The trial, which began Monday afternoon, ended yesterday afternoon after a number of Taylor's relatives and friends took the witness stand in his behhalf. Among these were his mother, Mrs. Bessie Taylor; Viola Mitchell, Edith Karns, Paul Taylor, Peggy Skidmore and Jean Baker.

Last witness was Westernport Police Chief Burza Hanlin, who earlier had testified for the state.

H. B. Clark, special agent for the Western Maryland Railway, one of the state's final witnesses yesterday, testified Taylor had made a confession without intimidation or force before himself, Lt. E. J. Chapman, also a railway agent; State Police Sgt. John J. Cassidy, Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert and State Trooper Milton S. Hart.

Associate Judge George Henderson, who presided at the trial, deferred sentencing in the case after hearing the jury's verdict. In another trial Monday Judge Henderson had found Taylor guilty on two charges of attempted arson at two Westernport stores.

Tuberculosis Association Holds Election

25 Per Cent Cut In Budget Listed

Nine new members of the board of directors and a new vice president were elected yesterday at the meeting of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association in the County office Building, Union Street, Miss Jean Reinhard Executive secretary, announced.

Mrs. Arthur Evans, Rawlings, was elected to fill the vacancy left open by the resignation of Mrs. Aurelia Becker, who was second vice president.

Elected to the board of directors were Paul Weisenmiller, Charles E. Smith, Rev. Seth Morrow, Mrs. Eleanor Westerfeld, Fr. Regis Larkin, Dr. Ivan Diehl, Byron Kight, Mrs. Albert S. Paye, and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

The 1951-52 program of activities was planned and adopted at the meeting.

The association's new techincolor film, "Rodney" was previewed.

A budget of $9,529.92 was offered and approved. This figure, Miss Reinhard pointed out, is about 25 per cent lower than last year's budget. The decrease was the result of cuts in administrative costs and Christmas seal costs. It does not, in any way, indicate a curtailment of services offered by the association, Miss Reinhard added.

In addition to Mrs. Evans, five members of the board of directors will hold positions through the coming year. They were elected to two-year terms last year. They are Mrs. Harry Barton, president; William J. Edwards, honorary chairman; Mrs. Julius Abramson, first vice president; J. Leo Delaney, secretary; and Joseph Naughton, treasurer.

Anglers Throng To Lakes At Opening Of Trout Season

Some 1,000 anglers turned up at Lake Koon Sunday as Pennsylvania's trout season opened.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, said 385 cars were parked in the area by 8 a. m.

Later in the day, he added, fishermen were lined up at about 15 foot intervals as they sought to catch some of the 35,000 lake and rainbow trout stocked in the dam last October.

William C. McInay, Bedford, Pa., fish and game warden, was on duty all day regulating the fishing and helping to guard against the scattering of litter.

Hitchcock said equally good fishing is slated at Lake Gordon, which was stocked with over 17,000 large mouth bass.

Although the bass season is not in at present Hitchcock said Lake Gordon can be fished for suckers, blue gills, pike, perch and catfish.

He said the water company is encouraging the stocking and fishing of the dams since a healthy balance of life in the water is desirable.
